Unemployment drops from 1996 to 1997

Unemployment in economic development Region 1 was cut by nearly half from December of 1996 to December of 1997 when the rate declined by four points from 9.4 to 5.4, according to information supplied by the Minnesota Department of Employment Security.

While every county in the region had a decrease in unemployment from December of 1996 to December of 1997, the most significant drop was from 17 percent to 5.5 percent in Roseau county. Layoffs at a major Roseau county industry in December of 1996 had resulted in the surge in unemployment in Roseau county.

The Roseau county workforce increased from 9,349 in December of 1996 to December of 1997 while the number of persons employed increased from 7,764 to 9,020 during the same period. Overall in Region 1, the workforce in December of 1997 was at 48,123—up from 47,166 the previous year and employment at 45,544 was up from 42,745. Total unemployment in the region in December of 1997 was 2,579, compared with 4,421 the previous year.

While December unemployment was down in every county from the same month in 1996, it was also up in every county from November of 1997 and up 1.2 percent overall in the region.

In Kittson county, December 1997 unemployment was 4.6 percent, down 3.7 percent from 8.3 in December of 1996 but up 1.2 percent from from 3.4 percent in November of 1997.

Marshall county unemployment in December of 1997 at 10.7 percent was down 4.9 percent from 15.6 in December of 1996 but up 2.3 percent from 8.4 percent in November.

Norman county unemployment rate in December of 1997 was 5.4 percent—down one percent from 6.4 the previous year but up .8 percent from 4.6 percent in November.

Pennington county's jobless rate in December of 1997 at 5.0 was down 2.1 percent from the prior year but up 1.2 percent from 3.8 percent in November.

Polk county unemployment in December of 1997 at 3.6 percent was down 1.3 percent from 4.9 percent in 1996 and up .1 percent from 3.5 percent in November.

In Red Lake county the December unemployment rate in 1997 was 10.1 percent, down 3.1 from 13.2 percent in December of 1996 and up 3.3 percent from 6.8 percent in November.

THANK YOU
We would like to thank the many relatives, friends and neighbors who sent cards, memorials and flowers following the death of our mother. A special thank you to Dana and Erika for the beautiful music and Pastor Paulson for his comforting words. Also, thanks to the Ladies Aid for the delicious lunch, the pallbearers, Petterson Funeral Home and to Judy, her caregiver. We would like to especially thank everyone who took the time to visit our mother in the past. You were all special to her. Your caring and kindness is greatly appreciated. May God bless all of you.

Bingo moves out, groceries move in

Mahnomen - According to sources close to the situation, the Golden Eagle Bingo Lodge in Mahnomen will be moved to the Shooting Star Casino. The bingo lodge is owned by the White Earth Reservation Tribal Council, the tribe is making plans to turn the Golden Eagle building into a grocery store. The Mahnomen Pioneer

Hallock police dept. down to one officer

Hallock - At a recent city council meeting, the Hallock city police department committee members recommended that the city try one officer for the next three months.

During this time the current police chief, Dale Hanson, will be given an extra $400 a month as a form of compensation for any overtime and other duties because of the one-man department.

The committee was not ready to recommend the hiring of a second officer and agreed to see how it goes with Hanson working a regular shift of 193 hours a month for the three-month trial period. At that time, the city will again review the issue. Kittson County Enterprise

Proposed budget cuts in Crookston schools unpopular

Crookston - Shock was the common reaction to the list of $999,213 in possible budget reductions for the 1998-99 year at Crookston's schools.

Elimination of the entire summer music program and the closing of Lincoln School met with the most opposition at the recent four-hour school board meeting. Other possible budget reductions included the elimination of the boy's swimming and boy's and girl's cross country, speech, one-act play, Knowledge Bowl and World Class.

An excess levy referendum would not be an answer to the district's problems. A vote could not be held until the November general election, and if passed, it wouldn't effect taxes paid until the summer of 1999. The district has to cut $1 from its general fund now. Crookston Daily Times

Replacements no problem for retiring firefighters

Red Lake Falls - Within the next five years, ten of Red Lake Fall's 22 volunteer firefighters will be eligible for retirement.

With a list of people to call when someone retires, Fire Chief Dan Geller does not anticipate that finding replacements will be any problem.

The 32 calls to the Red Lake Falls Fire Department were a decrease from 1996's all-time high of 34 calls. The Gazette

Club seeks flower girl dresses

The program will showcase vintage wedding gowns from as far back as 1912. To round out the show, flower girl dresses and little girls to model them are needed. The Messenger

Guest speaker scheduled to build interest for TRF Week of the Young Child

Dr. Martha (Marti) Erickson, PhD, will present a musical performance on the "ups and downs of parenting" as a prelude to the "Week of the Young Child" activities April 20-26 in Thief River Falls.

Dr. Erickson, director of the Children, Youth and Family Consortium at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, will present her performance Thursday, April 16, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at United Methodist Church. The event is free and intended for adults.

Dr. Marti Erickson

The consortium Dr. Erickson directs is a national program to link research, practice and policy for the well-being of children and families. She also is developer of the STEEP preventive intervention program for high risk parents and infants.

In 1997, for the fourth year in a row, she was co-sponsor of Vice President Al Gore's Family Re-Union policy conference in Nashville, TN. She serves on the board of the PBS television show Parenting Works, writes a weekly newspaper column called "Growing Concerns" and appears weekly on Twin Cities TV station KARE as the child and family expert for its Today Show.

Dr. Erickson writes music and is the lead vocalist with "Free Spirit," which performs at professional conferences and community events to raise awareness about child and family issues.

The Week of the Young Child itself will begin Monday, April 20 and continue through Sunday, April 26 with activities and/or events scheduled for each day. Further information on the events will be published as the week approaches.

The week is being sponsored by The Family Advocacy Program of School District 564 with Jill Johnson as director.

Home, Sport & Family Show March 28 & 29

Free registration will be conducted for dinner, an overnight stay and breakfast at The Inn at Maple Crossing at Maple Lake. The package for two people is valued at $150.

Entertainment on Saturday, March 28, will include a comedy and magic show from Fargo, ND, called Clowndimonium, sponsored by the River Road Casino. The two clowns presenting the show at 1:30 p.m. will also circulate throughout the arena from 1 p.m. to showtime and after the show until about 3:30 p.m., making balloon creations for youngsters.

On Sunday, March 29, at 2 p.m. a trick shooting exhibition will be presented by, and under the sponsorship of, the Thief River Falls Archery Club.

Thief River Falls Model Railroad club will again have a model train exhibit set up in the upper level concession area both days and Annette's Fabrics will demonstrate "Quilting Tool Time" featuring new and traditional quilting tools at 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Denise Laymon, director of the show, said that more than 100 exhibitors from Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada have been registered to participate. Company B of the National Guard will have equipment on display outside as well as a booth in the building. Northwestern Homes of Thief River Falls will have a manufactured home on display.

The more than 100 exhibitors will represent such interest areas as signs, real estate, travel, water conditioning, building materials, siding, windows, fireplaces, food, finance, camper trailers, boats, docks, lawn and garden, landscaping, snowmobiles, personal watercraft, state parks, camping, home-building, art, home fencing, farm buildings, books, communications, Internet, furniture, health, casino, home decorating, spas, heating systems, DSS systems, taxidermy, kitchen items, window decor, photography, Oriental items, kennel club, saddlery and sports magazine.

Crafters will display and sell ceramics, wood, Western items, jewelry, children's bonnets, clothing, florals, folk art and others.

"We're proud of the variety and quality of exhibits arranged for the show again this year," Laymon added. "There should be something of interest for almost everyone and we invite people from throughout the area to visit the number one home, sport and family show in northwest Minnesota."

Jim Engelstad (left), received an award in appreciation of his service as clerk of Rocksbury township board of supervisors. Engelstad has served as clerk for 40 years. The award was presented by Clayton Mathson, member of the township board of supervisors.

Home delivery—a first for the Great Plain EMS, Inc. at Thief River Falls—took place Sunday when Mrs. Michael (Julie) Jacobs gave birth to eight-pound, two-ounce Patrick Morgan at the family's home at 123 North St. Paul in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Jacobs had been checked and sent home from Northwest Medical Center about a half-hour earlier, but her labor rapidly accelerated. Her husband was working at Domino's Pizza when she made the 911 call at 5:34 p.m. Police and ambulance crew responded and assisted with the emergency delivery at 5:41 p.m. In the Jacobs' living room. Jim VanSchaick, paramedic, said the delivery involved use of the ambulance's home delivery kit and was "textbook with no complications." In fact, the activity didn't even disrupt the Jacobs' other three sons—Cameron, 4; Taylor, 3; and Collin, almost 2—from watching cartoons on TV. Julie and Patrick were transported to the medical center where they spent their normal two nights before being discharged. Pictured with Mrs. Jacobs and her baby are, from left, Brant Monroe, police officer who also works part time with the EMS; Doug Johnston, EMT-I; and Jim VanSchaick, paramedic (all responders to the 911 call); and Dr. Jeannine Fortin, who took over care at the hospital. Johnston, who has worked with the local ambulance service for 14 years and been along on many expectant mother transports, said this was the first time the ambulance crew was involved with a delivery.

Lincoln choirs present musical tour of nations

Multi-cultural revue entitled Songs of the Homelands will be presented by the Lincoln high school choirs under the direction of Darcy Reese Monday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium. Doors will open at 6:45 p.m.

Songs from Czechoslovakia, Russia, Hungary, Ireland, Brazil, Venezuela and the United States will be featured with students performing in Czechoslovakian, Russian, Spanish, Hungarian and even English.

A special feature of the concert will be performances by two foreign exchange students who are members of the choir. Alex Primakov, who is from Russia, will play a piano selection by a Russian composer. Jamilia Ismailova, who is from Baku, will read in Russian and play a famous folk song from her country on the piano.

"The Russian language has been very challenging and rewarding to learn for the concert choir," Mrs. Reese said. "To further our appreciation for the language, the choir will be going to the Russian opera Ruslan and Lyudmila at the Metropolitan Opera House during our spring tour to New York City. The entire three and one-half hour production will be in Russian. Thank heavens for translation boxes on each chair!"

Slides from each of the countries will be presented on three huge screens as readers give the characteristics and facts of each of the countries. Authentic music from the various countries will be playing as the choir members take their place on stage. The entire performance moves continuously from start to finish with non-stop music, the director said.

Pianist Jamilie Ismailova, who is from Baku in the former USSR, will be featured at the Lincoln high school choir concert Monday, March 16.

Russian exchange student Aleksandr Primakov will perform at the Lincoln high school choir concert Monday in the school auditorium.

Vocal soloists during the production include Leslie Swanson, Brian Unbehaun, Brian Loe and Karen Christensen. Anthems from each country will be performed by Rachel Mathson, Beth Nelson, Kelsi Holland, Mandy Bitzegalo, Katie Christensen and Janna Unbehaun.

Pianists for the concert include Cathy Hagen and students Paul Dehnert, Jessica Krankkala and Nikolas Kotz.

Mrs. Reese said the finale will include a major composition by the Northwest Dairy Day ends

Discontinuance of Northwest Dairy Day after 48 years of operation has been decided by the board of the sponsoring Northwest Dairy Improvement Association.

"Having found no reasonable means to increase the youth numbers at the show, we have decided to end Northwest Dairy Day as we've known it," stated association president Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator.

> "...we have decided to end Northwest Dairy Day as we've known it."
> – Howard Person, president Northwest Dairy Improvement Ass'n.

Person said surveys had been sent out to dairy families with children who would be eligible to show at Dairy Day in the 16-county ADA Region I. Thirty-one responses were received but no consensus as to what should be done. Last year only 22 exhibitors showed less than 50 cattle at the 48th annual event.

The Region I Dairy Princess contest will be conducted on Saturday, June 13, in Thief River Falls at the Best Western Inn. This is part of the Minnesota ADA Princess Kay of the Milky Way program.

Person said the association has some funds remaining and will be looking for some means to use it in support of youth and the dairy industry.

Rotunda rail at Ada courthouse a safety issue

Ada - The guard rail around the rotunda at the Norman County Courthouse in Ada has become a safety issue. There are a number of broken pieces in the decorative cast iron railing, and one of the pieces fell to the floor during a recent court day.

The county board decided to put up a snow fence while trying to learn what can be done about repairing the railing as well as what would be allowed by the Minnesota Historical Society, since the courthouse is on the National Register. Norman County Index

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I need chocolate recipes this weekend - my daughters will be home. Let's try some together.

SUNDAE PIE
2/3 cup packed light brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chocolate syrup
2 1/4 cups milk
3 egg yolks, beaten well
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
Maraschino cherries, if desired (try green ones for St. Paddy's Day)
Sweetened whipped cream, if desired
Chocolate bar, broken into pieces, if desired
Prepare crust first
Macaroon-Nut Crust
1 1/4 cups coconut macaroon cookie crumbs
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/4 cup melted butter

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In medium bowl, stir together coconut macaroon cookie crumbs, chopped walnuts and butter. Press into bottom and up sides of 9 inch pie pan. Bake 8-10 minutes. Cool completely.

In medium saucepan, stir brown sugar, flour, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in milk, syrup and egg yolks. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat.

Stir in butter and vanilla. Pour into prepared pie crust and place plastic wrap directly on surface. Cool and then refrigerate.

To serve, garnish with any or all of the desired ingredients. Store, covered, in refrigerator.

CHOCOLATE BROWNIE PIE
3 squares unsweetened baking chocolate
3 eggs
1/3 cup butter, softened
1 1/2 cups sugar
3/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts
Ice cream or whipped cream, if desired

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 9 inch pie plate.

In top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water, melt chocolate. Set aside to cool.

In small bowl, beat eggs until very light. Set aside.

In small mixer bowl, beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add chocolate and eggs to butter mixture and beat until blended.

Stir flour and salt together and add to butter mixture alternately with milk. Stir in vanilla and nuts and pour into prepared pie pan.

Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until set. Cool and serve with ice cream or whipped cream.

This sounds so easy and yet so yummy - and the frosting is an old favorite Grandma used to make (she didn't use a recipe but the "slap and dash" method):

SIMPLE COCOA LAYER CAKE
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, separated
2 cups flour
1/2 cup cocoa
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 cups milk
Busy Day Cocoa Icing

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 8 inch round baking pans.

In large mixer bowl, beat butter, sugar and vanilla until creamy. Add egg yolks and beat well.

Stir flour, cocoa, baking powder, soda and salt. Add alternately with milk to butter mixture.

In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into batter. Pour batter into prepared pans and bake 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Cool 10 minutes in pans before removing to racks. Cool completely and frost with Busy Day Cocoa Icing.

Busy Day Cocoa Icing
1/4 cup butter
6 tablespoons boiling water
1/2 cup cocoa
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups powdered sugar

In small bowl, stir butter and water until butter is melted. Add cocoa and vanilla and beat until well blended.

Gradually add powdered sugar, beating until smooth and creamy and of spreading consistency. Add additional water, a little at a time, if necessary.

Here's a very rich candy-dessert that will disappear in minutes unless you cut it very small:

CHOCOLATE COCONUT SQUARES
1/3 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons water
2 1/4 cups plus 2 tablespoons flaked coconut, divided
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup chocolate chips
1/3 cup toasted slivered almonds or chopped pecans

Butter 8 inch square pan and set aside.

In small saucepan, stir together corn syrup, sugar and water. Cook to 234 on thermometer (don't let thermometer touch bottom of pan), or until syrupy (when dropped into very cold water, forms a ball which flattens when removed from water). Remove from heat.

Stir in 2 1/4 cups coconut and vanilla. Pour mixture into prepared pan.

In top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water, melt chocolate chips. Spread over coconut mixture. Sprinkle with almonds and remaining 2 tablespoons coconut. Cool and cut into squares.

These cookies will be a hit for St. Paddy's Day if you tint your filling green and serve with a shamrock:

CHOCOLATE SANDWICH COOKIES
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/4 cups cocoa
3/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt

In large bowl, beat butter, sugar, egg and vanilla until light and fluffy.

Stir together flour, cocoa, soda and salt and add to butter mixture.

Divide dough in half and shape each part into 1 1/2 inch thick rolls. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate 4-5 hours or until firm enough to slice.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Cut dough into 1/8 inch thick slices. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and decorate by drawing tines of fork across each slice. Bake 8-10 minutes or until almost firm.

Remove to wire rack. Cool completely.

Creamy Filling
1/4 cup butter, softened
2 1/2 cups powdered sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Food color, if desired

In small bowl, beat butter, powdered sugar, milk and vanilla until creamy and of spreading consistency. If desired, color filling. (Variation: add strawberry extract to pink filling, mint extract to green filling.)

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Last week, at the invitation of Rep. Jim Tunheim and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, I attended hearings in Crookston and Hallock on the farm crisis in northwestern Minnesota. As Senate Assistant Majority Leader, I went to listen to the personal struggles of local residents and bring back your suggestions for assistance to my colleagues around the state.

I was hardly prepared for what I heard. The farmers in northwestern Minnesota are facing a very serious situation — truly a silent crisis. Five years of poor wheat production and extremely low prices have had a devastating effect on farmers of the area.

This is not just about a family's livelihood. This crisis is about people's lives — your families, your future, your communities. People who have worked hard for so many years have nothing to pass on to their children. As one young farmer said with trembling emotion: "Look out there. Do you see any young farmers?" Indeed, I saw few.

As a legislator from the metropolitan area, my eyes were opened — wide. I have supported over $3 million to the University of Minnesota for wheat scab research in past years, and was pleased to support the 20 percent reduction in tax rates on non-homesteaded agricultural land, and the phase-out of sales tax on new farm machinery recently passed by the Minnesota Senate. But it's clear that more must be done.

Your voices made an impact. I will work in partnership with your local legislators to explore other options — interest buy-downs, state-guaranteed operating loans, and more research at the University of Minnesota, to name some. We also must give more support to families through mediation services and crisis outreach. We can't let this farm crisis take down generations of rural Minnesota families.

Thank you for speaking out. Your silent crisis will be silent no more.

Sincerely,
Sen. Ember Reichgott Junge
Senate Ass't Majority Leader
DFL- New Hope

To The Editor:

I feel compelled to respond to your recent editorial entitled "Camp MOE To Be Sold" from the Northern Watch dated March 7, 1998.

As a brief history, I moved to the Thief River Falls area (Viking, to be exact) in the fall of 1989 and have resided here since then. I have been involved with Girl Scouting and in particular the Pine to Prairie Council as an adult volunteer for all these years. Frankly, reading this editorial as it was written, concerned me enough to make a response.

I feel it is important when writing an editorial that all points of interest be brought to light. In the case of this editorial, I do not believe that is the case.

Do we know what process was behind this decision made by the council board? What has prompted their decision? Perhaps we should know.

I have been to Camp MOE on more than one occasion when day camps were held, but not for several years. What is the condition of the camp? Safety is a key issue within the Girl Scout organization. What are the camp facilities' safety needs and concerns?

How about the Americans With Disabilities Act? Is the camp user-friendly for the disabled? What would the cost be to make this camp accessible? Were members of the task force assigned the duty of studying these issues and locations contacted? There was a report made on the findings. Has there been any attempt to see this report, which is available?

We must have a total understanding of the process before we pass judgment on the decisions made. It isn't easy, as I see it, being a board member of the Pine to Prairie Council—an all volunteer job. Having to make tough decisions like this one is not easy.

My wife is on the board for Pine to Prairie Council and as some of her duties she has chaired the nominating committee whose duty it is to find adult volunteers to serve on the board. It is not an easy task, let me tell you, because I've been there when my wife made call after call after call (at our own expense). She takes rejection well.

Now, with this issue, everyone is a critic. All I can say is, where were you critics when called upon to serve on the board? Let's hope in the coming days that with open minds cooler heads will prevail. Thanks for your time.

Yours in Scouting,
Gerald Rockstad
Viking, Minnesota

Northwest Dairy Day: Another Casualty Of Decline In Dairy Farms

Announcement this week by Howard Person, chairman of the Northwest Dairy Improvement Association, that "we have decided to end Northwest Dairy Day as we've known it" was almost like news of a death in the family. No Northwest Dairy Day? What possibly could have happened to bring about such a terminal situation?

Actually, the somber news was not all that unexpected. Northwest Dairy Day, for all its proud past and heroic support, has been failing for some time. Rapid decline in the dairy industry in the past couple of years alone has reduced the annual dairy cattle show to a mere skeleton of its former self.

Person pointed out in a letter announcing the association's decision that last year only 22 young people showed less than 50 head of cattle at the 48th annual event. That is an average scarcely over one exhibitor per county, since Northwest Dairy Day is a regional event for 16 northwestern Minnesota counties.

The number of dairy farms in Pennington county alone has dropped from about 120 as recently as 1985 to about 30 at the present time — a 75 percent loss in dairy farm families. Other counties have experienced similar losses. The pool of dairy farm families with youngsters being interested in dairying and aspiring to follow their parents into the business has diminished to a puddle.

Good dairymen have developed their own herds with their own replacement heifers over the years and the availability of top sires through AI programs has made it possible to upgrade within the herd. Large herds now buy their replacements or animals for expansion from enterprises that specialize in raising heifers for that purpose. The advertising and recognition value of dairy day showmanship to individual farmers has thus declined.

In recent years the consistent exhibitors and supporters of Northwest Dairy Day have been those who have wanted to give their children the experience of showmanship and responsibility that goes with it. There has been some pride in animals from the herd successfully competing against all comers, and the attraction of top prizes has appealed to some. Perhaps most of all, however, it was the tradition of the event that had the most appeal to families who came to the show year after year, some into the third generation.

We would have liked to see the event hold on for another couple of years to reach the 50-year milestone, but we can understand the feelings of the association board. No matter how furiously you pump the handle, you don't get any water from a dry well. You know the time has come to quit pumping.

Northwest Dairy Day from its inception was a noble concept, and to a large extent it accomplished its purpose. The founders nearly half a century ago wanted to provide an activity for young people in dairy families and provide an incentive for improvement of the quality of dairy cattle in the area. They solicited and received the cooperation and financial support of area banks and creameries and local businesses to provide every young exhibitor a prize for participation.

That format continued to be followed throughout the history of Dairy Day—with the exception of the loss of rural creameries to the point they are virtually nonexistent today. Financial support continued and over the years thousands of young people had the opportunity to experience participating in the dairy show for the northwest part of Minnesota. The quality of cattle in the region and at Northwest Dairy Day showed a huge improvement, as envisioned by the founders.

Since this area remains as Region 1 of the Minnesota American Dairy Association, it will continue with its regional competition in the Princess Kay of the Milky Way program, at least for 1998 and perhaps into the future. The regional contest is set for Saturday, June 13, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

The Times and Northern Watch have covered and promoted Northwest Dairy Day extensively and put a great deal of extra time and expense—perhaps to excess—into doing so. We have felt it was a worthy event for an important industry. Termination of Dairy Day will leave a big hole in the routine for late May and early June.

It is perhaps best not to dwell on the end of a long-standing event but on the good that it did during its existence. Thousands of hours of work were provided by boards and volunteer workers. Former participants have lasting memories of their Dairy Day experiences. Attention was focused on an important ag industry that improved continuously until recent market factors made dramatic changes in its profitability.

Northwest Minnesota is a better place with better people because there has been a Northwest Dairy Day. That is a legacy that can be remembered with pride.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

The greatest impact to the human race is well underway and Americans are told it is all for their own good. And so, the deafening silence you hear is a nation's lack of resistance as American liberty disappears under a central organizing principle called "sustainable development."

"Sustainable" comes up at meeting after meeting that I attend and it isn't even in my Merriam Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (1994 Edition). "Sustainability" is a term that is just beginning to reach every citizen, however, in the months ahead, it will dominate virtually every aspect of American life.

The concept was first defined in 1987 by George Brundtland of the World Socialist Party. It has spread across the world, and will soon inundate every American community.

Imagine an America in which a specific "ruling principle" was created to decide proper social conduct for every citizen! That principle would be used to consider everything you eat, what you wear, the kind of home you live in, the way you get to work, the number of children you have, the way you dispose of waste and even your education and employment decisions. Imagine that all of these decisions were called "voluntary"—but that the federal government would provide incentives and use the nation's education and entertainment fields to induce "correct behavior!"

This appears to be in man's future, and is the bridge to the Twenty-first Century that President Clinton and Al Gore promised to take us across. The vehicle to take us there is called "sustainable development."

Originated by the United Nations, embraced by the Clinton/Gore administration, implemented by an army of non-government organizations (NGOs), "sustainability" is spreading across America like wildfire. Minnesota is seeing it in Community Based Planning legislated in 1997. The federal government, in collaboration with selected NGOs, is encouraging the creation of local "sustainability councils" which are to become the driving force in the reorganization of society.

Minnesota has its Advisory Council in place and is going full speed ahead. It again is supposed to be "voluntary" with grants and incentives, however, they have been instructed to propose changes to the law for the 1998 legislative session.

The work of the council is to devise whatever mechanisms may be necessary to achieve several objectives: reduce consumption—especially energy, restore biodiversity through an ecosystem management approach; stop urban sprawl, and convince local residents that they are "unethical" if they fail to support whatever it takes to achieve these objectives, through massive coordinated reeducation and propaganda campaigns.

Most Americans have not seen the warnings and will not recognize the dangers until they are drowning in sustainability. By using a variety of start-up mechanisms and an assortment of names, the well-coordinated effort disguises the appearance of the massive federal/international social re-engineering project that is underway. Each of the reorganizational components will be revealed over time, only as is necessary, to avoid the inevitable backlash from private citizens as they learn how their lives will be impacted.

The fact of the matter is that how you are to live in your own community has been determined in Gland, Switzerland, and confirmed by the United Nations in Rio de Janeiro, and embraced by Al Gore in Washington, and is now being imposed upon you in the name of "sustainability."

Respectfully Submitted,
Bev Hewitt
Lancaster, Minnesota

(Editor's Note: The remainder of Mrs. Hewitt's lengthy but insightful letter will be published in the March 21 edition of the Northern Watch.)

TRF city council approves '98 improvement project

Thief River Falls City Council approved the feasibility report for the proposed 1998 street, sidewalk and utilities improvements project. Plans include the bituminous replacement on First Street from the First Street Bridge to Highway 59.

The net cost of the project has been estimated at over $1.5 million. The total estimated cost to the city, however, is expected at about $500,000. Financing for the remaining estimated cost will come from a number of sources including Minnesota State Aid system funds, local department funds, Jobs Inc. and Northwest Medical Escrow.

The complete restoration of First Street from the First Street bridge to Highway 59 was discussed. It was determined, however, that it would not be financially feasible at this time. The plans, therefore, call for bituminous surface repair, which is new to the city, but has been used successfully in other areas of Minnesota. The method used, consists of reclaiming the existing bituminous pavement and Class 5 aggregate base by milling, mixing and recompacting the upper nine-inch thick layer of street surface. Excess combined materials would be removed and salvaged for use by the city on other municipal streets. Minor sections of curb and gutter would be replaced and a new five-inch thick layer of bituminous pavement installed. The new bituminous would be saw cut and sealed at 50-foot intervals in an attempt to control future cracking.

Sidewalk replacement is also being proposed for 1200 linear feet along the north side of First Street, including initial sidewalk installation along the south side of Engelstad Park. The project calls for installation of 10 handicap ramps at street intersections.

Properties abutting the intersecting avenues would not be assessed for the improvements under the city's current assessment policy. There are approximately 500 linear feet of properties that front on First Street and have no access to the intersecting avenues. These properties could be assessed for part of the project costs if they have not previously paid an assessment for avenue benefits.

The 1998 improvement project also includes paving a parking lot at the water department distribution garage, bituminous surfacing on the municipal parking lot at Second Street and LaBree Avenue, sidewalk repairs in the central business district, improvements to the riverwalk and parking lot near the dam, and an extension of utilities to the southwest industrial park.

Bids on the project are expected to be opened and awarded in late May.

■ A two year contract with Mesaba Airlines was approved by the City Council. The contract calls for about a 2.5 percent increase, and deals with rental space, landing weight, and possession of a certificate of insurance.

■ Police Chief Ken Froschheiser presented the 1997 Annual Report on Police Department Activities to the council. The report, which is detailed in a separate news story in The Times, notes a slight increase in calls reported to law enforcement.

■ The Council accepted the resignation of Police Officer Scott Maslowski, who has been with the police department for 19 years. The council then approved a motion appointing Maslowski to fill the public works maintenance-government buildings position effective April 2.

Items approved from the consent agenda included: a low quote on a 1998 Arctic 4x4 all terrain vehicle by Hamm's Repair in Warren; a salary progression raise for Rick Gorde, apprentice lineworker; call for bids on primary cable for the electric department; the low quote of Tunberg Motors on a 1999 Ford pickup with seven-foot box; and two dance applications submitted by Eric Jensen (Music Patrol) for March 27 and April 9 at the Armory.

■ The Council also discussed Local Government Aid (LGA) or state government aid to smaller cities. LGA and HACA have been reduced nearly every year since 1990 despite large increases in state revenues. It has had an adverse impact on local government revenues, especially since the legislature has also placed a limit on levys.

Hetteen to speak at Roseau open house

Edgar Hetteen and several of the people mentioned prominently in his autobiography Breaking Trail will be at the Roseau Library-Museum Sunday, March 15, from 1 to 4 p.m. The meet-the-author open house is the concluding event of Polaris Founders' Week in Roseau.

Hetteen will be available to autograph his book from 1 to 2 and 3 to 3:45 p.m. At 2 p.m. Bob Bergland will introduce Hetteen and one of his two early partners, David Johnson. Edgar's brother, now deceased, was also a partner. Johnson and Allan Hetteen stayed with Polaris when Edgar moved to Thief River Falls and founded Arctic Enterprises.

Other key figures in "Breaking Trail" are Erling Falk, Rudy and Bessie Billberg, who accompanied Edgar on a 1,200-mile snowmobile trip in Alaska in 1960. After Hetteen's brief talk, questions may be directed to the founders until 3 p.m. when refreshments will be served.

Published earlier this year, Breaking Trail is available in hardcover and will be for sale at the library-museum. A portion of each sale will go to the Roseau Public Library. Readers may also bring their own copies for signing.

People who come early or stay after the program will have other opportunities to learn about the history of Polaris Industries. Erling Falk will show a selection of his slides from the life-threatening Alaska trip in the meeting room and a video related to Breaking Trail will be shown in the library. A 1960 model Sno-Traveler such as the ones used on the Alaska trip will be on display.

Roseau Area Writers' Workshop and Roseau County Historical Society are co-sponsors of the open house. Refreshments will be provided by Polaris, Roseau Civic and Commerce Association and the Library Friends hospitality committee. The public is welcome to drop in any time from 1 to 4 p.m.

To conclude the event, Hetteen will meet briefly with the Roseau Area Writers' Workshop from 3:45 to 4:15 p.m. The session will replace the regularly scheduled March 12 meeting.

Sen. Stumpf bills advance in state legislative process

Deadline for passing bills through legislative committees was Friday, February 27, and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls says that most of his legislative agenda has passed through senate committees and is on its way to becoming law.

"This session has been busier than most," Sen. Stumpf said. "This is supposed to be a short session, but there are a lot of issues that our constituents want us to address."

Much of the legislation being carried by Stumpf this year deals with flood recovery issues. One bill will allow families who had to abandon their agricultural homestead due to the flood to claim an agricultural homestead on their new home in future years, so long as the new home is located within 30 miles of the flooded homestead. The special exemption was set to expire in 1998.

Other Stumpf bills would make it easier for National Guard troops and other state agencies to give and receive aid from other states; provide more state money for the construction of farmstead ring dikes; and appropriate millions of state dollars to defray much of the cost for flood control projects in East Grand Forks and Warren. A trial program to pay landowners for flood storage easements has also been approved by senate committees.

"These bills aren't law yet," the senator said, "but since they have come this far we have a good chance." Conference committees made up of members of the House and Senate will begin meeting next week to iron out differences in bills passed by both bodies.

Several other bills which Sen. Stumpf said were requested by constituents are also progressing through the senate. The cap on payments to farmers who suffer livestock losses due to wolf depredation will be increased from the current $400 to $750 under one Stumpf bill. The process to prove livestock losses due to wolf kills is made simpler, which means farmers could expect to receive reimbursement more easily.

A bill which Stumpf introduced but was not heard this year was one to permit the Department of Natural Resources to limit the number of timber wolves in Minnesota to 1,400. Stumpf said that current estimates place the wolf population at as many as 3,000.

"We've put into the record that northern Minnesotans think there are too many wolves, and that it's time to start limiting their numbers," he said. "I expect to press the issue again in 1999 when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is expected to rule on whether or not it will turn over management of wolves in Minnesota to the state DNR."

Sen. Stumpf has also authored a bill in the senate which calls for rider education requirements for users of personal watercraft. In the House, a bill which many PWC owners feel is unnecessarily prohibitive is making progress.

"This is an important issue for all of Minnesota but especially for our area," Stumpf said. "Both Polaris Industries and Arctic Cat Inc., the only two American manufacturers of personal watercraft, are located in this district. Both companies are major employers in the area."

"I think PWC riders can coexist with other users of lakes and rivers," he said. "There are a few PWC operators who are making a bad name for everyone else. Increased enforcement of existing law and better efforts to educate people should take care of most problems."

Stumpf said he expect the legislature to adjourn for the year in early April.

Greg Ueland listed among finalists for '98 Triple A Award

Greg Ueland of Marshall County Central is one of eight finalists in the Class A boys portion of the 1998 Minnesota State High School League Academics, Arts and Athletics Award.

This is the tenth consecutive year the MSHSL will honor 32 of the state's top high school students – 16 boys and 16 girls in Class A and Class AA – with the Triple A Award during ceremonies at the boys state basketball tournament.

The award goes to high school seniors who have a 3.0 or higher grade-point average and who participate in MSHSL-sponsored athletic and fine arts activities. Every member school of the League is invited to participate by enrolling two students from their school in the program. More than 300 schools participated this year.

"For nearly a decade, the League and its member schools have recognized the all-around accomplishments of more than 4,000 students through the Triple A program," said Dave Stead, executive director of the Minnesota State High School League.

The 32 students vying for the Triple A Award were selected by a multi-level process involving the League's member schools and 16 regional committees. Four of these students – a boy and a girl from both a Class A and a Class AA school – will receive a $1,000 scholarship from the award program's new sponsor, Edina-based Golden Valley Microwave Foods.

League officials will announce the award winners at a recognition banquet Saturday, March 21, at 12-noon in the St. Paul RiverCentre Roy Wilkins Ballroom. Following the banquet, all of the award finalists and winners will participate in an on-court awards ceremony during the 3 p.m. Class AA tournament championship game.

Disaster loans available for area businesses

Businesses affected by flooding, severe storms and blizzard conditions during the winter of 1996 and into the spring of 1997 may apply to the Northwest Regional Enterprise Fund, Inc. for a Disaster Relief Loan. Businesses in Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties can apply for loans ranging from $5,000 to $150,000 at an interest rate four points below the Prime Lending Rate, to a minimum of four percent. Interested persons should contact Linda Nelson, Loan Fund Manager at the Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) at 218-745-6733.

The Disaster Relief Loan Fund was established by the Enterprise Fund of the NWRDC to provide financing to businesses affected by weather related and other disasters. The Fund can assist businesses in locations declared disaster areas by the state and/or federal government. Examples of assistance include working capital for loss of income while the business was closed during the disaster, replacement of inventory and fixed assets lost as a result of the disaster, re-financing of loans from private lenders which were incurred as a result of the disaster, and other assistance.

To be eligible for a Disaster Loan Fund, applications must show that the business was viable/profitable prior to the disaster and that a loss in sales or financial damages was suffered as a result of severe weather conditions. Applicants must also show that no other financing is available or feasible for the business at affordable terms. A loan from the Disaster Revolving Loan Fund must be matched on a one-to-one basis by a bank or other private financing source.

Funding for the loans originated from the U.S. Economic Development Administration and local matching funds.

Members sought for Regional Enterprise Fund

Northwest Regional Enterprise Fund, Inc. is seeking nominations for persons to represent banking, business, minorities and women. Nomination forms are available by calling Linda Nelson or Karl Frigaard at the Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) at 218-745-6733.

The Enterprise Fund operates, in conjunction with the NWRDC, a revolving loan fund program for businesses in Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, and Roseau counties. Enterprise Fund meetings are held three times a year and the membership terms are for three years.

The Economic Development committee of the NWRDC is partially comprised of members of the Enterprise Fund. The Economic Development Program updates the Overall Economic Development Program for the region and provides services for economic development activities in northwestern Minnesota.

New sporting goods store open at Warroad

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

If Fred Streiff and Conway Marvin don't know your name when you walk through the door of Streiff Sporting Goods, they will know it by the time you leave and they'll remember it.

Personalized service in a warm, relaxed atmosphere is top priority at this Warroad business.

Wednesday was the business' first day in it's new home, an 8,000-square foot newly constructed log building located four miles west of Warroad on Highway 11.

During his 11 years as owner of Streiff Sporting Goods, Fred Streiff built a strong customer base through his dedication to customer service. Last year he sold the business to Conway and Mary Marvin. Streiff remains general manager. In addition to Marvin and Streiff, there are four full-time and six part-time employees.

To prepare for the move, a sale was held to reduce inventory at its former location, and the store was closed from Sunday until Tuesday. While any relocation is hard work, Streiff said that they had more offers and more help than they actually needed to move the business from its former site five miles west of Warroad on County Road 5.

In addition to the inventory from the previous location, new inventory is being added daily. The store carries a large selection of guns and accessories, archery equipment and a newly added fishing department with rods, reels, tackle and live bait. Veteran fisherman Dale Telle of Warroad was busy tying spinners and organizing the fishing department on Thursday morning. "If anyone can catch fish on Lake of the Woods, it's Dale," Fred said.

Streiff's also plans to expand its clothing department and boot line, offering casual clothing for men, women and children in addition to a large selection of outdoor and hunting wear.

A line of hand-made log furniture, gourmet food items and luggage can also be found at Streiff's Sporting Goods.

In addition to the coffee it offers, the store sells soft drinks, snacks and vendor sandwiches.

The approximate 120 male and female participants in its winter indoor archery league are continuing the program in the new indoor range at the store where up to 14 archers can shoot at once. When winter league is over and weather permits, archers will enjoy the outdoor 40-animal 3-D range located on the wooded property. Both the indoor and outdoor ranges were approved Monday by the National Field Archers Association.

A unique and sure-to-be popular addition to the new store is the DART video archery shooting system which, according to Streiff, is the only one north of the Twin Cities. "It's as close to real hunting as you can get," he said. The game is located in a room at the front of the store, and up to three people can compete at once. Players select a computer disc, choosing from a variety of hunting scenes. Actual footage appears on a nine-by-nine-foot screen 60 feet from the shooter as a "surround-sound" speaker system allows players to hear the wind blow and noises made by the animal as it moves as well as narrated instructions. As in real hunting situations, timing is of the essence. His Visitors can view both the large retail area or indoor shooting range from the loft at Streiff Sporting Goods in Warroad. The sporting goods retailer moved to its new location this past week and Wednesday was its first day of business in the 8,000-square-foot log structure. Owner Conway Marvin and general manager Fred Streiff offer a friendly, relaxed atmosphere where customer service is a top priority.

Argyle youth second in KC freethrow contest

Argyle - Competing in the 10-year-old division, Nevin Lubarski, Argyle, placed second in the Knights of Columbus Hoop Shoot in St. Joseph recently.

Nevin and Caleb Thielbar of Randolph each made 23 of 25 baskets during the regulation shoot-out, tying for first place. In the exciting four series shoot-off, Caleb made 18 of 20 shots and Nevin made 17 of 20. Totals for the day put Thielbar in first place and Nevin in second place. The Messenger

Marvin Windows opens Grafton facility March 17

Grafton, ND - Over 1,000 people turned out to tour Marvin Window's new window making facility located in Grafton's Industrial park.

The new $8 million, 256,000 square foot facility currently has about 90 employees. The company plans to increase the number to 150 this summer, and eventually to about 500 employees by 2001.

Grafton's plant will mainly produce aluminum-clad windows, one of the company's fastest growing products. The Walsh County Record

Whitefeather files for second term

Redlake - Tribal Chairman Bobby Whitefeather filed for a second four-year term as chairman of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa. Elections are slated for May 20. His only challenger so far is former tribal chairman Gerald "Butch" Orun. Filing closes today (Saturday, March 21).

Rules have changed since the last election. In 1996, Red Lake voters approved a tribal constitution amendment requiring a majority for election. If there is no majority winner, the top two vote-getters will advance to a run-off election. The Pioneer

NW Angle makes a plea to secede from the U.S.

Northwest Angle - Residents of the Northwest Angle are pushing a plea to save their tourist-based economy by promoting a federal bill to allow them to secede from the United States.

Repeated changes by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Canadian Customs restricting catch limits and access to Ontario water on Lake of the Woods have caused frustration. The lastest restriction restricts "Day Trippers," fisherman who fish Ontario waters but do not stay overnight in Ontario, from keeping any walleye or sauger they catch.

Over the past 20 years, the repeated efforts made to seek remedy from state and federal officials have proved fruitless. A representative of the NW Angle Landowners Association feels the secession plan is their best effort. The Northern Light

Red Lake Electric annual meeting on Wednesday

Red Lake Electric Cooperative will have $293,000 in capital credit checks available for members when it holds its annual meeting Wednesday, March 25, at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls. Registration and distribution of capital credit checks begins at 9 a.m.

Cathy Erickson Band will provide entertainment at 10 a.m. with president Veral Mosbeck calling the meeting to order at 10:30 a.m. Secretary-treasurer Henry Wieland will note establishment of a quorum and present minutes of the 1997 annual meeting.

Reports will be given by president Mosbeck and general manager Ron Kennedy with Roger Johanneck presenting the financial report and David Loer the Minnkota report. Mosbeck will preside at the election of directors and adjournment will follow a question and answer session.

Directors whose terms expire this year are Tom Yutrzenka, Viking, a nine-year board member from District 3; Henry Wieland, Red Lake Falls, a 15-year member from District 6; and Veral Mosbeck, Red Lake Falls, a 21-year member from District 9. All are nominated by their districts for reelection.

Additional entertainment by the Cathy Erickson band, award presentations and prize drawings and lunch will follow the meeting.

In a report to the membership included with the March issue of Volts and Jolts, the cooperative's monthly newspaper, president Mosbeck and manager Kennedy said strong energy sales continued throughout 1997—so strong that the cooperative issued a rebate of $200,000 to its members in the form of a credit on their energy bills for December.

The statement of operations for 1997 shows energy sales for that year declined to $5,899,854 from $6,160,386 in 1996, a drop of $260,532. The $200,000 December rebate was deducted from actual electric energy sales of $6,099,854 for 1997, however, reducing the decline to an actual $60,532.

Miscellaneous electric sales also dropped to $51,823 from $118,965. Total income from electric sales was down by $327,674 (including the rebate) to $5,951,677 from $6,279,351.

Power costs to the cooperative were down about $43,000 to $3,644,885 from $3,687,564. Costs for line operation, customer service, electric sales and administrative and general were up, but more than offset by the lower energy cost and reduced expenses for line maintenance and consumer accounts.

Fixed charges were up to $823,989 from $810,127 with the major increases being a hike of nearly $14,000 in property taxes, $6,000 in depreciation and $3,000 in interest expense.

Total margins of the cooperative were $514,461 in 1997, a drop of $245,200 from total margins of $759,661 a year ago.

The cooperative closed the year with $16,128,408 in total assets—down about $113,000 from 1996.

Roseau inventors turn invention into business

In 1993 Lenard, Tom and Jilleen Johnson of Roseau received the grand prize at the Minnesota Inventors Congress (MIC) in Redwood Falls for their first invention, the E-Z Eye grain bin level indicator.

Last year they exhibited their LevALERT Indicator at the MIC and the updated, more complex mechanical/electronic version of the first invention also won the grand prize.

"If you have an invention you'll want to show it at the Minnesota Inventors Congress," Tom Johnson says. "There is so much to be gained."

This year's MIC—the 41st annual—will take place June 12, 13 and 14 at Redwood Valley School in Redwood Falls. The congress is a non-profit volunteer based organization dedicated to the advancement of inventors and their ideas.

A story about the Johnsons as 1993 and 1997 grand prize winners at the congress was written by Betty Galstad, an MIC volunteer. She notes that both of the Roseau inventors' products are being sold in Australia, Canada, Europe, Mexico, Pacific rim countries, South America as well as the United States.

The remainder of Galstad's story follows.

Tom and his father Lenard saw a need for a mechanical visual bin level indicator after a wet harvest season in 1986.

"We were up and down the bin ladders constantly," Tom said. "It was close to Christmas time before we were done drying the grain. The bin ladders were slippery from the frost. Then the idea came .. what we need is an indicator like the heat thermometer inserted into a turkey, the kind that pop up red when done. Dad and I spent many hours in the shop, on many models, before we came up with E-Z Eye.

"After E-Z Eye Indicator was on the market we received wonderful feedback from our customers on what added features they felt would enhance the product," Tom adds.

Suggested were improved visibility, the need to install the complete indicator from outside the bin wall, reflective tape for night use

TRF Foundation has funds available

Thief River Falls Foundation has a limited amount of funds available for post-secondary student loans, it was pointed out by secretary-treasurer Shurleen Adams at the annual meeting of the foundation Tuesday, March 17, at Northern State Bank in Thief River Falls.

Directors of the foundation noted that the loan funds might be of most value to students whose family income is high enough that they do not qualify for low income college assistance, but who would otherwise have a difficult time providing enough funds for college expenses.

Loans are made to Thief River Falls area students who are attending or will attend accredited post-secondary colleges and universities and who have reasonable ability to repay the loan. Applications are subject to approval of the foundation finance committee. Interest accrues from the date of the loan and the rate is seven percent with a loan limit of $5,000 per student.

Families of students interested in information on the loan program may contact Shurleen Adams at Northern State Bank.

At the annual meeting Tuesday, Bill Stock was elected to the board to succeed Everett Kompelien and Donna Quam was reelected. All officers were reelected and include Marvin Lundin, president; Paul Ihle, vice president; and Shurleen Adams, secretary-treasurer.

The foundation board again approved donation of a $200 scholarship to Northland Community and Technical College. The scholarship is presented on alternate years to students in the community college program and the technical college program. The next award will be to a student in the community college area.

Anderson, Poissant, Kays & Co. was selected to audit the foundation's records for another year.

Annual report of the organization shows that during fiscal year 1997 loan advances of $14,500 were made to students and payments on existing loans totaled $10,290 in principal and $7,504 in interest. At the end of the year there were 30 active student loans in the foundation file.

Mills accepts principal post

Chris Mills, Dean of Students at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls, has accepted the position of principal at the school. Mills officially takes over on July 1, 1998. He was one of 10 candidates to apply for the position.

Chris Mills has accepted the position of Franklin Middle School Principal.

School District 564 Superintendent Jerry Rohicheau said Mills was chosen through an interview process. The district had 10 applicants for the position, three were interviewed during two settings. He said the school board is expected to consider and approve the appointment at its second board meeting in April. If approved by the board, Mills will take over the position July 1, 1998.

Mills earned his Associate of Arts degree at Northland Community College, his Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education and Master of Science degree in educational administration and leadership at Bemidji State University. He most recently attended St. Cloud State University and has qualified for the Minnesota Elementary Principal License, and the Minnesota Superintendent license. He also taught fifth grade at Benson for four years.

Supt. Rohicheau said the school board will now have to discuss the Dean of Students position at Franklin. In the wake of Glenn Espe's resignation, he added that the board will also begin reviewing the procedure for selecting a principal for Challenger Elementary school.

NCTC employee charged with indecent exposure

Rodney L. Erickson, 48, Warren, was cited for indecent exposure on February 26 by Duluth Police department following an incident at the Edgewater-East Motel in Duluth. Erickson, a sales and marketing teacher at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls, was escorting five students from the college during a Distributive Education Clubs of American (DECA) competition in Duluth.

NCTC President Dr. Orley Gunderson said the college was aware that an "employee" had been cited by the Duluth police department, and that the incident was investigated. To remain in compliance with the Data Privacy Act, however, Gunderson said the college had no further comment. Be assured, he said, that the college administration takes these situations seriously and has taken appropriate action.

LETTERS

To The Editor:
March 9 the Minnesota House of Representatives passed the Omnibus Health and Human Services budget bill. Included in this bill was a ban on the barbaric partial birth abortion procedure and a provision for the Health Department to collect reports on the number of abortions and the reasons for them.

Now because these bills differ in wording, they must go to conference committee to iron them out.

Speaker of the House Rep. Phil Carruthers and Senate Majority Leader Roger Moe have demonstrated a commitment to the dominance of the abortion issue. Let's call them to ask that they be fair in picking this committee to equally balance pro-life/pro-abortion positions.

Seventy five members of the House of Representatives have signed petitions that they don't want the bill stripped of the partial birth abortion ban and the reporting requirements. Here's our chance to rid our state of this horrible, barbaric procedure.

I don't understand how the people voting for this, the doctors who do the abortions or the mother killing her baby this way can ever sleep at night or look into a mirror.

Both Sen. Moe and Rep. Carruthers need to hear from Minnesota residents. Most Americans don't approve of this late term abortion and it has now come out that as many as 5,000 are performed on healthy women and healthy fetuses.

Please help stop partial-birth abortions. Let's fight for these precious, defenseless, innocent and helpless babies against brutal killing! Five hundred doctors have said these are not medically necessary.

Call the House of Representatives at 1-612-296-2146 and the Senate at 1-612-296-0504. Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Pederson

(Editor's Note: Following is the second portion of Mrs. Hewitt's letter, the first part of which was published in the March 14 Northern Watch.)

To The Editor:
Every alleged ecological calamity—global warming, population explosion and biodiversity loss—is widely challenged throughout the scientific community. At the very least, society should be aware that there is no scientific consensus to justify the dramatic changes that are planned. Proponents of sustainability continue to push to recast society into planned communities, managed through an evolving system of "good governance" that dilutes the authority of elected officials and elevates the power of non-governmental organizations (NGOs). The objective is to integrate economic, social and environmental policies to achieve reduced consumption, social equity, and to preserve and restore biodiversity. Sustainable communities is but one facet of a much broader sustainable agenda.

The Sierra Club has proposed the reorganization of North America into 21 bioregions delineated by their ecological characteristics. Each bioregion includes several states, counties, municipalities and communities. The sustainable communities' incentive is the first building block toward reorganization of America into "sustainable" society as envisioned by the United Nations and the President's Council on Sustainable Development (PCSD). The same documents were prepared for the World Bank and the United Nations Habitat Conference in Istanbul.

Sustainable communities must be seen in the context of the broader published agenda which limits privately owned property to no more than 25 percent of the total land area, removes human population from at least 50 percent of the total land area and requires that the remaining land be managed by government/NGO partnerships. Most NGOs that we are familiar with are the strong environmental groups.

The PCSD suggests that the time frame for reorganizing sustainable societies can be no more than three decades, yet some think it will take much longer. In the context of bioregions, individual communities cannot be left to design their own future. That means that sustainability councils will coordinate their "visions" to achieve a regional, or bioregional, vision consistent with the ultimate outcome that has already been determined. To achieve the pre-determined outcome, some smaller communities will have to be completely shut down. That process is already underway in the Northwest and other parts of the country near federal forests and public lands.

Management will ultimately not be the government. The government is simply the instrument for enforcing the dictates of management. Management is actually the "big three"—the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (ICUN), the World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF), and the World Resources Institute (WRI).

The NGOs have set the ideological agenda. They have created a worldwide network of affiliated NGOs, well positioned and adequately funded to implement the agenda. The function of governments within the bioregion will be simply to enforce the dictates of the council. Ultimate enforcement is to come from the United Nations.

The existing World Trade Organization as well as the proposed Economic Security Council have unlimited authority to impose a wide range of sanctions—including military action by a standing UN army—against any nation deemed not to be in compliance with any treaty or UN dictate.

The plan for a worldwide managed society is in place, published extensively in the literature of the United Nations. The plan is so massive, so complex, so bizarre, that it is difficult to comprehend in its totality. The public has seen only small segments of the plan at any one time—the President's Council on Sustainable Development has conducted its work in a public vacuum. Any negative discussion about the UN or about the environment is quickly denied and cast aside by the administration and the media. All the while, day by day, the plan unfolds.

The elements of the President's Council on Sustainable Development are contained in the recent Community Based Planning Legislation, the Wildlands Projects—including the Tallgrass Prairie Initiative—the President's river projects and Minnesota Ecosystems Recovery Project (MERP). Over the next few years, expect the net to be slowly drawn around all individual freedoms, and tightened relentlessly until the managed activities of human being produce the sustainability envisioned by the international managers.

Respectfully Submitted,
Bev Hewitt

To The Editor:
Thirty-five years ago Mons and Olga Engelstad donated land to the Girl Scouts. Camp M.O.E. has been used and enjoyed by girls and adult volunteers ever since. Many local organizations have supported Camp M.O.E. through volunteers and donations. Your continuing support is very much appreciated.

For reasons we are unaware of, at its January meeting the Pine to Prairie board voted to dispose of properties including Camp M.O.E. If the council no longer wants to be responsible for Camp M.O.E., why not return the camp to our community, or at least give us the first option to buy the property?

Camp M.O.E. is such a valuable asset to Girl Scouting. What an investment in the future of the hundreds, perhaps thousands, of girls who have been fortunate enough to have spent time there. What a loss if it is no longer the camp it was donated to be!

Sincerely,
Camp M.O.E. Committee

MPCA Recognizes Local Involvement

There are those who would argue that having county committees administer a feedlot program is akin to the much-used analogy of having the fox guard the chicken coop. Not so, according to a publication of the state agency charged with permitting and monitoring feedlots.

In its newsletter Minnesota Environment, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency favorably acknowledges the state-delegated county feedlot officers now active in 48 counties in the state. This may surprise more than a few people, especially those who believe MPCA has been a hindrance to agricultural development and attempting to apply a "one size fits all" mentality to regulations across the state.

"Many Minnesotans are increasingly aware of the feedlot issues that have surfaced in the last few years," the Minnesota Environment article states. "The trend in agriculture has been toward fewer but larger livestock and poultry facilities. There has also been a trend of increasing awareness about the potential environmental effects of feedlots.

"In response to these challenges, the MPCA's feedlot program is effecting a rule revision and asking the legislature to pass funding for a Generic Environmental Impact Statement (GEIS) that will study the broad-scale issues associated with animal agriculture. The feedlot program continues to provide training, technical assistance, permitting, enforcement, funding and administrative assistance to feedlot facility owners."

The article goes on to say that the role of MPCA's feedlot staff has been to look for potential water-quality problems associated with the siting and operation of feedlots so that problems may be identified and corrected. It notes that increased legislative funding in recent years has permitted the MPCA to accomplish the following:

- Thorough on-site inspections prior to permit issuance and during construction;
- Additional on-site inspections of existing facilities;
- Increased tracking of manure-management practices;
- Additional enforcement actions against producers who are negligent in addressing water quality problems at their facilities; and
- Technical evaluations, education, research and monitoring to help develop best management practices or feedlot operators.

For all its critics on every side of the feedlot question, MPCA has done a generally good job with little real precedent to follow. It has allowed agriculture to progress while demonstrating that there must be awareness and protection of a healthy environment. That doesn't mean there hasn't been disagreement and controversy, as there continues to be, but neither have farmers been stonewalled in their efforts to expand to meet today's economic requirements for efficient operation.

Part of the ability of feedlots to be established or expanded has been the result of local control, albeit limited local control, through the county feedlot officers. Local control, or at least legitimate local input, has been a central point for landowner's rights advocates in a number of situations involving primarily rural issues.

Here is what MPCA through Minnesota Environment says:

"The 48 Minnesota counties that have been delegated authority to administer the feedlot program have played a major role in the program's increased efficiency. The delegated county program has proven to be an important link between the counties and the state program.

"The county feedlot officers' proximity to regulated sites and greater familiarity with issues facing their particular areas make them a significant asset to the program. The county staff is also involved in inspections of facilities and education regarding the pollution potential of feedlot facilities to surface and ground water. The MPCA staff remains active in these 48 counties and continues to work with larger facilities located in the counties as well as those with more complex problems."

The recognition by MPCA that people closest to the situation are significant assets in decision making is an important one for a regulatory agency. Continued responsible action by these delegated county officers will do much to build confidence by state agencies in local people to properly manage local affairs.

MPCA has been seeking legislative funding for the General Environmental Impact Statement so it will have a comprehensive view of the various impacts of feedlots on the state. The GEIS is projected to take two to three years and cost $2.7 million.

A GEIS would have to be ordered by the state Environmental Quality Board (EQB), and that action was taken by the board Thursday morning, March 19, contingent upon legislative appropriation. The appropriation bill is in legislative conference committee but is expected to be approved for $1.2 million in its initial phases. Gov. Carlson included $1.2 million for the GEIS in his budget request, so it would apparently be free of a veto threat.

While a GEIS is nothing more than a compilation of information that a lot of people already know, mixed with a certain amount of informed speculation by those people and others, it would at least provide a basis for reasoning in future actions to be taken. The main difference between a $270,000 GEIS and a $2.7 million GEIS is the thickness of the report published once the money allocated for the study has been spent and the study is therefore considered completed.

No one wants to see our state's environment substantially damaged nor our agricultural industry adversely impacted. Continuation of county involvement and attention to all aspects of an impartial GEIS should make finding common ground less confrontational in the future.

Unless someone puts in an application for a timber wolf feedlot.....

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

There are a couple of corrections in recent recipes. My son-in-law's pancakes only have 1 cup of flour in them and he says he doesn't use any salt (I do). According to several calls I got, last week's chocolate sandwich cookie recipe was mixed up, so I am reprinting it today. Please throw away the other recipe. I hope nobody tried to bake them, because 1 1/4 cups of cocoa and no flour just won't work.

The rest of today's recipes are simply a potpourri of whatever sounds good from one of my mother's favorite cookbooks (I can tell from all the spots - and she was a good cook - not the usual fare). All of them are spicy and tasty - enjoy.

Here is the correct recipe for the sandwich cookies - I've double-checked it, so it better be right this time. Thanks to all of you who called about the mistakes:

CHOCOLATE SANDWICH COOKIES

Cookie Part
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/4 cups flour
1/2 cup cocoa
3/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
Creamy Filling
1/4 cup butter, softened
2 1/2 cups powdered sugar
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Food color and flavoring, if desired

In large bowl, beat butter, sugar, egg and vanilla until light and fluffy.

Stir together flour, cocoa, soda and salt and add to butter mixture.

Divide dough in half and shape each part into 2 one and one-half inch thick rolls. Wrap in waxed paper or plastic wrap and refrigerate 4-5 hours or until firm enough to slice.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Cut dough into 1/8 inch thick slices and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Draw tines of fork across each slice to decorate. Bake 8 to 10 minutes until almost firm. Remove from sheets to wire rack and cool completely.

Spread creamy filling on flat side of cookies and top with another cookie to form sandwiches.

To make filling, beat butter, powdered sugar, milk and vanilla until creamy and of spreading consistency. Add food color and a flavoring, such as strawberry or peppermint, if desired.

Here's an entire meal, you can bet it's tender and tasty:

BARBECUED POT ROAST

Barbecue Sauce
1 cup ketchup
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 large onion, diced
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Roast
1 tablespoons butter
3 1/2 pound beef pot roast, round or blade bone
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
3 large potatoes, peeled and sliced
6 carrots, quartered
Gravy
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup cold water
Meat drippings

Prepare barbecue sauce by combining all ingredients and setting aside.

In Dutch oven, melt butter. Brown meat slowly on all sides. Place a rack under meat and sprinkle meat with salt and pepper. Add bay leaf.

Spread barbecue sauce over meat, cover and simmer over low heat for 2 hours. Add potatoes and carrots, cover and cook for 1 hour or until vegetables and meat are tender.

Remove meat and vegetables to warm platter and discard bay leaf.

To make gravy, remove rack from pan. Skim off excess fat.

In small bowl, combine flour and water, mixing until smooth. Blend some of meat drippings into flour mixture until smooth. Return all to pan and stir and cook until thickened. Cook additional 2 minutes and season to taste.

This is a meatless dish with plenty of protein that you can serve now during lent. Add 3/4 pound hamburger browned with onion and pepper if you want meat:

CHILI WITH CHEDDAR

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
3/4 cup coarsely chopped green pepper
2 cans (1 pound each) kidney beans
2 cups (1 pound can) tomatoes
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
Cheddar cheese cubes

In saucepan, melt butter. Sauté onion and green pepper until tender. Add beans, tomatoes, tomato sauce and chili powder. Bring to a boil and reduce heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, 25-30 minutes.

Remove from heat and add shredded Cheddar and stir until cheese is melted. If necessary, return to low heat to finish melting cheese, but do not boil.

Place in serving bowls and top with cubes of Cheddar.

A spicy chicken dish would just hit the spot - serve with crusty rolls, baked potatoes or pasta:

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

1/4 cup butter
6 chicken pieces, breasts, legs and thighs
1 cup onion, finely chopped
3/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 cups (1 pound can) tomatoes
1 cup (8 ounce can) tomato sauce with mushrooms
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon thyme
2 bay leaves
Dash of cayenne pepper

In skillet, melt butter and brown chicken. Remove chicken and sauté onion, green pepper and garlic. Return chicken to skillet and spoon onion-green pepper over top.

In bowl, stir together tomatoes, tomato sauce, salt, pepper, thyme, bay leaves and cayenne. Pour over chicken and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 30-40 minutes or until chicken is fork tender. Remove and discard bay leaves.

Transfer chicken to warm platter, skim fat from sauce, and spoon sauce over meat to serve.

WAIKIKI KABOBS

1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
1/8 teaspoon dry mustard
1 pound cooked ham, cut into 1x1/2 inch chunks
1 (13 ounce) can pineapple chunks, drained
1 large orange, cut into sections

In 1 quart saucepan, melt butter. Add pineapple and lemon juices, brown sugar, cloves and mustard. Cook and stir until heated through.

On skewers, thread ham, pineapple and orange sections. Place on broiler pan and spoon butter sauce over while broiling. Broil 5 minutes, turning once.

Serve over hot buttered rice, spooning sauce over all.

TRF hockey team has banquet

Several weeks after the completion of the 1997-98 season Thief River Falls head high school hockey coach Scott Bergland continues to insist the Prowlers 5-18 record was a misnomer – a mistake. "I don't think we were a 5-18 team," he said. "We were a lot better team than that. We simply couldn't put the puck in the net."

The Prowlers, for the most part, played solid hockey throughout the year, according to Bergland. But they scored only 51 goals in 23 games – an average of just 2.2 goals per game. Only Wade Chiodo (13) broke double figures in the goal-scoring department and only Chiodo, Kyle Anderson (9) and Jarod Reierson (7) had more than three goals this winter.

It wasn't for a lack of opportunities, either, noted Bergland, whose team was nearly always close to the opposition in shots-on-goal figures, and many of those were high-quality scoring chances. But the snake-bit Prowlers more often than not came up empty handed around the net.

However, even if they failed to convert those chances into goals, the Prowlers' work ethic made them competitive most nights.

"We had about four games where I wish I had been somewhere else," said Bergland. "Otherwise, we played well. We have nothing to be ashamed of."

It was a team that showed consistent improvement through the season. But the level of play didn't rise quite fast enough, admitted Bergland. "We were about a month away from being a real good hockey team," he said. "We were close. We fought the flu near the end of the season, and that set us back a couple of weeks. If we had gotten that out of the way earlier, I think we would have been all right going into the tournament."

The Prowlers put the finishing touches to the season Tuesday at their annual banquet. There were no individual awards presented, but Anderson and Trevor Lee were given plaques for serving as the the 1997-98 captains. There was also recognition given to Chiodo, who was named All-Section 8A and All-Mariucci Conference Honorable Mention, and to Anderson, Lee and Adam Nordin as Honorable Mention picks in both Section 8A and Mariucci Conference.

The won-loss record didn't create any second thoughts about accepting the Thief River Falls coaching position this winter for Bergland, who had previously served as head coach at Northland Community and Technical College for four years (winning a Minnesota Community College Conference state title in 1987-88) and coached for a number of years in the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association. "This was a unique team," he said. "It was an absolute joy to coach. It was one of my most enjoyable years of coaching, and I've been involved with some pretty successful teams."

And Bergland said the Prowlers' hockey future is solid. "These guys set the foundation," he explained. "I told them, it's not a matter of if, but when, we'll get to the state tournament. I will go before I'm done coaching."

Wilebski leads NCTC women

Naomi Wilebski was called upon to carry a much heavier load than expected this winter, and post-season honors rewarded the Northland Community and Technical College basketball player from Lancaster for her efforts. The 5-11 sophomore center was recently named the Pioneers' most valuable player, after having earlier been selected as First Team Minnesota Community College Conference All-Northern Division and MCCC All-State.

Wilebski averaged 12.6 points and 10.4 rebounds per game. More importantly, she was one of the few key Northland players who managed to play a full season.

Featuring a veteran team that had won consolation honors at the 1997 Minnesota Community College Conference women's state basketball tournament, Northland began the 1997-98 season with high hopes and great expectations. The Pioneers were ranked No. 5 in a pre-season National Junior College Athletic Association Division III poll and were projected as a legitimate MCCC contender.

But the Season of Hope never got off the ground. On the eve of the season opener, Adna Olson, the team's top returning scorer, left school. And shortly thereafter, Tammy Nerby aggravated a back problem, Annie Pomplun hurt a knee, Darlene Nelson wound up hospitalized due to a health situation, Darla Hoie was sidelined by a leg injury, and Kerrin Stoskopf broke a bone in her foot.

Olson and Hoie never did play. The others lost a varying number of games. All of them were sophomores, leaving only Wilebski, Paula Hovda and Meckenzie Malwitz as healthy second-year team members. As a result, Northland finished 10-12.

"Based on the personnel we had going into the season, we were real excited about the opportunities that were there," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "But all that was changed by the things that we could not control. It was very frustrating, based upon the expectations we had and then trying to come back to reality when we lost all those players."

The changes in the team make-up prompted a quick about-face in the Pioneers' style of play. "In a matter of a few days we were forced to go from a fast, up-tempo game to a deliberate, slow-down style," explained Nikunen. "We just weren't a very quick team."

Instead of competing for a division title, Northland spent the entire season floating around the .500 mark. Yet, the Pioneers still nearly pulled off a remarkable feat. They were 10-9 overall and 6-5 in the Northern Division heading into the final three regular season games. They were on the verge of gaining a top-four finish in the Northern Division and qualifying for the MCCC state tournament.

But their performance level slipped down the stretch and they lost to divisional rivals Central Lakes 58-42, Fergus Falls 63-41 and Itasca 70-53 – the last two at home – and out of the post-season picture.

"We didn't play very well at the end when we had the opportunity to get into the playoffs," acknowledged Nikunen.

While the Pioneers were denied the opportunity to realize their potential as a team, Wilebski had a banner year, pointed out Nikunen, who also had high praise for players like Hovda, a 5-7 guard from Roseau, who earned All-Northern Division honors; Malwitz, a 5-9 center from Plummer who turned in quality minutes off the bench; and Jenny Johnson, a 5-7 freshman guard from Goodridge, who was named the Pioneers' Rookie of the Year.

Amber Berg, a 5-11 forward-center from Middle River, and Jamekka Lucas, a 5-7 guard-forward from St. Paul, were the only other freshman on the roster at season's end.

"The shelves are pretty much empty," said Nikunen in looking at the list of players coming back next year. "But we've got a good start on recruiting. We're working on getting quicker and improving our team speed."

Storhaug hits milestone

Mark Storhaug, a 1976 Lincoln High School graduate and former standout swimmer for the Prowlers, reached a milestone recently by passing the 100-win mark in dual meet competition as head coach of the Alexandria boys high school swim team.

Storhaug, who has been in Alexandria since the 1984-85 season, has a 106-43 dual meet record with the Cardinals, including a 10-0 mark this year that extended their streak to 31 straight wins. They are unbeaten over the past three years and 41-4 overall the past four seasons.

The Cardinals have fared well in multiple-team meets, too, with three straight section championships and a second place finish in the 1998 Class AA state meet. Hutchinson finished with 258 points and Alexandria had 216 for a 1-2 finish in a sport that is often dominated by the large suburban schools.

Storhaug was named Section 8AA Coach of the Year.

It's been a double taste of success for Storhaug, who also has a 123-33 dual meet record as coach of the Alexandria girls swim team in the fall.

College notes...

EVINRUDE OUTBOARDS

Wednesday was the first day of business for Streiff Sporting Goods in its new location four miles east of Warroad on Highway 11. The 8,000-square-foot log structure houses a retail area that offers guns, archery equipment, fishing gear, outdoor and casual clothing as well as log furniture, gourmet food items and luggage. An indoor archery range and unique Dart video archery shooting system are also found in the building. Owner Conway Marvin and general manager Fred Streiff offer visitors a fun experience for the whole family.

arrows fitted with special tips, the player shoots. Points—from zero for a miss to 12 for a clean kill—are registered on a computer, and at the end of the game, the player receives a printout with his score and percentage. My traveling companion was impressed and said, "It's really fun!" Streiff said that people were already booking times to try the new game. The system is also educational with training discs for children and adults.

Both Marvin and Streiff are very civic-minded and Streiff said, "We will do everything we can to promote and support the community." Both men have young families and are interested in supporting youth activities.

They are currently working with the Warroad School District's Community Education Department and this summer plan to have three to five instructors certified by the NFAA enabling them to teach archery to interested community members.

The attractive wooden crates used to display various merchandise in the store are for sale. They are made and sold by the marketing class at Warroad School using scrap lumber donated by Marvin Windows and Woodland Industries. The students learn about many aspects of business as they design, create and market the product.

Streiff's will sponsor a number of archery tournaments throughout the year including the indoor 3-D shoot at the Olympic Arena being held today and tomorrow (March 21 & 22). Archers can register each day until 3 p.m.

A grand opening celebration is planned for April 20-26 with celebrity speakers highlighting the festivities. The media will provide more specific details in the near future.

Customers will appreciate the large lodge-like structure—the aromatic log walls, high vaulted ceilings, big windows and huge fieldstone fireplace along with the extensive display of merchandise. A talented local carpenter built the wrap-around counter and display case, the gun rack and log bow rack, all adding to the uniqueness of the establishment. Once the parking lot is complete and landscaping is done, the exterior of the sporting goods store with its wrap-around porch will be as inviting as the interior.

Marvin and Streiff have already succeeded in creating an atmosphere that's not only warm and friendly but fun for the entire family.

Women will find a wide assortment of interesting and unique merchandise to look at or can simply sit by the fire and relax. An area in the loft includes tables, chairs, books, a television and videos for children. From the loft, spectators can observe activities in both the retail area and the indoor archery range.

Conveniently located, Streiff Sporting Goods is a store that hunters, fishermen, outdoor enthusiasts and their families will enjoy. The store is open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. seven days a week. Conway Marvin and Fred Streiff will be there to greet you and make you feel right at home.

Less $7,710,784 for depreciation, the net value of the utility plant increased to $11,082,573. Long-term debt and current and accrued liabilities total $8,003,187.

The $293,000 in capital credits to be distributed involve customers who were receiving service in 1978 and 1979.

During the year the cooperative converted 1,923 customer meters to the automated meter reading system, bringing the total number installed to 3,166 at year end. This is a little over half of the total conversions accomplished in two years. The goal had been to convert the complete system in four to five years.

Mosbeck and Kennedy also said that a margin of $37,060 in the DIRECTV program erased previous year deficits. The board turned down an offer to sell the DIRECTV franchise for a substantial profit last year, retaining the business to assure continued quality service to the present 913 customers—253 of whom were added in 1997.

The cooperative had 4,042 members at year-end.

NCTC employee faces indecent exposure charge

According to the citation and report filed with the Court Administrator in St. Louis County in Duluth, Erickson was cited for indecent exposure and taken to St. Luke's Hospital for evaluation after police investigated a complaint. He is expected to appear in court on the charge on March 25.

The police report states that they had received a complaint of an intoxicated person exposing himself to guests of the Edgewater-East Motel on Thursday, February 26. None of the witnesses interviewed by police were NCTC students.

Five students of NCTC, had been sent with Erickson to Duluth for the DECA competition at the Duluth Entertainment and Convention Center. After Erickson's arrest, a member of the administration of the college traveled to Duluth to supervise the students in their competition activities and transport them back to the college on Friday, February 27.

Medical billing assistance at Heritage Center

Barb Housey, patient account representative from Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls, will be at the Heritage Community Center on the last Wednesday of each month from 12:30 to 2 p.m. to help with medical billing questions.

Housey has 17 years of experience in medical accounting and will assist with all types of insurance processing, Medicare and other medical billing. Persons seeking assistance should bring their paperwork with them.

Dates scheduled for the service are March 25, April 29 and May 27, all from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Answers to medical billing questions can also be received at the patient account department of Northwest Medical Center.

Finseth appreciated meeting participation

State Representative Tim Finseth of Angus says he appreciates the hundreds of citizens who traveled to Crookston and Hallock last weekend to attend meetings with a number of legislative and other officials.

"Because they were willing to share their concerns," he said, "the problems of Red River Valley farmers received much-needed attention from lawmakers across the state. I was pleased that two member of the U.S. Congress and the state's Attorney General were able to join me and other local legislators at the Crookston meeting. It is important that those not familiar with our area hear firsthand the struggles northwestern Minnesota farmers have faced in the last few years."

Rep. Finseth said that wheat and barley scab, low crop prices and several wet growing seasons "have left many area farmers struggling for their very existence. I am hopeful that the concerns raised last weekend will bring about change, if not today, then in the very near future."

There are programs under the federal farm bill that may help, he added, but reforms are needed to lift some of the restrictions that are holding back aid to area farmers. Although these programs are outside his jurisdiction as a state lawmaker, Rep. Finseth said, he can, and is, encouraging elected members of Congress to reform federal farm programs, particularly federal crop insurance programs, so that area farmers can get the assistance they need to stay in business.

But state-level programs are another story, he said.

"Over the past three years," Rep. Finseth said, "I have successfully co-authored legislation that has provided $3 million in state funding for wheat and barley scab research at the University of Minnesota. Finding ways to combat this deadly crop disease is important, but I am equally as interested in a more direct form of assistance—finding ways to reform our property and income tax system."

Finseth said that by law 60 percent of the state's $1.3 billion surplus is dedicated to property tax reform. Recent projections by the state's Department of Revenue have added another $600 million to the surplus reserves.

"With so much extra money at hand, now is the time to enact real tax reform," he said. "Our state ranks third in the nation in terms of state and local taxes as a percentage of personal income. If we can reduce that 13.2 percent burden, families in our areas will spend less money on taxes and will have more money to put directly back into their homes and farms."

Finseth said he is working closely with his colleagues to push for reform at the state level and will make sure his colleagues from non-rural areas understand the unique situation that the Red River Valley faces.

"Town meetings are useful," he said, "but in the long run reforming our property and income tax system, combined with reforms in the federal crop insurance program and a smile from Mother Nature, will provide the best possible relief," he said.

TRF reservoir dredging project worksheet filed

Environmental Assessment Worksheet (EAW) for the Thief River Falls reservoir dredging project has been sent to the state Environmental Quality Board, according to Lowell C. Enerson, administrator of the Red Lake Watershed District.

The reservoir is located within the City of Thief River Falls in Sections 27, 33, 34 and 35 of North township, Pennington county. The dredging project is identified as Red Lake Watershed District Project 63.

Enerson said that a 30-day period for public comments will close on April 22. Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of the EAW can contact the RLWD office at 102 North Main Avenue, P.O. Box 803, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or call 218-681-5800.

Masons, KCs to hold whist party

Northern Lodge No. 236 will be host for a Masons and Knights of Columbus whist party Monday, March 23, at 7 p.m. at the Masonic hall in Thief River Falls. All Knights and Masons are encouraged to attend the evening of fun and fellowship.

"Shoulda' Been There" will be auctioned by the local Chapter of the Deer Hunters Association at its 13th Annual Banquet, Monday, March 30. The print by James A. Meger and Bud Grant, is number 520 of 5000 and is signed by Bud Grant. Along with the whitetails, there are nine ringnecks, a jackrabbit, a cottontail, squirrel, fox, and a bunch of songbirds. Dena Kios explained that the local chapter was at an event recently and presented Proper Economic Resource Management (PERM) a donation of $500 and were surprised when the organization gave them this print. PERM is a non-profit conservation club dedicated to promoting balanced solutions to natural resource management issues. Pictured from left are Roger Hoffman, and Dena Kios.

and the ability to hook up an electrical switch to turn on/off electric motors, sound horns and use with a host of other electrical equipment.

"It's all there. It's called the LevALERT Indicator," said Jilleen.

Inventions come into existence to solve problems, but most end up having a broader use.

The Johnsons had no idea that industry would be seeking them out to find an indicator that could indicate the bin level with something as light in density as sawdust (two pounds per cubic foot) or something as heavy as silica sand (100 pounds per cubic foot). LevALERT was the answer to both problems.

"We should have waited until after the MIC," Tom said. "People at MIC gave us ideas for improving E-Z Eye. The product changed so quickly from the original stage to the manufacturing stage. We had to pay extra to have the patent modified.

"Also, people at the congress showed excitement for our invention, gave us the feel as to whether to pursue further with our product. Inventors have one year from the time they publicly show their product to apply for a patent. With LevAlert we waited until after the MIC to apply for a patent. I strongly suggest keeping a diary (inventor's notebook) on a daily basis for possible legal defense.

"There is so much to be gained at MIC," Tom continues. "We brought a new idea to MIC and ended up with so much qualified help and good advice... easy to obtain advice. We met new customers. We met people in manufacturing. We received exposure of our products through MIC, in national, state and local magazines, newspapers and radio. We gathered information such as where to mold/manufacture our products and where to conduct various tests."

The Johnsons employ six full-time workers to assemble, package and distribute their inventions. Tom says they are so busy they may have to taper back on farming but not on inventing. They can't invent just one. They came up with a new invention for tree moving. If time allows, they might have it ready for this year's MIC.

The Johnsons operate their business as LTJ Enterprises, Inc. at HCR3, Box 6A Roseau, MN 56751 and have a toll-free number (1-800-962-8896). For inventor assistance contact Minnesota Inventors Congress at 1-800-468-3681.

Goodridge post prom party group welcomes prizes

Parents of students in the Goodridge school district who will be attending the junior-senior banquet and prom Saturday, May 2, are in the process of planning a post prom party to encourage students to stay drug and alcohol free on this special evening.

The party will begin immediately following the prom dance and continue until 4 a.m. Sunday, May 3. The event will be chaperoned and a number of activities, games and treats are being planned by the organizers. Plans are to distribute the prizes to those participants who stay until the very end of this event.

The committee is soliciting donations of merchandise prizes, food, gift certificates and cash from businesses and organizations in the area. Those who would like to donate but have not been contacted may make their wishes known or have their questions answered by contacting Bruce Bjerklie or Julie Kiesow at the Goodridge school, phone 378-4135.

The committee would like to have donations made by April 9. Committee members added that they will let the people in their area know about the generosity of donors and that any contributions will be gratefully appreciated.

Military recruiters met with a number of students Wednesday, March 18, at the third annual job fair conducted at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. A number of area schools sent bus loads of students to the event to allow them to meet with area employers, post secondary educational institutions and the military services. There were 26 booths at the job fair, including the Workforce Center and Northland Community and Technical College.

Father Noah at Winter Olympics

Hallock - Father Timothy Noah, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Hallock, traveled to Japan for the Winter Olympic games. He journeyed with a brother and his niece and her brother. While in Japan, they stayed with three different families and experienced the customs of Japanese life. They also attended a number of Olympic events. Kittson County Enterprise

Crookston youth offer solutions to budget problems

Crookston - With regard to the Crookston school district's 1998-99 budget problems, little had been heard so far from students.

At a recent special board meeting, however, students made it clear that they are aware of what's going on and that they have some ideas of their own.

Ideas included increased fees and implementing new fees and relying on increased grants and volunteerism. To save staff, a student council member suggested a salary freeze for all school employees. Crookston Daily Times

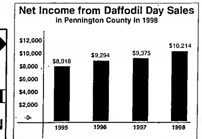
13-year-olds steal van, hit car and Bemidji business

Bemidji - Charges are pending against two 13-year-old girls who were driving a stolen van that broadsided a car before crashing through a window at the Glass Doctor in Bemidji recently.

A Bagley woman suffered minor injuries in the incident. Other than bumps and bruises the juveniles were not injured, and no one was injured at the Glass Doctor.

The girls were runaways from the Archdeacon Gilfillan Center. The Pioneer

New policy for absentee voting in effect



White Earth - To coincide with a change in the election ordinance at the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe level, election rules have changed at White Earth.

Now tribal members who live off the reservation can walk into the election office at White Earth and vote anytime before the April 14 primary election. Before, absentee voters were required to use the U.S. mail.

State certified, in-house notaries are on hand to notarize the voters' ballots free of charge. The ballots will be held, along with the mailed absentee ballots, until election day. At that time, election officials will open the ballots in a public forum under a camera. On election day, four people will at each of the 12 precincts to transport the ballots to White Earth to be counted after the polls close at 8 p.m.

By letting the public see how ballots are counted, the election committee wants to alleviate fear of election tampering. Tally sheets will also be made available so observers can keep their own count. The Mahnomen Pioneer

Daffodil Day return climbs to new high

Pledges and donations to the American Cancer Society Daffodil Day fund-raiser in Thief River Falls reached a new high this year. As of Monday, March 23, preliminary pledges and donations were estimated at $10,214 after costs. The net total is more than $800 higher than what was raised last year by the local organization.

Organizers of the event noted that although on-site sales increased, the big difference this year came from sponsorships. The number of businesses and organizations making a donation to become a sponsor increased by $500. There were a total of 39 sponsors this year.

Pre-event sales increased this year from $5,450 to $6,175. On-site sales increased from $2,023 to $2,220. Sponsorships raised $2,250 compared to $1,750 last year. Sales from churches raised $1,050. The local chapter of the American Cancer Society has had to pay for its flower cost during the past two years. Due to the increased number of sponsorships, the flower cost decreased this year from $1,920 to $1,600.

The success of this year's event was accomplished only with the help of hundreds of volunteers. According to Carl and Polly Reed, on-site sale co-chairs, a total of 115 volunteers helped with on-site sales.

According to Lucy Aasland, who coordinated pre-sales and sponsorships, 58 individuals helped her with her efforts. Another 15 individuals helped with sales to local churches.

From the very beginning, volunteers played an important role in this campaign. In fact, without the assistance of Von Hutchinson of Hutchinson Transfer, many communities in northwest Minnesota would not have had flowers for their campaigns. Hutchinson Transfer in Thief River Falls has provided transportation for the flowers for many years.

The money raised during the event helps fund national cancer research, education and service programs. Locally, the society is trying to fulfill patient and caregiver needs through a variety of services. In 1997, the organization shared cancer orevention and early detection information with 3,457 adults and 1,029 youth. A total of 52 cancer patients and their families received help from the American Cancer Society. Help to these individuals consisted of transportation assistance, hospital equipment, support and education. Educational conferences and seminars reached 20 health professionals.

Last year, volunteers raised $21,619 to support the research, education, advocacy and patient service programs of the American Cancer Society. Despite this work, the total cost of benefits received in Pennington county was greater than the local chapter was able to raise in fund-raising efforts.

Of each dollar raised, about 20 cents is spent on research, 11 cents on prevention, 10 cents on detection and treatment, 16 cents on patient services, 17 cents on national programming and supporting services, four cents on management and general costs, and 22 cents on fund-raising. During the 1997 fiscal year, the American Cancer Society met the standards of the Charities Review Council of Minnesota.

Differently-abled speaker motivates area students

Northern Watch Reporter

Differently-abled is the term Jan Turner uses to describe herself explaining that meaning of the prefix "dis" in disabled means "not." Not is a word that isn't included very often in quad-amputee Turner's vocabulary. She can do most everything. She just does things differently.

Jan is a motivational educator and inspirational speaker from Willmar. She presented programs in the Plummer and Red Lake Falls elementary and high schools on Wednesday and Thursday and was the guest speaker at services at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Plummer on Wednesday evening. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Turner, lived in Red Lake Falls before she was born.

Jan opened her presentation by telling students at Lafayette High School in Red Lake Falls that "all of life is a story." Until November 5, 1989, Jan's story was pretty ordinary, but she didn't feel well that morning as she played trumpet in church, weak to the point of nearly passing out. Throughout the day her condition worsened. She ran a high fever, and the severe aching in her fingers told her that she had something more serious than the flu.

It wasn't until the next day that she had someone take her to the hospital emergency room in Willmar where she was diagnosed with pneumococcal pneumonia. Jan had heard of this type of pneumonia when, in college, she underwent a splenectomy, and doctors told her that without a spleen, she would be more susceptible to the disease. Had she remained at home even an hour more, she would have died. From Willmar, she was transferred to Abbott Northwestern Hospital in Minneapolis.

Jan lapsed into a coma, and for a week hovered between life and death, kept alive by machines. Her family was told that she was brain dead and that if, by some small chance, she did survive, she would be a vegetable. They were encouraged to pull the plug on the life support equipment. Instead, they hoped for a miracle.

Jan remembers the coma as a deep sleep with dreams, nightmares, the awareness of what was going on around her and her inability to respond to it.

After a week, she came out of the coma, but she was still unable to breathe on her own and remained on the respirator for another week.

Motivational speaker Jan Turner of Willmar demonstrated various protheses during her speech at Lafayette High School in Red Lake Falls on Thursday. Turner has been a quad-amputee since 1989 when pneumococcal pneumonia led to dry gangrene and necessitated the amputation of her hands and feet.

Armed robbery Wednesday at Petro Pumper

Wednesday evening, a man wearing a snowmobile suit and ski mask held a clerk and customer at Petro Pumper in Thief River Falls at gun point before leaving the store with an undetermined amount of cash.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe said that at 8:34 p.m. Wednesday, March 25, a man entered the Petro Pumper building from the front door on the north end of the building and immediately walked behind the counter. He was described as being about 5-feet, eight-inches tall, wearing a black snowmobile suit, and a ski mask over his face. He held the clerk and a customer at gun point with a sawed-off shotgun and demanded cash. He then left the same way as he entered the building but with an undetermined amount of cash.

The sheriff's department believes a vehicle was waiting for him on the north side of the building. Witnesses were able to provide the sheriff's department with a description of the vehicle as it traveled east on Highway 1 toward Thief River Falls. About twenty minutes after the robbery four suspects were picked up. The individuals were in a vehicle that matched the description of the getaway vehicle — an older light colored Buick Riviera.

Sheriff Moe said the four suspects were held, interviewed and later released. They remain suspects in the investigation of this incident.

The Bureau of Criminal Apprehension is assisting in the investigation.

School District 564 discusses merits of pay for performance

School District 564 is preparing for negotiations with the Teamster group. The contract with the Teamsters expires on June 30. A group of board members and teachers have also been discussing the merits of a pay for performance evaluation system.

Carl Clark, board chair, reported that the negotiations team had been discussing the merits of a pay for performance evaluation system. He said this is only an open dialogue at this time, and it's not a part of official negotiations.

One of the important issues to pay for performance is the evaluation tool used to judge performance. Nevertheless, the group, which includes teachers, plans to explore it further. An MEA speaker will address the topic at a meeting of the group.

Darla Twomey, board member, reported on a meeting of the Minnesota State High School League. Twomey is a state delegate. Twomey explained, in very general terms, that as a result of action taken at the meeting, coaches are now allowed to conduct clinics and camps.

Jean Larson, board member, reported that the committee selected to interview candidates for the position of Franklin Middle School had chosen Chris Mills, current Dean of Students at the school. Larson said some exhausting interviews were conducted. At the conclusion it was the consensus, she said, that Mills was the best candidate.

As of March 1 enrollment in School District 564 stood at 2,605.8, a total of 50 students fewer than last year at the same time. On March 1 of last year, enrollment was 2,656.2. A month ago, enrollment stood at 2,622, indicating a decline of 17 students. The largest decrease occurred at the high school level where there were 10 fewer students.

A request by Pathfinders to use the Lincoln gymnasium on Sundays, March 29, April 5, April 19, May 3 and May 24 from 1 to 3 p.m. for basketball and volleyball was approved.

Scheduling of a meeting with the city council at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, March 31, was approved by the school board. The meeting will be held in city council chambers.

The school board recognized the following: students selected for All-State Music — Katie Christensen, choir, Brad Dekkers, band, James Lehrer, band, Matt Winjum, band, Leslie Swanson, choir, Luke Torgerson, jazz ensemble, Brian Unbehaun, choir; students advancing to the State Science Fair competition to be held April 11-13 in Rochester — Amy Christenson, Kylie Rogalla, Ashley Hammer, Kimberly Schneider, Dayna Holland, Katy Hook, Nick Knott, Kristin Muzzy, Kelly Poissant, and Katy Olson, the fourth grade Odyssey of the Mind Team advancing to state competition on April 25 in Plymouth — Alex Carlson, Jesse Mueller, Derek Mosloff, Ben Willis and Matt Wold, donations to the Close-Up Program

MECC construction waits for spring

Construction contracts have been let and pre-construction meetings held. Weather is the only thing left holding up construction on the Multi-Events Cultural Center complex in Thief River Falls.

Wednesday, selection of color schemes gave members of the joint powers board a sense that after years of hard work, there is light at the end of the tunnel. Phase I, which includes the football field, and track, will be built.

Norm Triehwasser, project architect, said all of the contracts have been awarded, and pre-construction meetings held. Only the weather is holding up construction. Triehwasser said the first thing contractors will address will be drainage. Because of the delivery time needed for color schemes in tiles and other material, Triehwasser asked board members to select a color scheme. The board settled on a light earth-tone color.

Once construction begins, the architectural firm will have someone on site almost every day, especially during construction on the track. Weekly meetings will also be held.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, representative on the board from Northland Community and Technical College, commented that the public needs to know that quality control will be a very important aspect of this project.

Due to the cost of some of the elements of Phase I, some of the items were left out. Some of those items are important to the success of the project. Darla Twomey, school district 564 representative on the board, presented an update on fund development. Twomey reported that they had received commitments of about $460,000 — $130,000 from a business, $130,000 other sources, and a match up to $200,000 from an individual. Twomey was very pleased with the commitments.

Originally, the cost of unfunded elements of Phase I was estimated at $714,000.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, who is the chairman of the joint powers board, reported that contacts had been with some other possible sponsors. Follow-up contacts need to be made with those individuals.

Rick Nelson reported that unfortunately, the project was not included in the Capital Bonding Bill. Some individuals, he said, were under the mistaken impression that the state would not be approached for more funds for the project. Originally, the project had been ranked among the top three

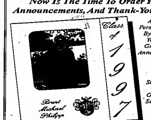
Former Winger resident teaches in one-room school

Winger - Former Winger resident Nicole Horn is the principal, teacher, librarian, technology coordinator and even janitor at the Horse Creek School, a one-room school nestled in the corner of the desolate North Dakota prairie between Watford City and Sidney, MT.

Nicole and an aide are responsible for the instruction of eight students grades kindergarten through eighth grade. The eight grades fulfill five grade levels of instruction.

To compensate for the added responsibilities in the small school, the pay is higher and rent is free in the house located next door. The McIntosh Times

Four vehicles went through ice on LOW last weekend



Baudette - While ice on most Lake of the Woods remained in generally good condition, four drivers found soft spots and went through the ice last weekend.

A four-wheeler and two pickups went through the ice. A snowmobile operator was unfamiliar with the area and drove his sled into open water after dark. No one was injured in any of the incidents.

Ice conditions tend to change very rapidly at this time of year. The Baudette Region

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Sweet treats are today's recipes. These spring-like days are making everyone feel like getting to outdoor work, but it isn't quite time yet. So, might as well do some baking if we're stuck inside.

Here's an old-fashioned recipe that still goes over great:

SPICY GINGER CRUNCHIES
3/4 cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup molasses
2 1/4 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2/3 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cloves

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar and beat light and fluffy. Beat in egg, vanilla and molasses and beat well.

Sift flour, soda, salt, cinnamon, ginger and cloves and gradually add to creamed mixture. Chill several hours.

Shape into 3/4 inch balls (add a little more flour and rechill if dough is still sticky). Roll balls in sugar and place 2 inches apart on cookie sheet. Bake 7-8 minutes at 375 degrees.

This is a really simple bar recipe that looks and tastes like toffee - they can be made in no time for a quick sweet treat:

CHOCOLATE NUT BARS
1 cup butter
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup chocolate chips
3/4 cups chopped nuts

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar and beat light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla.

Sift flour and salt and gradually add to creamed mixture. Spread evenly in buttered 9x13 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes.

While hot, sprinkle on chocolate chips and allow to melt. With spatula, spread evenly over top and then sprinkle with nuts. Cut after cool.

TOFFEE BARS
Layer 1
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup flour
Layer 2
2 eggs
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/3 cups coconut
1 cup chopped nuts (almonds or walnuts)

To prepare first layer, cream butter, then add sugar and beat light and fluffy. Gradually add flour. Spread in greased 9 inch square pan and bake at 350 degrees for 5 minutes.

Prepare second layer by beating eggs until thick. Slowly add sugar, then vanilla, and beat until well blended.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt and blend into egg mixture. Fold in coconut and nuts and spread carefully over first layer.

Bake 30 minutes more at 350 degrees. Cool slightly in pan on wire rack before cutting into bars. Cool completely before removing from pan (if you can wait).

A little taste citrus and coconut taste of spring make these cookies special - they're very basic and easy to make:

DESSERT COOKIES
1 cup butter
2/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup coconut

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar and beat light and fluffy. Add orange and lemon rinds. Beat in eggs, one at a time.

Sift flour and salt and beat half into creamed mixture. Blend in coconut and remaining flour.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto baking sheet and bake at 375 degrees for 8-10-minutes. Cook on rack.

I can never find macaroons in the bakeries any more and I love them. Does anyone have a recipe for macaroons with dates and walnuts in them like we used to buy at the old bakery on Second street? I'd love to have it. Anyway, maybe these macaroons will be good. I think I'll make them this weekend:

CORN FLAKE MACAROONS
3 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk
3 cups corn flakes
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 1/2 cups flaked coconut

Beat egg whites, cream of tartar and salt until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, continuing to beat until very stiff. Add vanilla.

Beat in dry milk, sprinkling a little at a time on meringue, until well blended. Fold in corn flakes, walnuts and coconut.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls on buttered baking sheets. Bake at 300 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove to wire rack to cool immediately.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Re: Mrs. Hewitt's letter to the editor, 3/14 and 3/21.

I was (and am) surprised that no sharp editorial eye espied and had corrected the statement that the word "sustainable" isn't even in the Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary. Having used and heard "sustainable" for at least 60 years, I checked my tenth edition of Merriam Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (copyright 1993) and found "sustainable" on page 1188, with a date indicating its first use of about 1727 in the sense first defined.

In the sense of "sustainable" to which Mrs. Hewitt objects, the word was not used until much later, although the concept of "sustainable development" was in use years before I retired (in 1974) as a director of research for American Cyanamid's Consumer Products Department.

That a member of the "World Socialist Party" should adopt the term and define it with his specific "spin" should be no surprise. I have always felt it wise to keep a reader's eye (to the best of my ability) on the myriad of political and propagandistic groups whose name includes the word "socialist."

I do not find it alarming that one of them has found a use for the term. I will suggest, with great confidence, that all those groups (or any large number of them) are not subject to the authority of George Brundtland of the World Socialist Party, let alone the thousands of business people who use "sustainable."

Yours Very Truly,
John Longfellow

To The Editor:

I have managed the Goodridge Retirement Homes project since it was organized and built in 1968. I am the only board member left of the original organizers. Our aim over the years has been to provide affordable housing for retired elderly people so they can still live in the community. Most of them are living on a small Social Security check as their sole income.

I think that we have succeeded in doing what we intended to do when we organized. I still have a list of the 100 people who each bought a $15 share to get the project underway. Because of our organization many elderly people have been able to live in their own residence in an independent manner.

I have personally managed this operation for nearly 30 years, but I have never been more disappointed or disgusted with humanity as I am this evening. An hour ago I went to the homes for a routine signature from one of the tenants, and while I was doing so my wife, Lois, walked back to the north side of our property to see how our row of trees had survived the winter.

Lo and behold, some low-down vehicle driver had driven straight down the row of trees and broken off three beautiful ornamental trees. They were in a row with two small evergreens between each two. The evergreens were pliable enough to stand being run over but the other trees are all broken off at ground level. They were about five years old and from six to 10 feet tall. They had been bought, planted and nurtured and we were very proud of them.

I suppose the driver of this vehicle is really proud of how in a few seconds he or she undid many hours of work, many dollars of value and years of satisfaction in watching the trees grow. I have many names that I could call this person—none of them printable here.

Burning at Goodridge,
Ernie Swanson

House Bill Says "Give Us The Money"

Be assured that the Minnesota Legislature is watching out for the welfare of the state's citizens. That obviously must be the reason for the House Ways and Means Committee approving a bill sponsored by Rep. Irv Anderson of International Falls that would require that any funds received from the state's lawsuit against tobacco companies go into the state general fund.

Rep. Anderson told the committee that money reimbursed to the state should be distributed by elected officials. He said he didn't want Minnesota to go through the same situation as in Texas. In January of this year Texas received a $15.3 billion settlement from cigarette makers and that state's Attorney General placed a portion of the funds in a foundation governed by a board of directors.

Texas legislators complained that they alone had the constitutional authority to appropriate state revenues, and after weeks of political grandstanding and legal challenges the Attorney General agreed to turn the funds over to the legislature.

While it is now a well-accepted fact that cigarette smoking is harmful to the health of individuals, we fail to see how the State of Minnesota as an entity has been harmed by people smoking cigarettes. And the state's suit against tobacco companies is more of an employment plan for attorneys than an attempt to assist persons harmed to recover their losses.

Rep. Anderson and others in laying legislative claim to a reimbursement are assuming one will be forthcoming. We doubt the bill also would obligate the legislature to pay costs of the suit if the tobacco companies are cleared of charges—whatever they are.

If guilt is already established, then the trial is a sham and the time being spent in litigation is a waste. And if a "settlement" at some point results only in a payment for past "wrongs" with no requirement preventing business as usual in the future, how has the public's welfare been served?

Allow the process to continue as it has and the Anderson bill will be moot; most of any settlement will go for outrageous legal fees and there won't be much left for the legislature or any other entity to claim.

Adding An Exclamation Point To An Opinion

A report in Timber Bulletin, published by the Minnesota Timber Producers Association, comments on the decision made by Federal Judge John Tunhiem which cleared the way for logging in a portion of the Superior National Forest known as the Little Alfie site.

An environmental group calling itself Earth Protector had sought to prevent the timber harvest authorized under sale by the U.S. Forest Service. An effort by Earth Protector to obtain an injunction from the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals was also rejected and the logging was permitted to proceed.

What was particularly interesting in the Timber Bulletin story was not simply the action which allowed the tree harvest but an additional action by Judge Tunheim, a former Assistant Attorney General and a native of the Newfolden community.

"In a comprehensive and lengthy opinion," the article states, "Judge Tunheim rejected the arguments made by Earth Protector in the suit. The judge also went to the unusual extent of going through an analysis of other arguments the plaintiffs could have used, but didn't, and why they still would have been wrong."

It seems Judge Tunheim was adding an exclamation point to his decision. We would suspect his court will have fewer cases of this type in the future.

And Take That, Too!

Taking on the government officials who make a career of antitrust activities, F. R. Duplantier of America's Future enlists the words of Robert Levy of the Cato Institute. Levy maintains that "Antitrust laws were both wrong and counterproductive when they were first enacted in the late 1800s and remain so today."

Specifically in question was the government's antitrust action involving Microsoft, the nation's computer software giant.

Levy says Microsoft "does nothing to prevent IBM, Netscape, Oracle, Sun Microsystems and countless other companies from developing products that could displace Windows 95 and Internet Explorer. In fact, those companies are aggressively pursuing that very course of action. Despite that record of dynamism and progress, Justice Department officials persist in the delusion and conceit that they can fine-tune the markets."

Duplantier is a bit more brusque in his comments.

"It's easy to understand the animus that so many politicians and academics have for the free market," he writes. "They just don't get it. They've never held real jobs. They've never had to offer anything of genuine value in return for their salaries. Worst of all, the truly productive members of society refuse to acknowledge the moral and intellectual superiority of these parasites, which obviously galls the poor dears.

"The hostility of Microsoft's competitors is no mystery either. Microsoft dominates the market because it has better products and better salesmen. That means the other guys' products and salesmen are inferior, and who wants to admit that? They could try harder, of course, but it's a lot easier to cry to Mommy."

And take that, too!

Arctic Cat racer to compete in Russian Snocross Championship

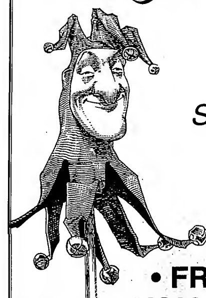
One of snowmobile racing's fastest rising stars is about to shine on Russia. Team Arctic Racer Aaron Scheele, and his wife Ursula, will be traveling to Novy Urengoy, Russia, at the end of this month where Aaron will compete in the third leg of the Russian Snocross Championship.

"This is a great opportunity for Aaron, and a chance for Team Arctic and Arctic Cat to gain exposure in Russia and the European market, where racing is still fairly new," said Team Arctic Race Manager Joel Hallstrom.

"To be asked to race at this event is pretty exciting and quite an honor," Scheele said. "I know things are going to be different and I'm looking forward to the challenge."

At the Russian Snocross Championship race in Novy Urengoy, which is located just south of the Arctic Circle, Aaron will compete in the Open Invitational Class. This event has received coverage in the last few years from the CNN affiliate based in Moscow, and draws many tops racers from Russia, Europe and Scandinavia.

Scheele, 31, of North Branch, has been with Team Arctic Since the start of his racing career in 1988. He currently competes in the MRP National series and select MRP Regional events. In the last year, Scheele has gained notoriety for stellar perfomances in the MRP National series, the USSA sponsored event at Crandon, and with ESPN's sponsored Winter X-Games, as well as for his wins in MRP Pro Snocross events in St. Cloud, and at Quadna Ski Hill, Ely. Scheele also boasts an unprecedented four overall high-point championships in the MRP Pro Ice Circuit.



In the off season, Scheele is a heavy equipment operator in North Branch and enjoys motocross racing and golfing. He is sponsored by Arctic Cat, Dimmerman Bros., Black Magic, Roetin, Fox Shox, Folkens Transportation and Body by North Star.

Heavy chore service for seniors now available

Northwest Area Agency on Aging has announced that heavy chore services is offered through the three sentencing to service programs in the region. The three programs include Northwest Sentencing to Service serving Kittson, Marshall and Pennington counties; Tri-County Corrections serving Norman, Polk and Red Lake; and Roseau County Sentencing to Servicing serving Roseau county. These three programs will assist individuals 60 years of age and older (regardless of income level) with general outside chores and home repairs.

Services requested most often include such tasks as lawn raking, shoveling snow, scraping and painting trim on homes, window washing, tree and brush removal and other minor gardening requests.

Older Americans Act funds have been provided in a grant to each agency to provide these services. All individuals requesting services are given the opportunity to make a confidential donation for services received, based on their ability to donate. No one is denied service because of inability to pay. These donations are put back into the programs to provide even more services for seniors.

For more information or assistance call the Northwest Area Agency on Aging using the Senior Linkage line 1-800-333-2433.

These services are offered in 1998 with funds from the Older Americans Act provided by the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, a program of the Northwest Regional Development Commission.

Anderson completes freshman season on SCSU hockey squad

St. Cloud State University freshman forward Keith Anderson of Thief River Falls and the Huskies recently completed their 1997-98 season in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association Final Five tournament at the Bradley Center in Milwaukee, WI.

The Huskies edged the University of Minnesota-Duluth 4-3 in overtime in a Thursday post-season playoff opener but fell to the University of North Dakota 4-3 in the Saturday semifinals and did not receive an NCAA tournament berth.

Anderson was the Huskies' top-scoring freshman this season, scoring five goals and picking up 11 assists for 16 points. He had three power-play goals and one game-winning goal. The fourth-line skater, who missed the final five regular season games with a shoulder separation, tied for the team lead by scoring on 20 percent of his shots on goal.

St. Cloud State was picked seventh in the preseason WCHA coaches poll, but placed fourth in both the regular season playoffs while finished 22-16-2 overall.

Anderson is a 1996 Thief River Falls graduate who played juniors for North Iowa in the United States Hockey League during the 1996-97 season before signing with St. Cloud.

Cheerleader, Pep Club meeting slated April 1

An invitation is being extended to those interested in becoming a Lincoln High School football or hockey cheerleader, or for students who would like to become involved in Pep Club for the 1998-99 school year to attend an informational meeting Wednesday, April 1, in Room 212 at Franklin Middle School.

The meeting will begin at 3:15 p.m. under the direction of Tami Hemmesch. For additional information call her at 681-2842.

Zach Olson named Prowler swim MVP

Zach Olson, Nathan Browning, Aaron Field, and Colin Browning were special award winners at the annual Thief River Falls boys high school swim team banquet.

Olson was selected the Prowlers' most valuable swimmer; Nathan Browning was named the hardest worker and was presented with the Coaches' Award, while Field was voted most improved.

Colin Browning and Olson were both presented with captain's plaques for the 1997-98 season and were also named captains of the 1998-99 Prowlers.

The young Thief River Falls team did not have a senior on its roster this winter and Colin Browning was the only junior. Rest of the letter winners were sophomores Rory Hoven and Olson; eighth graders Gabe Carlson and Field; seventh graders Bryan Sorvig, Cody Sorvig and Nathan Browning; along with student managers Jennifer Sorvig, Lindsay Ehrenstrom and Andi Sorvig.

The Prowlers were 1-7 in dual meet competition this year with a win over Perham and losses at the hands of Park Rapids Area (twice) Bemidji, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, Fargo North, and Moorhead. They also participated in seven multiple-team events – a pair of triangulars and five invitational meets.

YOUTH WRESTLING

Twenty-four Thief River Falls youth wrestlers competed Thursday at the Bagley Invitational.

First place finishers included Adam Lian, Andrew Peralta, Ben Poissant, Billy Mattison, Brendon Klade, Chaz Abrahamson, Chris Bergeron, Jacoby Bergeron, Jorden Engen, Kevin Fynboh, Meagan Abrahamson, Mike Mattison, Philip Trontvet, Sean Sorteberg, and Thain Abrahamson.

Second place performances were turned in by Brian Anderson, Daniel Nelson, Derek Mosloff, Manuel Peralta, Michael Dyrdal, and Destiny Klade.

Erick Rhen and Josh Haverland both placed third while Allen Abercrombie wound up fourth.

Thief River Falls state tournament entries this weekend in Rochester include Beau Abrahamson, Jeremy Anderson, Colt Bergeron, Daniel LeDuc, Kyle LaDuc, Jake Muzzy, Phillip Trontvet, and Allen Abercrombie.

Mustangs hand out honors

■ Chervestad is named MVP of RLCC girls

Red Lake County Central girls high school basketball team handed out post-season awards recently with Angie Chervestad being named most valuable player; Sylvia Hilgeman, most improved; and Katie O'Neill, Miss Hustle and best defensive player while also being recognized as the Mustangs' top free throw shooter.

Chervestad, O'Neill and Jenni Monnsville were named All-Northern Galaxy Conference, with Hilgeman on the Honorable Mention list.

Hilgeman is a sophomore, the rest of the Mustangs' post-season honorees are seniors.

Chervestad finished with 1,369 career points. She averaged 14.7 points and 9.6 rebounds per game this winter. But back problems forced Chervestad to the sidelines for several mid-season games and didn't allow the 6-0 center to reach her full potential, noted Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

O'Neill, a 5-6 guard, had a strong season, mentioned Koivisto, averaging 13.6 points, 3.6 assists and 3.7 steals per game.

Red Lake County Central went 16-8 this winter, reaching the Sub-Section 30A finals before losing to Fertile-Beltrami 67-65 in overtime.

It was a disappointing finish to a season that showed much promise for a veteran team featuring three and four-year varsity performers.

"I thought this was our chance to get to the Big Dance," said Koivisto. "I thought we would go farther. But we didn't get it done."

However, it wasn't like the season was a complete bust. Of the eight losses, a half-dozen came at the hands of Class A state runner-up Red Lake Falls (twice), Sub-Section 30A champion Fertile-Beltrami (twice), Sub-Section 32A winner Tri-County, and Section 8AA power Crookston. Two losses came in overtime.

Highlight of the 1997-98 season for the Mustangs was a championship effort in the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational in December when Red Lake County Central beat Marshall County Central, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Tri-County.

"It was a good group of girls to work with," offered Koivisto. "We probably won a majority of the games we were suppose to win. We played real good defense."

They just didn't play as many games as they had hoped.

1997-98 B/G-MR girls high school basketball...

Gators' record "dips" to 17-7

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls saw their record dip during the recently-completed 1997-98 high school basketball season when the Gators collected the fewest victories in the six-year history of the three-community combination. But it should be quickly pointed out that it wasn't a bottom-dropping-out type collapse of one of the most successful programs in northwestern Minnesota. Not even close. The "drop-off" still produced a 17-7 record and a spot in the Sub-Section 32A tournament finals.

The program has averaged 20 wins per year since they combined forces in the merger/cooperative.

"This was our poorest record," noted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer, "but that doesn't necessarily mean we had our poorest team. A lot of people would like to trade places with us. We lost some close games, and there were a lot of really good teams around the area this year. It was an exceptional year for girls basketball in this part of the state."

Among the seven Badger/Greenbush-Middle River losses were five setbacks by a margin of five points or less, including a one-point defeat and a pair of two-point decisions.

The Gators opened the year with a split against North Border Conference rivals Roseau and Lake of the Woods, then won the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational and finished third the following week in the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational. And the level of their play climbed against a steady diet of top-notch competition. They split with Roseau, swept Lake of the Woods, won two of three against Kittson Central, beat Sub-Section 30A champion Fertile-Beltrami and lost a pair of close games to Sub-Section 32A winner Tri-County.

"We emphasize quality wins, and we had some of those," offered Neibauer. "One of of the most satisfying parts of the season was the amount of improvement we showed from Day 1 to the last game. We were a much better basketball team at tournament time than we were earlier in the year."

A balanced Badger/Greenbush-Middle River attack was led by senior guards Tiffany Hagen and Stefanie Sparby, who averaged 12.6 and 11.6 points per game, respectively.

"Stefanie was our best shooter from the outside against a zone defense and Tiffany was our best weapon against a man-to-man," explained Neibauer.

Falling just short of a double figure scoring average for the year was 5-10 junior Melissa Smith at 9.8 points per game. Kara Kuznia, a 5-7 senior, earned an 8.1 scoring average.

Smith led the team with 6.6 rebounds per game and Hagen averaged 5.6 rebounds per game as one of the top play-makers in the area.

The Gators had problems whenever Hagen ran into foul trouble and wasn't on the floor running the offense. They struggled at times, too, on the inside. "We weren't as strong on the boards this year as we have been," acknowledged Neibauer, "and there were a lot of physical teams around that gave us trouble."

If they bogged down offensively, the Gators simply relied on their defense to stay close. "Most games our defense was good," said Neibauer. "You're always in the hunt if you can play defense."

A tough tournament draw produced a short post-season run for the Gators, who beat Kittson Central 54-44 in the Sub-Section 32A semifinals but lost to Tri-County 45-40 in the title game.

Donarski MVP for MCC boys

Most valuable player honors went to 6-3 senior Jon Donarski as the Marshall County Central boys high school basketball team announced its award winners for the 1997-98 season.

Others receiving special recognition were Dayton Elseth, outstanding defense; Greg Ueland, most improved; and Craig Wawrzyniak, who was presented with the Coaches Award.

Nick Wilcox, Nico Bennett and David Wilcox were selected captains of the 1998-99 Nordics.

Team statistical leaders were also recognized, including Matt Nelson, Top Gun (scoring); Donarski, Courage Award (taking the charge) and Chairman of the Boards (rebounds); Caleb Holthusen, Sky King (shot blocker); David Wilcox, Big D (steals) and Sharp Shooter (free throws); and Garrett Magner, Playmaker (assists).

Donarski and Magner were North Border All-Conference picks this year, with Nelson gaining Honorable Mention status. Nelson was a Star Six All-Conference selection, with Holthusen named Honorable Mention.

The Nordics, after winning four of their first five games and standing 8-3 at the midway mark of the schedule, finished 12-13. They wound up with a .500 regular season at 11-11 then beat Goodridge 54-50 in opening round Sub-Section 31A tournament play before losing to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 53-35 in the semifinals and falling to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 61-56 in the third place game.

"We had hoped to be a little over .500," admitted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "With the way we started, we were looking to go something like 16-6."

A lot of emphasis was placed on getting off to a strong start to help recover from a 5-18 showing the year before, according to Ueland. "The kids had worked really hard in the preseason to get ready," he explained. "We thought it was important to do well early to gain some confidence."

They accomplished that goal with season-opening success that included a runner-up finish in the eight-team Thief River Falls Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic. But the Nordics might have paid a price, noted Ueland, for the fast start.

"We played with a lot of intensity right away," pointed out Ueland. "I think we got a jump start on our opponents. But it's a long season, and it's hard to maintain that level. We weren't able to do it. We played really well at the start, but we didn't execute as well offensively the second half of the year. Other teams caught up to us."

A Marshall County Central strength was its depth. Ueland regularly utilized eight players, and five of them averaged between 6.0 and 10.7 points per game. Wilcox scored 10.7 points per game to lead the way, with Nelson averaging 10.4, Donarski 9.8, Holthusen 7.3 and Magner 6.0.

"We had excellent balance," said Ueland. "We had different people step up at different times. It was a good team effort. It was a good group of kids to work with."

Donarski pulled down an average of 7.6 rebounds per game and set a school single-season record by drawing 17 charging fouls, breaking the previous mark of 14 jointly held by Jim Sethre (1977-78) and Jeremy Tallum (1992-93).

Magner averaged 4.0 assists per game and set a career assist mark with 312. The old record was 308 by Terry Olson, who graduated in 1996.

One team record – for the fewest turnovers in a game – was tied this winter when the Nordics lost the ball just four times in the Russ Smith championship game loss to Kittson Central.

The increase in the win column helped restore some of the prestige the Nordics enjoyed when they were consistently one of the top teams in the North Border Conference and perennial post-season contender during the 1970s and 1980s. But Ueland admits the task has been tougher in the 1990s as the Newfolden school faces more and more cooperative programs that funnel players from two or more communities into a single line-up.

"It's going to be harder to win consistently," offered Ueland, who figured that to win 65 to 75 percent of their games would be a major accomplishment for the Nordics today, compared to the 70 to 80 percent figure they enjoyed in the past. "There will be more up and down cycles," he warned.

Twenty-win seasons might be hard to come by for the Nordics, but they remain a challenge for most teams on most nights.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Mark Dannhoff at AKU

Mark Dannhoff, former head men's basketball coach at Northland Community and Technical College, recently completed his first year as the head assistant men's basketball coach at Arkansas Tech University.

The 4,500-student school in Russellville fields an NCAA Division II basketball program that went 6-6 in the Gulf South Conference this winter and 11-14 overall. Several of the losses came at the hands of nationally-ranked teams Northern Kentucky, Pittsburg State, Missouri Western, Delta State, and Henderson State.

"We had a lot of young kids, and we got off to a slow start," said Dannhoff in a telephone conversion this week. "We came back to win six of our last nine conference games."

Dannhoff coached five years at Northland, from 1992-93 through the 1996-97 season, before stepping down and later landing the position at Arkansas Tech, where he's enjoying the surroundings. "The weather is nice," he said. "There's no snow."

Prowlers complete '98 indoor track schedule

Nicole Kopari set another school record and Becky Mooney was a double-event winner Thursday as Thief River Falls competed in the Moorhead Athletic Association Indoor track meet at Concordia College.

Kopari tossed the shot put 40-feet, 3-inches, breaking by one inch her week-old school mark.

Mooney won both the 800 and 1600 meter runs, and Rachel Mathson took the 400.

Moorhead won the girls portion of the meet with 213 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 102, Thief River Falls 70 and Fergus Falls 64.

The Spuds also finished first in the boys scoring, beating runner-up Fergus Falls 235-106. Scoring totals for Detroit Lakes and Thief River Falls were not available.

"The performances were okay," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "We were pleased with what we saw. It was the first meet for a lot of them."

It was the second and final indoor meet of the 1998 season for the Prowlers, who opened the year last Saturday at Bemidji. A schedule break will now have them idle until their first outdoor meet of the year Tuesday, April 14, at Park Rapids.

Council seeks to improve Ag. literacy in schools

Concerned that thousands of students in Minnesota's urban schools do not have the opportunity to study and understand agriculture, the Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council will develop a wide-ranging agricultural literacy initiative, council co-chairs Rep. Steve Wenzel and Sen. Dallas Sams announced.

A key element in the plan could be creating an urban agricultural magnet school, where urban children could focus on the study of agriculture, agri-business, and the entire food and fiber production system, Wenzel said. The council voted to study the feasibility of such a school at a meeting at the State Capitol. A proposal for an urban agricultural magnet school will be submitted to the 1999 Legislature.

"The Council will move forward with a whole package of initiatives designed to increase the awareness in urban areas of the importance of agriculture," Wenzel said.

Sams said he would aggressively pursue legislation in the 1997 session to provide funding and program support for these initiatives.

"I believe that there will be widespread support for these programs to increase the level of knowledge of agriculture in Minnesota schools," Sams said.

According to Patrick Plonski, executive director of MAELC, other initiatives could include:

• Funding and support for Twin Cities schools that wish to establish agriculture programs.

• Designation of a broad agriculture literacy standard for all Minnesota students.

• Increased support for programs such as "Agriculture in the Classroom" that increase knowledge of agriculture in schools.

"Roughly half of the population of this state lives in the Twin Cities area, yet very few of these students have the opportunity to study agriculture," Plonski said. "With so many major agribusinesses located in Minnesota, it is becoming more and more important that firms like Cenex and Cargill have a pool of well-trained students who are knowledgeable about agriculture. These initiatives will help to ensure that Minnesota's number one industry — agriculture — will continue to have the well-trained labor force that it will need to stay viable in the 21st century."

Council members heard reports outlining the success of other urban agriculture schools located in Chicago, Indianapolis, Des Moines, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Orlando, Houston, Phoenix, Portland and other major cities.

The council also took action to finalize its grant-making policies. The council expects to begin accepting grant applications for proposals to improve agricultural education later this spring and to start issuing grants within a few weeks after that.

The council also heard a report from Mike Martin, dean of the College of Agricultural, Food, and Environmental Sciences at the University of Minnesota, on partnerships being established with rural Minnesota community and technical colleges. Those colleges include Central Lakes College in Brainerd, Southwest State University in Marshall, Rochester Community and Technical College, Riverland Community College in Austin, Ridgewater College in Willmar, and others. University of Minnesota officials also reported on their efforts to enroll more students from rural Minnesota into agricultural programs.

"With the actions taken at this meeting, we have begun to formulate an agenda for reforms and new initiatives in agricultural education," said Wenzel. "MAELC is in an excellent position to work with many other interested individuals and organizations to institute the changes that are necessary to strengthen our programs for agricultural education in Minnesota."

MAELC is a 16-member council established by the Minnesota Legislature in 1997 to improve and restructure vocational agricultural education in Minnesota at all levels. Members of the council represent various public, private, and governmental entities with an interest in agricultural education. To contact the council, write or call Patrick Plonski, executive director, Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council, University of Minnesota, St. Paul Campus, 320 Vocational Education Building, St. Paul, MN 55108, phone (612) 624-6249, or fax (612) 625-2798.

Crop insurance changes are made for 1998 crop

Crop insurance decisions are key to the success of farm operations, and this is a year of significant changes in crop insurance programs, according to Marvin Kosmatka, insurance specialist at Farm Credit Services (FCS) of Grand Forks, ND.

"Before making a decision this year, you really need to know all the facts," Kosmatka said in a recent issue of Farm Focus, published by FCS. "It's important that farmers know about all the various program options."

Several insurance options which Kosmatka suggests considering before making a purchase this year are Ample Yield Plus, CRC and Sugarbeet Wind-Freeze-Crusting.

Ample Yield Plus is a supplemental crop insurance that provides coverage up to an additional 20 percent of the producer's actual production history, on a combination-unit basis, over and above that provided by multi-peril crop insurance (MPCI), Kosmatka said.

It also provides coverage when a loss in production on the insured crops results in a reduction in revenue (from all sources) below the level established in the policy. When the producer's revenue falls below the coverage level, the insured would have a payable loss up to his limit of liability.

CRC is a stand-alone, alternative crop insurance policy which protects a grower's loss of revenue resulting from low yields and/or fluctuating prices. MPCI covers only production loss. CRC protects against lost revenue caused by a drop in prices, low yield or a combination of the two. Coverage levels and unit options are the same as MPCI; however, CRC has its own price structure determined from a specified grain exchange by state and by crop.

CRC has a revenue guarantee based on the higher of a preliminary price: base price established in February or a harvest price established in August. CRC is now available on wheat, corn and soybeans in all counties in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Sugarbeet Wind-Freeze-Crusting is a total coverage insurance package. The policy includes multi-peril coverage, a hail policy and a wind/freeze/crusting policy. It guarantees you a specified dollar amount if a loss or stand reduction occurs due to your beets blowing out, if an early or late frost occurs or if your crop will not emerge due to a crusting problem, Kosmatka explained.

Coverage begins at the time the beets are planted, but a loss can occur only when the beets have germinated.

Changes For 1998

Kosmatka said that insurance coverage for canola is now available in the Minnesota counties of Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, East and West Polk, Koochiching, Beltrami, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater and Norman.

Acres seeded to winter wheat in 1997 are not insurable unless they were reported to their agent by March 15, 1998.

Frost freeze option is now part of the basic policy for potatoes and a 60-day storage option is now available.

Preventive planting provision updates for 1998 include:

• The "substitute crop" provisions have been deleted;

• Production from planted acres does not count against preventive planting indemnity;

• 60% of your guarantee for coarse grains, dry beans, small grains, sunflower seed and canola;

• 45% of your guarantee for sugarbeets;

• 25% of your guarantee for potatoes;

• Option to purchase 5% or 10% more preventative plant coverage is available.

Grams supports sanctions reform act in U.S. Senate

U.S. Senator Rod Grams of Minnesota has reiterated his support for the Lugar Sanctions Reform Act intended to analyze the impact and possible success of unilateral sanctions before they are imposed.

At a meeting of the subcommittee on International Economic Policy, Sen. Grams applauded statements by witnesses of the agricultural and business communities that not only recognized the harm unilateral sanctions cause the U.S. economy, but that such sanctions rarely achieve their intended purpose and are counterproductive.

"For too long," he said, "either the Administration or Congress has imposed unilateral sanctions on other nations that don't live up to our own ideals of human rights, religious freedom and other important issues. Before these sanctions are imposed, we rarely adequately analyze the impact they would have on agricultural producers, on companies and workers in our states. They are often considered 'free votes'—in other words, we can look like we are doing something when we likely are not.

"I believe our companies can stand tall, speaking about their good record of efforts to improve the lives of people in other countries. It is our agriculture producers who usually feel the brunt of these sanctions first—and they have many examples of how unilateral sanctions have affected U.S. agriculture markets," Grams said.

After the Japanese soybean embargo of the 1970s and the Russian grain embargo of the 1980s, many U.S. exporters faced the reputation of being unreliable suppliers, Grams said. Unilateral sanctions have caused a $15-$19 billion loss in agricultural exports alone since 1995. One third of our agricultural products is exported—a number that could be greater if the U.S. imposed fewer unilateral sanctions.

"Senator Lugar and I are only requesting that we think first and then consider acting," Sen. Grams added after the hearing.

Farm land buyers should be aware about hazards

Land buyers should be aware of environmental hazards when considering purchases, according to Bob Broz, water quality extension specialist with the University of Missouri.

Start by looking for the three most common environmental problems with agricultural properties, he said. These are on-site septic tanks that are not up to code; abandoned wells; and petroleum and gasoline seepage from improper storage and handling.

Examine the area for evidence of old building sites, buried storage tanks, pesticide spills, lagoons or holding ponds, discarded vehicles or chemical containers, he suggests. Check to see what activities occurred on the land and have the well water tested.

Field peas may help break disease cycle

Adding field peas into the crop rotation will break the scab and root rot disease cycles, add nitrogen to the soil and mellow the ground, according to Hans Kandel, Red Lake county extension educator.

Kandel said field peas are an early, cool season crop to be seeded from late April to mid-May. Peas can withstand mild frost of 20-24 degrees without damage. Seeding rates are 170 to 180 pounds per acre for large-seed varieties, 150 to 170 pounds per acre for medium seeds and 120 pounds per acre for small-seed varieties. Aim for a population of eight plants per square foot.

Peas can be planted on nearly all soil types, Kandel noted, but soil should be well-drained. Using regular wheat seeding equipment, plant at a depth of two to three inches.

Peas may have a yellow or a green seed coat. Yellow peas have a slightly higher yield, but green are preferred for the human consumption market. Currently there are two plant types available: standard, long-vined full leaf, or shorter, earlier maturing, semi-leafless type.

Varieties within a column with the same letter behind them are not significantly different. The harvest index indicates the dry pea seed as a percent from the total above ground dry plant at harvest. For wheat the harvest index is in the range of 50+ percent. Due to breeding and selection the newer plant types have a higher harvest index and production compared to Trapper, the old standard. Among the varieties tested, only Majoret has a green seed coat.

Pea seed needs to be inoculated with the proper Rizobia strain bacteria (C). A sticker is recommended to attach the inoculum to the seed. Nitrogen fixation may take 30 days or longer to become established. A nitrogen credit for the subsequent small grain crop, as a rule of thumb, is about one pound of nitrogen per bushel of peas produced.

North Y	57.8a	28.6c	9.9a	48.3a
Grande	55.8ab	33.6b	8.1b	43.7b
Highlight	53.2ab	26.7cd	8.1b	48.1a

North X	45.0d	25.7de	7.6bc	43.3b
Profi	43.0d	28.7c	7.5bcd	41.8b
Trapper	28.7e	36.8a	7.9b	33.7c

Pea requirements:

N: If the soil test is lower than 20 pounds of nitrogen in the top 12 inches, apply 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen as a starter.

P: If soil test shows medium level, add 15 to 20 pounds per acre of P205.

K: About 300 pounds is required from the soil.

S: Add 15 pounds to fields with lower testing soils.

Zn: If medium soil test (0.6 to 1 ppm) add two pounds per acre of zinc (Zn). With high soil pH or high level of P, add more zinc.

A regular wheat combine may be used to harvest peas. They can be swathed if there is heavy weed pressure or unevenness at maturity (although swathing may increase harvest losses).

Peas can be utilized for human food, livestock feed or forage, seed, cover crop and/or green manure. For more information call Hans Kandel at 1-800-770-1244.

Farmer stereotyping also applies to other workers

He's an old family friend. He also happens to be a farmer. And a hunter. Plus, he has a good sense of humor. I think he would see the humor of it if, for his next birthday, I was to give him one of those double-billed caps that you see in novelty stores. On one side it will say "Farmer" and on the other side "Hunter." I've noticed that his attitude about things seems to change a bit, depending on whether he happens to be wearing his hunting or farming cap at the time! He doesn't deny it.

Funny, sometimes, how we talk and act as though "hunter" and "farmer" must be mutually exclusive terms. Has to do, I suppose, with our fondness for stereotyping. We refer to a person, for instance, as a "farmer," when, in fact, that person might also be a grandfather, a Lutheran, a hunter, a license plate collector, a German and a bowler.

We like to categorize individuals by the work we do, as though nothing else in our lives is as important. What's more, society tends to stereotype people according to their work—in other words, if you are a farmer then you must think, act and believe in a certain way. Same for those of us who work for the DNR—we're all the same, right?

Admittedly there was a time when I stereotyped with the best. I'd hear the word "farmer" and immediately my clear image of a "farmer" would appear. The fact that there are as many different "kinds" of farmers as there are "kinds" of plumbers was not something I bothered about. I had my image of a farmer and that was that! Interestingly, that image did not allow for the farmer to maybe also be a hunter!

I imagine more than a few farmers view DNR employees much the same way. And sometimes it can become a "them" and "us" kind of situation. However, when I look around at the DNR employees in this part of the state, it's interesting to note that quite a few of them grew up on farms. Some even continue to live on farms and farm part-time.

Same thing with hunters and farmers. The truth is a lot of farmers—like my friend—are also hunters. Unfortunately, we too often wind up in separate and distinct camps at odds with one another. Imagine what the farmer and hunter could accomplish together if they could iron out the differences.

Without question, it is the private landowner who holds the key to the future of wildlife and hunting and the large majority of hunters do understand that. And, those hunters do appreciate the privilege of being allowed to hunt on private land. In an effort to demonstrate their gratitude, individual hunters and representatives of a wide array of organizations have been meeting and planning special Landowner Appreciation Day (LAD) events to be held this spring at various locations. The goal is for them to become annual statewide events.

The first LAD (was) a day-long open house at the Eagle Bluff Environmental Learning Center at Lanesboro. Pancakes and other food and refreshments (were) served all day, and numerous booths and displays set up to provide landowners with information on a wide variety of subjects. The event (was) free and open to all landowners.

A similar LAD is being planned for Saturday, April 4, at the Izaak Walton League building in New Ulm.

On these two days the roles are reversed—the hunter is playing host to his guest, the landowner. If you happen to be both a hunter and a landowner, the choice is yours.

IRA contribution rises to $4,000 total

Maximum amount which a couple can pay into an IRA when only one of the spouses has earned income increased to $4,000 annually in 1997 from $2,250 in prior years. The maximum for an individual remains at $2,000.

The 1997 IRA can be funded prior to filing federal income tax for that year. It is also possible to fund the 1998 contribution now, thereby sheltering earnings on the investment from taxes for an additional several months.

AgSmart is quick step to financing farming

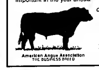
AgSmart, a new national trade credit financing program, brings a new solution for agribusinesses of all types, according to Rod Nelsestuen, AgSmart national director.

"AgSmart was created to provide agribusinesses with a competitive, service-focused advantage in trade credit financing," he said. "It is different from other national financing programs because it is not product specific, and its flexibility allows each agribusiness to tailor its own unique program on a customer-by-customer basis."

A product of the Farm Credit System, AgSmart provides operating loans and an accounts receivable financing program to national and regional agribusinesses who can, in turn, offer them to their customers. The program can service a broad set of agribusiness needs including chemical, fertilizer and seed dealers, along with a variety of other imput suppliers and cooperatives.

AgSmart's key benefits are its flexible program options, quick and consistent funding decisions (usually within minutes) and personalized service for the agribusiness offering the program.

With AgSmart, agribusinesses can generate trade credit loans in a cost-effective manner, enhance their level of customer service and position themselves as leaders in providing value in the marketplace.



"There's tremendous excitement for AgSmart among the agribusinesses we've contacted," Nelsestuen added. "We have commitments from dozens of agribusinesses already, and expect the number to grow steadily following the national launch."

In addition to Nelsestuen, AgSmart has three national sales managers and more than 100 relationship managers—Farm Credit System representatives—across the country, who are responsible for providing quality service and custom-tailored programs. AgSmart is headquartered in St. Paul and has its customer service center in Dallas, TX.

Agribusinesses interested in learning more about AgSmart financing programs should contact their nearest Farm Credit institution—Production Credit Association, Agricultural Credit Association, CoBank or the St. Paul Bank—for additional information or call 972-605-6345 to be directed to a nearby relationship manager. AgSmart is owned by banks and associations in the Farm Credit System.

requests. The Governor's recommendation placed it fourth. When the request reached the House and Senate, it didn't receive the support it needed.

Nelson reported that an Amateur Cultural Sports Commission was being proposed to Blandin Foundation. He explained that under the proposal Blandin would help fund the creation and development of an Amateur Cultural Sports Commission in the community. It was the consensus of the joint powers board that he continue to pursue this opportunity.

Public participation in the project is an important aspect of this entire project. Since its inception, public input has been solicited and each meeting has been open to the public. Public participation will remain important to the project. Wednesday, the board discussed proposed Public Information Sessions. Tentatively, the Public Information Session has been scheduled for an evening on a Monday or Thursday during the first or second week of May. Items on the agenda will include a short presentation on the history of the project, a presentation from the architectural firm, a presentation on fund development, and a presentation on public participation. Differently-abled speaker motivates area students

She was unable to speak. She noticed that her fingers were black and curled up. When the ventilator was removed, the first thing she did was ask a young intern, 'Doctor, what are you going to do about my hands?' The intern explained that while they had done everything they could, the infection had stopped the flow of blood and dry gangrene had set in. Jan could see the problem with her hands, but felt like a bombshell had been dropped on her when the intern told her that her feet were also affected and that there was no choice but to amputate her hands and feet. She visualized herself unable to walk, confined to a wheelchair. An outdoorsy, athletic person, she was devastated by the news. "And then," Jan said, "the doctor gave me hope when she said, 'Jan, you will walk again.'"

The amputation of Jan's hands and feet was performed by two surgeons, one for the upper and one for the lower extremities. Her arms were removed below the elbows and her feet below the knees.

After healing and recovering from the surgery, Jan "started over" at the Sister Kinney Institute, a rehabilitation center in Minneapolis, in January of 1990. Fitted with artificial limbs, she learned how to do everything again, from dress herself to cook and clean. Learning to walk again, she advanced from a walker to canes to assistance from others to finally, walking on her own. She was released from the rehabilitation center in March — when she was able to carry an egg without breaking it and walk across the room on her own.

By April, Jan had her driver's license back. With the exception of a knob added to the steering wheel, she drives a regular vehicle. She is able to drive a stick shift but has to leave the dome light on at night. Without her sense of touch, she needs to be able to see the shift lever.

Jan resumed her teaching career and taught for two years before going back to school for a speech communications degree. She also studied and was ordained in the ministry.

Today, Jan substitutes in the private and public schools in Willmar and currently serves as the children's pastor at Triumphant Life Church, a non-denominational church in Willmar. She is also an on-air personality at radio station KWLM and speaks publicly between 200 and 300 times a year. She maintains a home for herself and her two sons, a high school senior and sixth-grader. Jan said, "I can walk for miles and miles," and she continues to enjoy outdoor activities. She and her sons raise English setters.

Jan's presentation included an interesting demonstration about prosthetic limbs, what she uses and how they work. While the loss of her feet was initially devastating, it has been the loss of her hands and her sense of touch that she has missed the most. "Nothing can replace your hands," she said.

The students and adults in attendance were spellbound by her inspirational and motivational speech which included just the right amount of humor. Jan defined success as being the best we can be with what we have, and she went on to describe the three C's — character, courage and compassion — as the elements of success.

Disabled would never be a word one would use to describe this dynamic woman, and regardless of what kind of limbs Jan Turner has, the most different thing about her is just how courageous and capable she is.

Badger students to present songs from eight musicals

Special To The Northern Watch
by Annette Hermansen

On Saturday, April 4 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, April 5 at 5 p.m., Badger high school vocalists will perform more than two dozen songs from eight musicals.

Badger high school music instructor Nikki Goulet, who commutes daily from Thief River Falls where she is a Lincoln graduate, has challenged her students and volunteers to an all-out effort. By scheduling performances on both Saturday (deadline for dinner theatre tickets was March 27) and Sunday, Goulet hopes her students can share the exciting sounds of Broadway with two full-house audiences.

Tickets are available from Badger high school choir members and at the school office and some tickets may be available at the door for the 5 p.m. April 5 performance. Snack foods will be served at this performance.

Goulet's talent and "can-do" attitude have sparked so much enthusiasm that extra stage units are needed. Almost all of Badger's junior and senior high school students are involved in one or more of the four choirs—concert, varsity, jazz or women's. Badger's school stage can not contain them all, even with the portable extensions used last year.

This week, in time for the heavy schedule of special evening rehearsals climaxing months of preparation, a flatbed truck was borrowed to haul in many stage units from the Roseau county fairgrounds. Blocking and polishing dance routines in this larger space is the current emphasis. Learning dance routines in addition to lyrics and melodies requires great effort. About 20 students have solo parts.

High school art students are currently putting finishing touches on the last pair of eight large flats started in early January. An additional stage set (for a Show boat selection) will be constructed along a side wall of the gymnasium just before dress rehearsal, when regular physical education classes must be relocated.

Stage lights are being borrowed from Roseau high school. Badger school's new sound system will enhance the performance.

With rented costumes and colorful stage sets, hundreds of dollars have been invested. Students and teachers as well as volunteers in Badger's Music Boosters have spent countless hours. In charge of Saturday's pre-show chicken kiev dinner and the Sunday evening snack table is a food committee including Marsha Efio, Debbie Meier, Pam Howell and Jody Randall.

Financial assistance from Badger Jaycees also helps to make this ambitious production possible.

With only 107 students in grades 7-12, Badger is a small school but not behind the times. About 80 student vocalists will perform songs from productions as new as Titanic and Joseph and His Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and as old as West Side Story and Phantom of the Opera.

Medleys of music from Wizard of Oz and Big River (Huck Finn) will be featured on side stages backed by double flats 10 feet high. Another popular musical to be sampled is the dramatic Beauty and the Beast.

Visiting accompanist Angie Larson, imported from out of state, will be at the piano.

Local artist Paulette Christianson has spent many hours working with the small crew of student painters since Annette Hermansen's high school art class concluded at the end of the second quarter. Rudy Berger, student director of the state crew, is a senior in independent art study during the third quarter. He intends to continue his art studies after graduation. Other student painters are Jedd Von Ende, Andy Ellenson, Brent Walsh, Elena Bocharova, John Herndon, Garett Monsrud, Brennen Waage and Jasen Swanson.

Kittson Central faces enrollment drop in 1998-99

Hallock - Faced with an estimated drop of over 30 students for the 1998-99 school year, administration at Kittson Central is looking into areas of possible reduced spending. Superintendent Bruce Jenson has proposed reviewing two elementary positions, the speech position, middle school science position and the music area. He also asked whether the district can afford to have two or more sections for each class and keep three buildings open.

Last year, the board considered adding on to the high school so that students could be housed in two buildings, but the project was stopped because of the poor farm economy and high construction bids coming in for other projects in the area. Kittson County Enterprise

Middle River Extravaganza draws good crowd

Middle River - The 3rd annual Middle River Extravaganza at the American Legion in Middle River was attended by a large crowd last Saturday evening.

The evening's activities included a social hour, dinner, games and fund-raiser. Money raised will be used by the Middle River Community Club for community improvements. New River Record

Policy on traffic laws set on Leech Lake Reservation

Cass Lake - If you're driving on the Leech Lake Reservation you can expect to abide by the same traffic laws as the rest of the state, with a few exceptions.

A traffic code was adopted by the Leech Lake Tribal Council at a recent meeting, and within a year, the council plans to hire 14 officers and four dispatchers. Leech Lake had to decide whether it wanted to establish a police force and court system after the Minnesota Supreme Court ruled on Stone vs. Minnesota in December of 1997 that neither the state nor counties have jurisdiction over traffic matters regarding tribal members on reservations.

The only difference in traffic laws is that Leech Lake Reservation members do not need to have insurance, a driver's license or vehicle registration to drive on the reservation. Leech Lake is an open reservation sprawling unto four counties — Hubbard, Beltrami, Itasca and Cass. The Pioneer

Ag Day held in Red Lake Falls

Red Lake Falls - Between 700 and 800 people attended the 13th annual Ag Day at the community hall in Red Lake Falls last Saturday.

Guest speaker for the event was Grand Forks Mayor Pat Owens. Owens gave a review of last year's flood and told about her meetings with President Clinton. At the end of her presentation, she received a standing ovation from the overflow crowd in the basement of the community hall. The Gazette

Lincoln high band concert is April 6

Lincoln High School Bands will present a concert on Monday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln High School Auditorium. Performing will be the jazz band, concert band, and wind ensemble. During part of the evening, the band will be led by LHS Director Bruce Felt, but Guest Conductor Leigh Wakefield will spend most of the evening directing students.

Dr. Wakefield is the professor of clarinet and woodwind methods at Concordia College. He also conducts the Concordia Cobber Concert Band. Currently he is principal clarinetist with the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony Orchestra and the Fargo-Moorhead Opera Company and performs as a clinician, guest conductor and adjudicator.

Leigh Wakefield, originally from Minneapolis, received his undergraduate degrees in political science and music from the University of Minnesota. He has since earned a master's degree in clarinet from the New England Conservatory of Music and has completed his D.M.A. at the University of Minnesota. While living in New England, he performed as principal clarinetist in the New Bedford Symphony and the Nashua Symphony, as well as being an active chamber musician in the Boston area.

Dr. Leigh Wakefield
Guest Conductor

The concert will open with two selections by the jazz band, "You'd Be So Nice To Come Home Too" featuring Leslie Ihle on alto saxophone and Brad Dekkers on trumpet. The other selection is a funk tune called "Chewin' the Fat" that features Josh Lampe on bass guitar, Tyler Stinson on drums, Anthony Kennedy on bari sax and Jim Lehrer on trombone.

The concert band portion of the program will open with Dr. Wakefield conducting "Dedicatory Overture". Then Mr. Felt will make a brief appearance on stage to lead the band in a beautiful rendition of "Amazing Grace." Dr. Wakefield will end this band's portion of the program with a thrilling closer entitled "Festa."

The wind ensemble will perform four selections: a short fanfare entitled "Cheer" will start things off. The other three songs, all under the leadership of Dr. Wakefield, will be "Cajun Folk Songs, Set 2," "In the Bleak Midwinter" and "New River Suite."

Domestic violence is topic on Monday

An organizational meeting of Coordinated Community Response, formerly Pennington County Domestic Violence Task Force, will be meeting from 4 to 6 p.m. Monday, April 6, in the Thief River Falls Public Library meeting room.

This meeting will feature Chuck Derry of the Gender Violence Institute. Derry, with over 15 years of experience working with domestic violence issues, will facilitate a conversation to advance efforts to create a Coordinated Community Response (CCR) in Pennington County. His visit is funded by a Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), a federal formula grant program.

The purpose of the grant to the Violence Intervention Project in Thief River Falls, which is promoting the Coordinated Community Response group, is to enhance working relationships with local law enforcement agencies in the context of a larger coordinated community response. It is the role of the project to coordinate existing criminal justice, human service, and battered women's agencies to develop policies and practices that strengthen the community's response in domestic assault situations. Targeted goals include following the response at the domestic assault scene immediately following the incident; writing and multiple uses of arrest reports; development of intra- and inter-agency policies, procedures and protocols; and enhancing the role of law enforcement and advocacy programs within a larger coordinated community response. Additionally, the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension has received VAWA funding to collaborate with the Gender Violence Institute, local training units, and affected agencies to develop law enforcement training in the six communities receiving the grant funds. (The Violence Intervention Project in Thief River Falls is one of six battered women's agencies in the state selected to participate in the grant program.)

The underlying purpose of the grant is the belief that when law enforcement and criminal justice intervention projects work cooperatively and in the context of a larger coordinated community response, more batterers are held accountable for their violence, more victims and their children are provided safety from repeated acts of violence, and a greater deterrence to domestic violence is created in the community. The results of this project will be documented and made available for replication in other areas of the state and country to end violence against women.

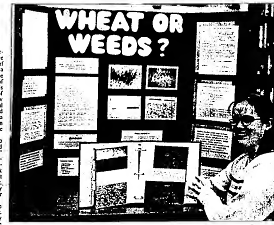
Audubon group to hear program on sled dogs

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Agassiz Audubon Society members are in for an interesting evening at this year's spring Wetlands, Pines & Prairie Sanctuary banquet on Tuesday, April 14 at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion in Warren.

The evening's events will include a presentation entitled, "Sled Dogging and Other Adventures," by Janice Springer and her husband, William Dahl. Springer and Dahl met in the Arctic village of Kotzebue where the couple took up dog mushing. While there, Bill learned to build sleds and run dogs, and Janice learned how to do Eskimo skin sewing and make the mukluks, mitts and other clothing supplements to keep them warm. Winter camping became a favorite pastime.



Springer was born and raised in Colorado. A registered nurse, she received her bachelors degree from the University of Colorado and masters degree in organizational leadership from the College of St. Catherine.

Dahl was born in Edmondton, Alberta, Canada and is a graduate of Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls and the University of Minnesota School of Medicine.

The couple now lives in Foley. Dr. Dahl is currently practicing in Student Health Services at St. Cloud University, and Springer owns Popple Creek Farms Custom Guide Service and Winter Retreats. In their thriving winter business they teach the intricacies of mushing and managing dogs as well as how to stay warm. In his spare time, Bill builds all of their sleds. In addition to teaching dog mushing during the winter months, Janice guides trips to Honduras and the Amazon and teaches canoeing, kayaking and camping in northern Minnesota and Canada.

Springer and Dahl will enhance their presentation with interesting slides, some sled dogs, a sled and clothing. Tickets for the event, which will include music by the Walseth family, can be purchased at

Sarah Hegge, daughter of Jim and Susan Hegge of Brooks and a freshman at Pershing high school in Plummer, will be the third student from Plummer to win a trip to the International Science and Engineering Fair. She was selected as an alternate to the International event at the regional science fair recently at Bemidji State University. Rod Shand won a trip to South Bend, IN, in 1974 and Shannon Fisher won back-to-back trips to Pittsburgh, PA and Tulsa, OK, in 1989 and 1990. Sarah's project was titled, "Wheat or Weeds."

Plummer students advance with science fair projects

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Freshmen science students Sarah Hegge and Emily Hagen at Pershing high school in Plummer will both be participating in the Minnesota State Science Fair April 17 through 19 in Rochester as a result of their participation at the regional science fair at Bemidji State University.

For Sarah, however, the state event will be only a stopping point. She also qualified at the regional meet in Bemidji as an alternate to the International Science and Engineering Fair in Fort Worth, TX.

"It should be a lot of fun," she said. "As an alternate I don't compete so I won't have to bring all of my materials with me. But I get to participate in all of the activities and see what the show is like and what projects are being done."

Sarah's project was entitled "Wheat or Weeds?" and involved analysis of weed control on summer fallowed ground and comparing winter wheat grown without herbicides on ground summer fallowed the previous year and spring wheat treated with herbicides on ground used to raise barley the previous year.

She used four fields for analysis, measuring out 30 centimeter squares in each field. The study areas were left undisturbed for the 1997 crop year. Two of the study plots were on fields summer fallowed in 1997 to check for weed growth in untilled areas. A third plot was on a field summer fallowed in 1996 and planted to winter wheat that fall for 1997 harvest. The fourth was on a field which grew barley in 1996 and was planted to wheat in 1997.

"I monitored each field throughout the summer and at harvest of the spring and winter wheat," she wrote. "I found the spring wheat heavily infested with weeds. With the wet summer, the herbicide failed to control the weeds completely.

"I found the winter wheat was clean at harvest. I found that the winter wheat started early in the spring, and without the influx of weeds at seeding, it out-competed the few weeds that sprouted. The winter wheat kept weeds in check until after harvest.

"Only starter fertilizer was used on the winter wheat in the fall. Winter wheat yields were higher

97th Pennington County Fair to be six-day event

People who like carnival rides or are looking for something to do in the evening will get a special kick out of the 97th annual Pennington County Fair scheduled for six days, Tuesday through Sunday, July 14-19. Fair board members have made an extra effort to fill the big event with fun and activity.

"We have made arrangements with Rogers Bros. Funland carnival to be set up and operating from noon Tuesday through Sunday evening," notes Mike Sorteberg, president of the Pennington County Fair Association.

"The carnival has also agreed to permit us to sell the popular mega pass tickets for $25, the same price as last year, and these passes will permit the holder to have unlimited rides throughout all six days and nights of the fair. Rogers Bros. is also trying to perfect its photo identification plastic name tag which can be clipped on any clothing and would replace the sealed arm band which has been required to be worn throughout the duration of its use."

The mega passes will go on sale at all grocery and convenience store outlets in Pennington county well in advance of the fair. If the photo I.D. system is used by the carnival, advance purchasers will be able to exchange their passes for the cards at the fairgrounds.

Emphasis On Carnival

"We know that the carnival is a big part of the county fair for many people," Sorteberg said, "and that two years ago many—including the fair board members—were disappointed when the carnival failed to live up to its contract. The board heard many good comments about the quality of the replacement Rogers Bros. carnival and the extended days for rides last year and is pleased that the carnival is going all out in cooperating with us in another 'pay-back' year to fairgoers again this year."

Sorteberg said the carnival will have a Mardi Gras theme this year with its employees costumed for much of the fair. He also said there are no other county fairs or public celebrations in the area during the Pennington fair dates.

One-Price Show Tickets

An innovation for the Pennington County Fair this year will be a one-price ticket good for five nights of grandstand entertainment. The ticket will provide admission to Friday and Saturday sessions of the increasingly popular Bull Ride '98, the venerable Jaycee Demolition Derby Sunday and two new events.

Opening the series of grandstand shows Wednesday, July 15, will be

Kathy Lee Ogden and Renegade will be part of a three-hour country and western show Thursday evening, July 16, at the Pennington County Fair. The second part of the program will feature Jeff Moore, a nephew of George Jones. The fair is offering a new one-price ticket this year which covers five grandstand performances.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

If the weather lasts, everybody wants to be outdoors this weekend. Here are some quick fixing recipes so you don't have to spend precious time in the kitchen.

Everybody will love this quick dish, and it can be made ahead and refrigerated until time to eat (bake a little longer if cold):

EASY PIZZA PAT

Crust
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2/3 cup shortening
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Form a dough of flour, salt, baking powder and shortening. Add cold water as needed to make like pie crust. Pat on sides and bottom of ungreased pizza pan. Prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake at 450 degrees for 10-12 minutes, until light brown.

Filling
15 ounce can pizza sauce
5 wieners, sliced (or pepperoni slices or cooked hamburger crumbles)
2 ounce can drained mushrooms
1 cup mozzarella, shredded
1/4 cup parmesan cheese

Layer above over crust in order given. Bake 8-10 minutes more until cheese is melted and bubbly.

This is one cake recipe that has been used over and over at my house, and it makes a cake large enough for company:

CRAZY CAKE

3 cups flour
1/3 cup cocoa
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons soda
3 teaspoons vanilla
3/4 cup oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 cups cold water

Mix flour, cocoa, sugar, salt and soda together in bowl. Make 3 holes and pour vanilla into one, oil in the larger and vinegar in third. Pour water over all and mix until blended (I use a mixer).

Bake at 350 degrees for about 40 minutes until cake tests done.

And here's the frosting I use - I mix it up and put it on very low while the cake is baking and then cook and beat it after the cake comes up because it doesn't matter if the cake is a little warm when it is frosted:

CRAZY CAKE FROSTING

1 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter
Dash of salt
1/4 cup milk
1 square of unsweetened baking chocolate
Vanilla

Mix sugar, butter, salt and milk in saucepan. Add chocolate and heat and stir until all is melted. Bring to rolling boil and cook about 3 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand a bit.

Add vanilla and beat by hand for a while, until mixture starts to thicken and is cool. If it thickens too fast, add half and half or milk, a little at a time, and keep stirring until mixture is cooler. Frost cake.

This salad will be great with the patty pizza above:

LAYERED LETTUCE SALAD

1 head lettuce, broken
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 package frozen peas, thawed but not cooked
1 small can water chestnuts, sliced
2 - 3 hard cooked eggs
2 cups mayonnaise
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 pound grated cheese
10 slices crisp, crumbled bacon

As Canada Geese Go, Too Much Success Is Not A Good Thing

"It's a case where our success is coming back to haunt us." Steve Wilds, regional chief of the Migratory Bird Program for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Minneapolis, made the foregoing comment about the proliferation of Giant Canada geese in the Twin Cities metropolitan area and elsewhere.

In Canada geese, as in real estate, the three key words are location, location and location. It's not necessarily a problem of too many geese, but a problem of geese in the wrong locations—on lawns, beaches, public parks, golf courses and especially near airport runways.

"Fifteen years ago there were probably only 5,000 Canada geese in the entire Twin Cities metro area," says Wilds, whose office at the Fort Snelling Federal Building overlooks the Minneapolis/St. Paul International Airport. "Now we've got 25,000 geese and they're causing problems."

In the early 1960s it was estimated there were only 50,000 Giant Canada geese left in all of North America. Now the estimate is that there are over two million of the big birds in the eastern United States alone. They have adapted to living around people to take advantage of what the human environment has to offer—short, succulent grass on the areas mentioned above, open water and few predators. In a number of cases they have become outright possessive, attacking people they consider to be venturing too close to their nests or goslings.

From a wildlife and human clash standpoint, you might call Giant Canada geese the feathered timber wolves of the metro area. They are symbols of the wild and free, majestic in appearance, have increased dramatically in numbers in accordance with federal protection and are most admired in someone else's back yard.

While wolves so far have been a serious threat in populated areas only to livestock and pets, geese are a very real threat to human safety as they relate to airports. Most modern commercial passenger aircraft are designed to withstand the impact or engine ingestion of a single bird weighing one to three pounds. Giant Canada geese weigh 12 pounds or more and most often fly in flocks of relatively close formation. One or more being struck by a plane could cause a tragedy of catastrophic proportions.

In fact, the FAA estimates there are about 240 incidents each year of planes striking geese with millions of dollars of damage resulting. In 1995 a Boeing 707 jet aircraft collided with Canada geese on take-off from Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, AK, and 24 people were killed in the crash.

Two reasonably successful control measures have been special hunting seasons and trapping and transport efforts. During the summer molt, geese lose their flight feathers and can be fairly easily trapped and removed from problem areas. But every state wildlife agency which once wanted Giant Canada geese now has them and doesn't want any more.

A popular option with many people is the processing of captured geese for distribution through area food shelves where they are provided at no cost to needy families. Even this humanitarian effort is opposed by animal rights groups, but to its credit, the USFWS in this case doesn't confuse a few flakes with a blizzard.

"Let me be clear," says USFWS Regional Director Bill Hartwig of the Minneapolis office. "No organization takes the welfare of wild animals more seriously than the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. But while we need to protect our animals, we also need to address human safety concerns. The story of our Giant Canada geese is a very positive one, and I'd much rather deal with the problem of having too many than too few. For now, we'll continue to do what's necessary to keep urban goose populations at a safe, acceptable level."

Hartwig expects to support state food shelf programs for distribution of captured urban geese again this year.

We understand the need for controls in the metro area, but we're sure that area farmers would be grateful for similar USFWS understanding and assistance when geese are eating, trampling and fouling their fall harvest crops.

Congressmen introduce bill to aid farmers

Congressmen Collin Peterson of Minnesota's Seventh District and Earl Pomeroy of North Dakota introduced legislation in Washington designed to provide some relief for the farm crisis regions of northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota.

"This legislation doesn't answer all of the problems farmers in these areas are having to deal with, but it is a start," Rep. Peterson said. "These are the first places in the country that are experiencing the downside of an inadequate safety net. Things are so bad that there are a number of farmers who won't be farming next year."

For counties that have been declared federal disaster areas in any three of the last five years, the bill would provide assistance in three categories. First, the bill extends a federal revenue insurance pilot program for the region allowing producers the option of protecting themselves against loss of crop input costs or production values.

In addition, the bill would prevent the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) from using yields from crop years declared a disaster to determine the Actual Production History.

Second, the bill would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to lift the current limits on marketing loans, and allow for a six-month extension of marketing loans.

The third category of assistance would amend the current emergency loan eligibility criteria to make it easier to meet the qualifying threshold in multi-year disaster areas.

"Farmers in the region have been hit hard by bad weather and poor prices," Rep. Pomeroy added. "This bill gives producers in disaster regions a break."

Youth firearms training class at Plummer

Youth firearms safety training class series will begin Monday, April 13, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Plummer school. A parent must attend the first session with his or her child.

Additional classes in the series will be conducted April 15, 17, 21 and 22. Students must be 12 years old or older by November 6 in order to participate. Fee for the program is $5 and is requested to be paid in the school office.

Visual artist grants now available

Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) is accepting applications for grants of up to $500 for adult individual artists and $250 for student artists. Supported with funding from the McKnight Foundation, these programs provide artists with grants for specific projects which contribute directly to their creative and professional growth and development. The deadline is May 15.

Artists may apply for assistance with costs associated with the production and presentation of work, professional training and mentorship, supplies related to specific projects, and other services. Applications are encouraged from individuals working in literary, performing or visual art.

Artists must be Minnesota residents who have resided in the seven-county northwestern Minnesota area for at least one year prior to the deadline date of May 15, 1998. Counties of northwestern Minnesota include Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, and Norman.

Applications, guidelines and forms are available from Mara Lunde, Arts Council Director, NWRDC, 115 South Main, Warren, 56762, or by calling 218-745-6733.

Emergency USDA loans now available

Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman has named seven Minnesota counties eligible for Farm Service Agency emergency farm loans because of losses due to heavy rain and excessive moisture that occurred from June 1 through October 31, 1997.

Red Lake and Polk counties were named as primary disaster areas on March 19, 1998. Also eligible, because they are contiguous to Red Lake and Polk counties are Pennington, Clearwater, Mahnomen, Marshall and Norman counties.

Farmers in all seven counties have eight months to apply for loans to help cover part of their actual losses. To be eligible, producers must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of normal production in a single enterprise, be able to repay the loan and any other loans, be unable to obtain credit elsewhere, and have adequate security.

Also on the program will be highlights of district activities of the past year, and recognition of the Outstanding Conservationists Bill and Phyllis Wikert of Grygla, and Goodyear Award winners Lee and Donna Nelson and Richard and Margaret Nelson of Goodridge.

A roast beef dinner will be served beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults, $4 for students under 12, and preschool children will be admitted free of charge. Tickets are available from any of the board members — Grant Satre, Lloyd Wiseth, Orvis Byklum, Milton Anderson or Gordon Foss or from the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD office located on the north end of Motel 89.

Area students at Concordia travel to work

Five students from the Northern Watch area who attend Concordia College in Moorhead traveled during their spring break recently to work on Habitat for Humanity projects.

Jonathan Schmidt and Kelly Anderson of Stephen and Eldan Quam of Goodridge went to Central America and Jon Frolander of Warroad and Danelle Hyland of Goodridge traveled to Oakland, CA.

In total, Concordia students contributed more than 5,000 hours of work during the break, assisting communities in need. They worked with faculty and staff advisers to repair and construct homes with low income people in rural and urban neighborhoods.

Habitat for Humanity was organized in the belief that all people have a right to affordable and adequate housing. During the spring break more than 6,200 students from around the nation—844 of them from Minnesota—volunteered from February 16 to April 5. Established in 1991, the Concordia Habitat chapter is one of the largest of 380 campus chapters.

Concordia student volunteers were responsible for raising their own money, a total of $300 per student. Each student then donated $100 to the site where he or she worked. Many students went to their home communities and churches for donations. Each group traveled by van or bus to the project and students lived in a group setting at or near their work sites.

Jonathan Schmidt is the son of Robert and Owendolyne Schmidt of Stephen and a senior majoring in psychology and biology.

Kelly Anderson, whose parents are Gary and Susan Anderson of Stephen, is a junior majoring in biology.

Danelle Hyland is the daughter of Aldan and Trudy Hyland of Goodridge and a sophomore at Concordia.

Eldan Quam of Goodridge is the son of Gaylen Quam and Marilyn Honsey and a senior in accounting.

Children in grades 3 to 6 may participate in musical

Thief River Falls elementary school children in grades three through six have been invited to audition for a one-hour musical and variety program to be presented for the public June 1 and 2.

A meeting was conducted Tuesday, March 31, but director Kari Frisch said it was brought to her attention that some students and their parents did not receive the informational letters—distributed through Challenger elementary school classes—in time to attend the meeting.

Kids on the 50's is the name for the program and will include song, dance and creative dramatics, Frisch said. Rehearsals will start April 20 and run every day after school from 3:20 to 5:15 p.m. (excluding Memorial Day and May 29 graduation day). One Saturday rehearsal is schedule on May 30 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Attendance at rehearsals is mandatory. June 1 and 2 performances will be at 7:30 p.m.

"We do not want any student to miss an opportunity to audition because his or her parents did not receive notification in time," Frisch said. "If your third through sixth grade child is interested in auditioning for Kids on the 50's please call me at 681-6604 before Thursday, April 9."

To recognize outstanding volunteers

Nominees for the 1997 Acts of Kindness governor's volunteer award program are being sought to assist in recognizing Minnesotans who make life better for others and who give of themselves to improve their neighborhoods and communities.

Created in 1975, the awards program brings much-deserved recognition and visibility to those who contribute their time and talents. Nomination deadline is April 30.

To ensure that the program recognizes volunteers from throughout the state, Minnesota's 87 counties have been grouped into 16 regions. One volunteer or group of volunteers will be recognized from each region.

The review committee, including representatives from the nonprofit, government and private sectors throughout the state, will select the 16 award winners based on criteria such as the kind of volunteer work performed, the need addressed and the impact of the service provided.

"The volunteers who receive the Governor's Volunteer Award truly represent the spirit of volunteerism that touches the lives of all Minnesotans," Gov. Carlson said. "Winners will be honored during a special award ceremony at the 1998 Minnesota State Fair in August."

Acts of Kindness is administered by the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services, Department of Administration, which provides statewide leadership and service to the volunteer community.

To nominate an outstanding volunteer or group of volunteers from your community, contact MOCVS at 1-800-234-6687.

Red Lake-Pennington DHIA lists top herds for February

Todd and Jay Johnstons dairy herd placed first among the top 15 herds in the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of February, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

The 63-cow Johnston herd was 90% in milk for February and averaged daily production of 78 pounds of milk, 2.8 pounds of butterfat and 2.4 pounds of protein.

In second place was the small cow herd at Northwest Agricultural Experiment station where 56 cows were 91% in milk and averaged 73 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.4 pounds of protein for the month.

In third place was Wayne Vettleson's herd where 92 percent of the 139-cow herd was in milk and averaged 71 pounds of milk, 2.8 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein. Cows in the Vettleson herd are milked three times a day.

Other herds in the top 15 include the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk during February and average pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cow herd), 53, 91%, 70, 2.4 and 2.2, Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 43, 88%, 62, 2.0 and 1.9, Walter Bros. Farm, 204, 84%, 58, 2.1 and 1.8; and Gary and Polly Bakken, 20, 100%, 57, 2.2 and 1.8.

Also Beyer Farms, 65, 91%, 56, 2.0 and 1.8; Mark Lehmann, 41, 95%, 56, 2.0 and 1.18; Bob Schindler, 66, 82%, 55, 1.9 and 1.7; Wayne Nelson, 41, 83%, 54, 1.9 and 1.8; David Oslund, 247, 84%, 54, 1.9 and 1.8; Gary and Grant Gulleksan, 60, 80%, 54, 1.8 and 1.7, Randy & Jo Gast, 76, 87%, 53, 1.9 and 1.8; and E. Duane and Faith Knott, 92, 85%, 53, 2.0 and 1.6.

Percentage of cows in milk during the testing month is significant since production of the herd is calculated using all cows as a base. Cows not in production result in a reduction of the average per cow motorcycle moto-cross racing. This is a first-time event for the county fair and is being dubbed the Pennington County Fair Cross.

97th Pennington County Fair to be six-day event

Jeff Moore

Thursday night entertainment will be a three-hour show provided by two Country-Western groups. Opening the program will be Kathy Lee Ogden and Renegade, a high energy show which was the opening act in 1997 for Kevin Sharp, The Bellamy Brothers, Buffalo Club and Lonestar as well as headlining a number of county fairs.

Second part of the program will feature Texas-born Jeff Moore, who began singing gospel music with his evangelist parents across North America at the age of four. His uncle, the legendary George Jones, heard him sing at a family reunion and by the time he was a senior in high school he was booked as the opening act for George at his Country Music Park in Colmesneil, TX. There he honed his skills by sharing the stage with such acts as Mark Chesnutt, John Anderson, Loretta Lynn and Hank Williams Jr.

Jeff's first two releases—Fever and She's Over You—were top twenty club hits and his newest single, Wrangler Butts, topped out at No. 3 on the National Dance King chart.

Tickets for the five-night grandstand entertainment package will be $20 for adults and $12 for children age 12 and younger and will be available in advance at carnival mega pass sale sites. Admission will also be sold for individual events, but fair board entertainment director Floyd Erickson said the package price will be less than half the cost of five individual admissions.

Lots Of Free Entertainment

For those who like entertainment any time of the day or evening, the free entertainment at the bandshell will begin with an area Church Night Tuesday and continue from noon to 11 p.m. for the remaining five days of the fair.

Rotating performances each day at the bandshell will be Franco the Magician, whose acts include an underwater escape and other escapes and illusions; the Rave On Band with 1950s and 1960s music, costumes and memorabilia, including hula hoops; Debbie Collins Band, a Country-Western group, and the local band Saddle Tramp.

Arctic Cat 4x4 On Raffle

To raise funds to support the bandshell entertainment—which is free to the public but not to the fair board—the county fair will again conduct a raffle with a $10 ticket providing a chance for 16 valuable prizes including an Arctic Bearcat 4x4, riding lawnmower, big screen television and other merchandise and cash prizes to be announced later. Drawings will take place on the last night of the fair and winners need not be present to claim their prizes.

Members of the Lincoln high school band under the direction of Bruce Felt will conduct vehicle parking on the grounds throughout the fair as a fund-raiser for a forthcoming trip. Last year the Lincoln choir under the direction of Darcy Reese handled the auto parking to raise funds for this spring's New York City performance trip.

Work is now being done in preparing the annual premium list and leasing exhibit space in the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center and concession area on the independent midway.

Greek Folk Dancers, a talented group of dancers who perform fast-paced and lively dances demanding concentration and dedication, will be among the performers to delight audiences at the All Nations Cultural Festival in St. Hilaire July 11 and 12. The costumes they wear are a stylized version of the Greek peasant costume.

Emily Hegen, a ninth grade student at Pershing high school in Plummer, gained advancement to the Minnesota State Science Fair when she competed at the regional event in Bemidji recently. The state science fair will be April 17-19 in Rochester.

than spring wheat yields. Herbicide wasn't used on the winter wheat. A cover crop was in place for winter. Spring tillage and seeding wasn't needed due to the fall planting of the winter wheat."

Her conclusion was that "summer fallowing is an effective weed control method when used in combination with a cover crop, such as winter wheat."

"Got Milk? Make Plastic"

Emily's project was entitled "Got Milk? Make Plastic" and involved making biodegradable plastic from milk and comparing it with a commercial plastic item.

The daughter of Don and Connie Hagen of Plummer, Emily says she was concerned about the quantity of waste materials that are discarded and don't decompose. She read about a type of plastic made from milk and how it was used in the 1800s. That inspired her to do some experimenting on her own.

The experiment involved boiling unpasteurized whole milk until the curds separated from the whey, then adding vinegar to the curds and molding the resulting plastic type material. This plastic was subjected to a deterioration test along with a commercial plastic item—a button. The casein plastic broke down in the test while the button remained unchanged.

This was Emily's third year in science fair competition and her second trip to the regional science fair. She also had science fair entries in elementary school but was not eligible to advance to the regional event.

Science instructor and science fair coordinator Don Fox requires participation in the science fair as part of his course work in grades seven through nine. Emily says she is undecided if she will enter competition on her own next year.

"Wheat or Weeds"

Sarah, the daughter of Jim and Susan Hagge of Brooks, received good comments from the judges at the regional science fair prior to her selection as an alternate to the international event.

"Was able to discuss the broader implications of her project, i.e. effects of pesticides on environment, animals, wildlife," one judge noted on her comment sheet. "Good basic comprehension of concepts. Hard to stump."

"Sarah: I liked your project," the other judge wrote. "I think that this type of research is very appropriate."

Both judges thought the project results would be improved with additional emphasis on economic impacts. "Your project would be strengthened by placing additional emphasis on the cost effectiveness of the summer fallow method," the second judge noted. "Alternate methods will not be widely accepted until they can be demonstrated to be cost effective."

This was Sarah's third trip to the regional science fair but she was surprised by her selection as alternate to the international show. Her work on the project outside of the school year demonstrated her interest in the subject and, as the first judge noted, she made a "good presentation with numerous supportive materials such as pictures of plant growth, charts and written assumptions."

Instructor Don Fox quipped that the only traveling he gets to do is when one of his students wins a trip to the international event. He accompanied Ron Shand to South Bend, IN, in 1974 and Shannon Fisher to Pittsburgh, PA and Tulsa, OK, when he won back to back trips as a junior and senior in 1989 and 1990. Fox has been directing the science fair at Plummer for nearly 30 years.

This year's bus trip to Ft. Worth, TX, will begin May 9 and end May 17 with the science and engineering fair itself running from May 10 to 15.

St. Anne's youth present religious program April 10

Youth from St. Anne's Catholic church in Goodridge will present The Living Stations on Friday, April 10, at 8:30 p.m. at the church. There is no admission, the public is invited to attend and refreshments will be served following the presentation.

Flynn graduates from Air Force course

Air Force Airman Jacqueline M. Flynn has graduated from the supply management inventory apprentice course at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, TX.

Students were taught property accounting, customer and bench stock support, mission capable (MICAP) procedures, equipment management, effective warehousing techniques, and procedures for operating material handling equipment. They also practiced inventory methods using electronic data processing equipment.

Flynn is the daughter of Carinne A. Dargus of Thief River Falls, and Gary D. Flynn of rural route 2, Union Lake.

She is a 1996 graduate of Lincoln High School.

Seat belt use figures into fatality count

During the month of February, nine individuals died in traffic crashes where they were not wearing seat belts, the Minnesota Safety Belt Coalition announced. In addition, 11 people died in traffic crashes in January where they were not wearing belts.

Seat belts improve chances of surviving a crash by 45 percent, said Christine Krueger, Minnesota Safety Belt Coalition chair. Almost half of those people would be with us today if they had been wearing their safety belt.

This release of data is the first time the Coalition has drawn attention to seat belt use as it relates to fatalities on a monthly basis. The Coalition will compile this data every month and release it to the media.

The information is important in turning peoples attention to the disastrous and often permanent results of not wearing seat belts, Krueger said.

Currently, safety belt use in Minnesota is only 65 percent, based on the results of an observational study conducted by Buckle Up Minnesota and the Minnesota Department of Public Safety in August 1997. In the metropolitan area, the observed rate was 68 percent. In Greater Minnesota, where 70 percent of traffic fatalities occur, use was only 59 percent.

The Minnesota Safety Belt Coalition is a volunteer organization committed to educating others about the benefits of safety belt use. It is a program of the Minnesota Safety Council and the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, funded by National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

State flags are given to school at Plummer

Plummer American Legion Auxiliary and the Plummer Senior Citizens organization presented Minnesota state flags to the schools in Plummer March 13, according to the school administration.

The flags are being hung in the classrooms, library and office and school officials said they are appreciative of the gift and proud to display the flags in the school.

Audubon group to hear program on sled dogs

the Ken Nelson Agency in Warren and at Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls.

The Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary is located five miles east and three miles south of Warren. The sanctuary consists of 640 acres of wildlife habitat and fields and is the result of the generous gift of Eldor and Stella Omdahl to the Agassiz Audubon Society in 1981.

Omdahl's grandfather, John Hanson, emigrated from Norway and homesteaded the 160 acres surrounding what is today the sanctuary headquarters. The land passed through several owners including the Federal Land Bank during unfavorable economic years before Eldor purchased the farm in 1949. Recognizing the conservation value of trees, he began planting trees that same year. Ten years later, Eldor began developing ponds and waterways for the purpose of retaining water, a sharp contrast to the prevailing practice of draining wetlands.

Today, Omdahl's labors are evident at the sanctuary with the home site surrounded by a blend of tree plantings, trails, Venice-like waterways and ponds. Approximately half of the acreage is currently enrolled in the CRP program. In early June, prairie grass seed will be planted on 160 acres. Another current project at the sanctuary is the remodeling of the headquarters building.

The purpose of the sanctuary is to provide a day-use environmental learning center where people of all ages and interests, from school children to researchers, can learn and grow in environmental awareness and to provide habitat for birds and other wildlife and demonstration areas for various land management practices.

The sanctuary is maintained and educational programs are offered by volunteers from the Agassiz Audubon Chapter and Friends of the Sanctuary.

A $100,000 endowment from Eldor and Stella Omdahl last year and additional gifts since have resulted in the forming of a foundation board with the purpose of building on the endowment. Funds will be used for educational purposes including the hiring of a full-time educator at the sanctuary.

The Agassiz Audubon Society is an affiliate of the National Audubon Society, and the local chapter has about 250 members in a seven county area of northwestern Minnesota.

The Agassiz chapter was formed in 1971 when a group of individuals from Crookston, Thief River Falls and Warren began conducting meetings and offering programs.

Throughout the years, the group has offered many programs, workshops and field trips for its members and the public, and thousands of school children and others have taken part in educational programs at the sanctuary since it became Audubon's permanent headquarters in 1981.

Because of their love of nature and concern for the environment, members of the Agassiz chapter have often found it necessary to monitor and become involved in local environmental issues. However, in keeping with the policies of the National Audubon Society, local activists know that they must be well informed with up-to-date information and that their stands must be reasonable and workable. Some of the regional issues they have been involved with include back scatter and nuclear waste sites, wildlife habitat, wetlands, wildflower routes and recently, river projects and timberwolf issues.

Anyone who lives in northwestern Minnesota and enjoys the beauty, wonder and variety of nature is welcome to join the National Audubon Society. A $20 fee includes membership in the national society as well as the local chapter with members receiving bimonthly issues of Audubon magazine, the Agassiz chapter's Snowy Owl newsletters, first hand information about field trips, programs and workshops and the opportunity to meet others interested in nature and environmental issues.

For more information about the Audubon Society, the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Sanctuary and its programs or the upcoming banquet on the 14th, call 745-4457.

Janica Springer and her husband, William Dahl will present "Sled Dogging and Other Adventures" at the annual spring Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Banquet on Tuesday, April 14 at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion in Warren. Tickets for the event are available at the Ken Nelson Agency in Warren and Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls.

Peterson meets with trade rep on Angle issue

Congressman Collin Peterson met Wednesday, April 1, with Ambassador Peter Scher of the office of the United States Trade Representative (USTR) to discuss the ongoing dispute that residents of the Northwest Angle are having with the Canadian government about customs issues and fishing regulations on Lake of the Woods.

"Today's meeting went well," the congressman said. "I asked Ambassador Scher to determine whether or not a violation of the North American Fair Trade Agreement (NAFTA) has occurred, and if so, if the U.S. can pursue resolution of the matter with Canada under Section 301 authority or with a trade dispute panel. The Ambassador said he didn't know, but he assured me that he would research this quickly and report back to me with his findings.

"Along with people who live on the Angle, I believe that fishing regulations passed by the Ontario Provincial Government are in violation of NAFTA and of the 1909 Boundary Waters Treaty," Rep. Peterson added. "These regulations put U.S. resort owners on the Angle at an economic disadvantage by not allowing their guests to keep any fish they catch when fishing in Canadian waters."

Peterson said he was confident that the level of awareness on the issue has been raised with the USTR and he would continue to work to see that the issue is not ignored.

Angle residents secured that attention in a bill introduced by Congressman Peterson to allow secession of the Angle from the United States so it could become a part of Canada.

Mn/DOT seeking public comment on new projects

Northwest District of the Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is seeking comments from the public on transportation projects which are being recommended for federal funding during state fiscal years 1999-2001. The projects are located in the 11-county areas of the northwestern part of the state.

The project list was developed by the Area Transportation Partnership (ATP) group which is comprised of representatives from local, county and tribal governments. The ATP was developed under the Intermodal Surface Transportation and Efficiency Act (ISTEA) of 1991 to allow for greater citizen participation in the decision-making process of public transportation.

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the list and providing comment may contact Craig Collison, Mn/DOT planning engineer at 218-755-3813, Karen Bedeau, public affairs coordinator at 218-755-4086 or write to either at P.O. Box 490, Bemidji, MN 56619. Deadline for providing comment is April 10.

May 1 deadline for '98 energy assistance plan

Applications are now being taken by Northwest Community Action for the 1998 energy assistance program with the deadline for applications set at May 1.

Persons in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, east Marshall and Roseau counties who feel they may be eligible and haven't applied since September of 1997 may write to Northwest Community Action, P.O. Box 67, Badger, MN 56714 or call 218-528-3258 and an application will be sent by mail.

Fuel assistance eligibility is based on household income, size and assets. Eligibility guidelines for three months for gross income begin with $3,536 for a household of one person with additional income of about $1,088 allowed for each additional person in the household.

AAL branches receive gold star recognition

Officers of Branch 7453 include Jean Bach, president; Laverne Filpula, vice president; Evonne Moe, secretary; and Janice Olson, treasurer, all of Thief River Falls.

Branch 9813 officers are Alvin Rondorf, president; Evelyn Berg, vice president; and Kathi Jenkins, secretary, all of Thief River Falls.

Officers of Branch 10105 are Donald Hagen, president; Edward Eskeli, vice president; and Constance Hagen, secretary, all of Plummer. The branches are supported by district representatives Jeanette Reierson and Ronald Hansen of Thief River Falls and Lyle Hoverson of Grand Forks, ND, respectively.

FEMA reviews flood of 1997 and magnitude of support

Hundred of millions of dollars go for relief and repair in grants and loans

(Editor's Note: The following summary of the area flood of 1997 was provided by the Federal/State Joint Information Center which involves the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) in Minnesota and North Dakota and the North Dakota and Minnesota Divisions of Emergency Management. Because of the large number of area people affected by or interested in the flood and resultant aid from government sources, the report is being printed in its entirety.)

In April 1997, the Red River swelled with the runoff of melting snow from a record-setting winter season. The river rose to a height of 54 feet—26 feet above its flood stage—and overran the cities of Grand Forks, ND and East Grand Forks, MN. During this devastating disaster, more than 90 percent of Grand Forks' 52,500 population and all of the 9,000 people in East Grand Forks were forced to leave their homes and evacuate their cities.

Three-quarters of the homes in Grand Forks were damaged in some way by the flood while 99 percent of those in East Grand Forks were affected. All of the downtown businesses in both towns were impacted by the flooding and 11 buildings in downtown Grand Forks were destroyed by a devastating fire at the height of the flooding and evacuation. Grand Forks went 13 days without running water and 23 days without potable water after the flood overwhelmed the city's water treatment plant.

Based on local, state and federal emergency response plans, government agencies and volunteer organizations worked in partnership to coordinate efforts, gather resources and deliver assistance.

• During the 120-day application period, which closed on Aug. 6, 1997, 36,547 North Dakota residents contacted FEMA to request disaster assistance, with 24,332 coming from Grand Forks alone.

In Minnesota, 12,732 residents affected by the severe winter weather and flooding applied to FEMA for disaster assistance, including 4,438 residents of East Grand Forks. FEMA Helpline has received more than 80,000 calls from North Dakota residents and more than 22,000 calls from Minnesota residents seeking information about disaster assistance.

• FEMA has issued 24,491 disaster housing assistance checks totaling $54,138,920 to North Dakota residents and 13,244 checks totaling $17,833,218 in Minnesota, including 18,274 disaster housing assistance checks for $44,564,484 to Grand Forks residents and 4,136 checks for $9,981,200 to East Grand Forks residents.

Memorials

MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved daughter Deanna who passed away April 4, 1969.
Life is but a stopping place
A pause in whats to be
A resting place along the road
To sweet eternity.
Our destination is a place
For greater than we know
For some, the journeys quicker
For some, the journeys slow.
And when the journey finally ends,
We'll claim a great reward
And find an everlasting peace
Together with the Lord

We miss her so much
Dad, Mom and families

Tree skirt project captures A-B school memories

Ada - To assist band students with a trip to Orlando, FL in 2000, volunteers are busy creating Christmas tree skirts and stockings and saving memories of the old Ada-Borup School. The items are being made from the old theatrical curtain from the school.

Though 40 years old, the fabric is in surprisingly good shape and will yield about 11 large tree skirts and numerous stockings and other smaller decorations. The items will be raffled and auctioned off at various school events. Norman County Index

Three-day party planned in EGF

East Grand Forks - Activities for people of all ages are planned for April 17-19 as East Grand Forks celebrates its new beginnings and remembers its past.

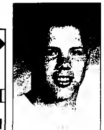
The event will include parties, dances, a marathon, parade and fireworks. Mayor Lynn Stauss is hoping for a good turnout, showing dignitaries scheduled to appear that East Grand Forks is well on its way to recovery. The Exponent

Snowy April 1 for Win-E-Mac

McIntosh - Mother Nature played a cruel April Fool's joke on Win-E-Mac area residents. After tantalizing them with several days of beautiful spring weather, she blanketed the area with heavy white snow, two inches in McIntosh and up to 10 inches reported in the Bemidji area. The McIntosh Times

Price is right for Baudette man

Baudette - Tom Pepera of Baudette is a celebrity after a trip to Las Vegas and Los Angeles in late February landed him as a contestnant on the favorite game show, "The Price Is Right." Pepera returned to Baudette with a new lawnmower and a new car, prizes he won while appearing on the show.



Taped February 24, the show did not air until Monday, March 30. Pepera and his wife were joined by approximately 150 friends at the American Legion in Baudette to watch the broadcast. The Baudette Region

Steak Knife has new owners

Grygla - Steak Knife II became Steak Knife III last week as new owners Dennis and Kathy Langston took over.

Because the name is familiar to everyone in the area Langstons wanted to keep it but changed the II to III to personalize it. Dennis and Kathy purchased the business from the retiring Phyllis Neuschwander. The original owner was Laverne Olson, who passed away several years ago.

While they are new to the liquor and restaurant business, the Langstons decided when they were first married that they would someday own their own bar. For the past 22 years they have lived in Thief River Falls where Dennis was a liquor salesman and Kathy worked at Digi-Key for 16 years. The Grygla Eagle

Plummer Legion announces its Boys State representatives

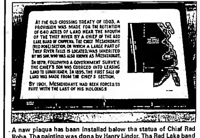
American Legion Post 627 at Plummer has selected its delegate and alternate for 1998 American Legion Boys State, according to John Helley, Boys State chairman for the post.

Steve McMullen, 17, has been selected as delegate with Michael Mages, 17, as alternate. Both are juniors at Pershing high school in Plummer.

The son of Joe and Jeanette McMullen of rural Plummer, Steve is a two-year letter winner in football and a five-year letter winner in wrestling.

He is involved in such organizations as the Students Against Drunk Driving chapter at Pershing high school, the youth group at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic church and the Plummer Recreation Center board where he has served for the past five years.

He plans to major in business education at college after completing his high school education, but is undecided where he will attend.



Michael is the son of Raymond and Dorothy Mages of Red Lake Falls. He has a 4.0 cumulative grade point average and is a member of the Pershing high school student council, National Honor Society chapter and Students Against Drunk Driving. He holds the rank of Life Scout through Boy Scout Troop 41 in Crookston.

Michael plans to earn a degree in commercial aviation when he completes high school but is undecided on which training program he will enter.

The 1998 session of American Legion Boys State will be held June 14-20 on the campus of St. Olaf College in Northfield. Enrollment is open to 500 boys with applications considered on a first come, first served basis. American Legion Posts may sponsor as many qualified students as they can afford.

Boys attending Boys State receive a full week of intensive training in city, county and state government as they participate in establishing real life examples of government at each of these levels. At the end of they week they receive certificates and Boys State pins and are later sent Boys State annuals which record the week's activities in word and picture.

A new plaque has been installed below the statue of Chief Red Robe. The painting was done by Henry Lindor. The Red Lake band of Chippewa came up with the wording for the plaque.

Humane Society formed to improve pound statistics

Everywhere you look there they are. They look like their masters, and sometimes act and sound like them too. They bring great joy when they're good, dismay when they aren't, and great sadness when they die. Just bring the subject of pets up in a conversation and someone will share a crazy story.

The strong emotional connection people have with their pets leads to an inescapable conclusion — Pets Are Worth Saving, which just so happens to be the name of the Pennington County Humane Society.

A group of enthusiastic volunteers in Pennington County is in the process of establishing a humane society in Thief River Falls. Articles of incorporation and bylaws have been adopted, and non-profit status is being sought.

Vicki Heckman, president of the organization say they are taking a slow and careful approach. They want to promote respect for animal life, prevent animal homelessness and abuse and provide community education. They realize that not all animals can be saved, but they definitely want to reverse disposal rates of animals held at the animal pound in Thief River Falls.

In 1997, 328 animals were impounded in Thief River Falls. A total of 160 were disposed of, 22 were vehicle killed, 102 were released to owners, and 44 were given away. The group proposes to improve those statistics by working closely with law enforcement, actively advertising animals for adoption, and establishing a number of foster homes for homeless pets. But, Heckman emphasized, they need to raise money in order to get those things done.

The Pennington County Humane Society got its start from Linda Bentson. Bentson explained that she has always wanted to start a Humane Society but struggled with it internally. Only recently did she get the jump start she needed to get the ball rolling.

Recently, while traveling on business, she found herself walking in an unfamiliar area when she heard a lot of barking coming from a nearby building. Curious, she went in and discovered that it was a shelter for pets. She left the building crying after seeing only a few of the pets, but felt more determined than ever to put into action what she had thought about for years. When she got home she called Vicki Heckman. It was Vicki, Bentson said, who really got the organization going.

Others in the community had the same feelings. The group has visited with law enforcement and veterinarians in the area. Tim Miller of the Thief River Falls Police Department has been very encouraging and has given the group the benefit of his years of experience as Thief River Falls' Animal Control Officer. Bruce W. Pierce, D.V.M., and Don Hagen, D.V.M. in Thief River Falls, and Gemma Drees, D.V.M. in Red Lake Falls have provided valuable assistance and guidance about animal health issues. Former District Judge Warren Saetre volunteered his legal expertise and prepared the articles of incorporation. Many others have expressed their strong feelings for animals and also indicated their willingness to help get the organization started.

The group is still in the process of gathering information and getting organized. Although independently organized, meetings have been held with other Humane Societies in the

TamiJean Creations, Inc. measures success by the cup

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Almost simultaneously Jean Sjostrand and Tami Boychuk ask, "Who would have thought….?" when discussing the early successes of their fledgling business.

That business is TamiJean Creations, Inc., and its start was almost accidental.

In October of 1996 Tami bought an attractively decorated jar of cappuccino mix. She showed her purchase to her friend Jean, and after sampling the brew, the women discovered that while the jar looked great, its contents were less than desirable. Cappucino, for anyone who isn't familiar with the current coffee craze, is a drink made by adding foaming hot milk to espresso, another word for strong black coffee. Flavorings are often added to the popular drink.

Creative women that they are, Tami and Jean decided that they could improve on the mix. "After hours of running back and forth to the grocery store to purchase supplies, we had made what we thought was something better," Tami says.

Jean lives near Lake Bronson, and Tami lives in Hallock, and when asked how long they've been friends, Jean replied, "Since forever." Their families have been friends a long time, and though the women are separated by a few years, Jean and Tami became close at a time when age was not a factor in friendship.

Every year, they enjoyed doing a couple of holiday craft shows together, selling woodcrafts, florals and recipe journals. They added their cappucino mix, packaged in decorated jars, to their 1996 holiday inventory. They appropriately named their product "TamiJean Cappuccino Creations."

They sold a few jars at their first craft show, but at the second show in Fargo something entirely different happened. Tami and Jean offered samples of their brew, and

For the past year and a half, Jean Sjostrand (left) and Tami Boychuk have been very busy making and marketing "TamiJean Cappucino Creations," a flavoring mixture for coffee. In addition to retailing their product on the weekends at shows, they are steadily building a wholesale business with TamiJean Cappucino Creations sold in about 200 shops in nine states.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today we'll have some recipes that you might like to try for your Easter dinner, and some for those after-Easter leftovers.

This is a recipe you could use for Easter morning, especially handy to have on hand if you have a houseful of company this Easter. If you blow out your eggs - don't throw the insides away - make this for Easter breakfast or Monday's after-Easter meal:

EGG SOUFFLE

8 slices bread
2 cups milk
8 eggs, well beaten
Salt and pepper
1 medium onion, chopped
Green pepper and mushrooms, if desired
1 can ham patties or cubed ham
2 cups grated cheese

Remove crust from bread and tear into pieces. Line greased 9x13 inch pan with bread.

Mix eggs, milk, salt and pepper. Pour over bread. Sprinkle remaining ingredients over bread in order given, cover and refrigerate overnight. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees and then let stand a few minutes before serving.

I know the power of soda pop in cake recipes - it does something magical. You might like to bake this in round pans and cut an Easter bunny shape like our family does (one round for the face and then cut ears and a bow out of the other round). That's about as fancy as I can get. I'm going to frost my bunny with fluffy white frosting (from a box, thank you very much, because I'm too busy to fuss with seven minute stuff), but I've included the recipe for Topping that came with the cake recipe. It sounds very good:

SEVEN-UP CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
1 package vanilla instant pudding
3/4 cup oil
3 eggs, beaten
1 (12 ounce) can 7-up

Mix all ingredients together as listed. Bake in a 9x13, prepared pan at 350 degrees until done.

Topping

2 packages Dream Whip (this is the dry stuff)
1 1/2 cups cold milk
1 package vanilla instant pudding
Coconut and/or nuts

Beat Dream Whip and milk until very stiff. Add pudding mix and beat until very light and fluffy. Sprinkle cake with coconut and/or nuts, if desired.

Want to make a fancy ham this year? I never could find a glaze recipe when I wanted to be fancy, but here's one for you:

HONEY GLAZE

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup plum jelly
1 tablespoon flour
1/3 cup honey
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 teaspoon cloves

Melt butter and add flour, orange juice, honey, brown sugar, spices and jelly. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Serve hot over ham or baste ham with sauce while it is baking.

I'm making this salad for Easter, and I bought some of those red oranges to put into it, just to make everyone wonder what's in it:

ORANGE SALAD

1 box orange gelatin
1 box vanilla instant pudding
1 box vanilla tapioca pudding
3 cups water
8 ounces frozen whipped topping
1 large can mandarin oranges (or 2 of those little ones that are on sale now)

Mix gelatin and puddings with water and bring to a boil. Cook 2 minutes, then cool thoroughly. Mix in whipped topping and drained oranges and refrigerate.

What to do with all of that left-over ham and other goodies?

HAM AND SWISS NOODLE BAKE

1 (8 ounce) package noodles, cooked and drained
8 ounces Swiss cheese, cubed or grated
2 cups cooked chopped ham
1/4 cup chopped onions
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 can peas, drained
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup milk

Mix all ingredients together and place in greased casserole. Bake at 325 degrees for 25-30 minutes. (Serves 6-8 people.)

Here's an idea for those lovely colored eggs that didn't get eaten - it would be great with those ham or turkey sandwiches. It's much like my potato salad, but I also add celery seed and dill weed:

CREAMY POTATO SALAD

5 cups raw diced potatoes
1/2 teaspoon salt
6 hard boiled eggs (or more)
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup diced celery
Other party vegetables that didn't get eaten, like radishes, carrots, peppers, etc.
1 1/2 cups salad dressing
1 1/2 tablespoons mustard
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper

Cover potatoes and salt with water and boil 10 minutes or until tender. Drain and cool to handling temp.

Combine potatoes, 5 chopped eggs, onion and celery in large bowl and toss lightly.

Stir together salad dressing, mustard, sour cream and sugar and pour over potato mixture. Mix well. Top with slices of egg and refrigerate. (Double – this will serve about 25 people.)

Here's one more leftover idea:

PEA SALAD

2 cups peas, cooked
1 cup diced celery
3/4 cup diced cheese
1/2 cup chopped almonds or other nuts
1 small sweet pickle, diced
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/4 cup salad dressing
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 hard cooked eggs
1/2 cup chopped ham

Combine salad dressing, sour cream, mustard, lemon juice and salt and pepper in large bowl. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well and refrigerate.

DON'T BUY A LEMON!!

They Don't Grow Up Here.
Instead, buy hardy, northern grown trees from Bergeson Nursery.
At Bergeson's, we specialize in trees and shrubs proven to survive in the north over the course of many decades. Over the past sixty years, we have seen what works and what doesn't.

Bergeson Originals:
The nursery's founder Malvin Bergeson introduced many new varieties hardy for this area. The Red Splendor Flowering Crab lines streets all over the upper midwest. The patented Bergeson Ash is a popular fast-growing replacement for the vanishing American Elm. The compact Flame Willow makes a brilliant orange splash on the winter landscape. All were introduced by Bergeson's and are suited for this area.

The Bare Root Advantage:
Bergeson Nursery's state-of-the-art cool storage building allows customers to buy trees in a dormant state with no soil on the roots. Bare root trees are usually just as large as potted trees, are much less expensive, easier to plant and transport, and require very little watering after planting. Planting trees bare root dramatically increases the chances of survival.

The Time To Plant Is Now!
As soon as you can get the spade in the ground. In an early spring such as this one, trees can go in the ground in early April. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.
If the ground is workable, the time to plant a tree is now!

Spring SEMINARS:
Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. coffee and donuts served.

Class: The very best fruit varieties for the north. Demonstration: Grafting and pruning of fruit trees.

"It's Your Money. How Do You Want Us To Spend It?"

The title for this editorial is unfortunately too true to be humorous. It captures the view of the federal government and gives reason for the slogan "It's your money, not the IRS." The fact of the matter (as attorneys are fond of saying) is that the folks in our federal government have grown too accustomed to spending. They must believe that if they still have check blanks left the account can't be out of money.

Virtually every elected official in Washington will lament the overspending, claim personal effort for trying to balance the budget, complain about the waste in the bureaucracy and proclaim that something must be done—just as their predecessors have done for decades. One really wonders if the Congress still has the ability to stem the flow or if it can only try to stay in the middle of the current while being swept along toward the falls.

It would seem with so many Congressmen and Senators claiming they want to cut spending that it should be possible to actually do it, and do it in meaningful fashion.

Minnesota Senator Rod Grams is one who is a constant vocal advocate of cost cutting and tax relief. He points out that "Under a budget plan adopted by the Senate Budget Committee in March, Washington would spend a record $1.71 trillion next year. The federal government would squeeze $9.3 trillion out of the pockets of the American people in the next five years, another historic mark. But the tax relief included in the Senate budget amounted to a tiny $30 billion over five years. This means for every dollar the government collects, only one-third of a cent would be returned to the taxpayers. That's outrageous!"

That's right! Now let's do something about it!

Federal, state and local governments have gone awry when the average American family spends 28 percent of its income on food, clothing and housing and 38.2 percent on taxes.

"For Minnesotans," Sen. Grams says, "one of the largest tax bites comes courtesy of Social Security. The government today takes a 15.3 percent payroll tax out of the paychecks of each working American. Until 1949 the payroll tax rate for both employer and employee was only one percent. In the past 50 years, however, the rate has increased 665 percent—the result of 51 separate tax increases."

(Some of those Social Security rate increases would have been unnecessary if Congress hadn't made a habit of raiding the trust fund to support its other spending—but that's another story.)

Congress is good at finding ways to hide its frivolous spending in otherwise good legislation. An example is this year's disaster relief bill, annual legislation which Sen. Grams says has routinely become a Christmas tree, hung with all kinds of goodies.

President Clinton originally requested $2.5 billion for this part of the budget, only about $660 billion of it related to disaster relief. But the end result was a $5.5 billion bill loaded with such items as $28 million to rehabilitate and upgrade security at the U.S. Capitol building and $4.5 million for maple producers in the Northeast.

This sort of manipulation has to end and the mindset which permits it to be accepted has to change. It's never easy to cut back on spending, but individuals do it every day. They determine what they can and can't have based on the money they have available. Senators and Congressmen do the same thing with their personal finances. Should it be so impossible to relate those same principles to government?

Sen. Grams' talk sounds good. We're waiting impatiently to see the action.

Senator Wants State To Stock More Walleyes

Sen. Douglas Johnson of Tower would like the state to stock more walleyes in a number of lakes which appear to have declining walleye populations. The commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources says such a move would be "bad science and will not help the state's anglers catch more walleye."

Sen. Johnson is one of a raft of candidates for the DFL endorsement for governor. Commissioner Rod Sando of the DNR calls Johnson's walleye stocking ideas "Iron Range populism and good gubernatorial politics." He says reduced stocking levels are a result of a "science-based approach to fisheries management."

In addition to being a candidate, Johnson is also an avid walleye fisherman and former fishing guide. He says Minnesota walleye fishing has declined and he can no longer catch walleyes in lakes that used to have plenty of good-sized fish. Other walleye fishermen he has talked to, Johnson says, are seeing the same thing.

"Nearly half of the state's best stocked walleye lakes (from the DNR's own 'Good Walleye Lake' list) have seen serious declines in their walleye population since the stocking cuts began in the early 1990s," Johnson said. "A comparison of walleye net catches from before and after the stocking cuts showed that 81 of 167 stocked lakes (48.5%) have fallen below the DNR's 'Good Lake' criteria since the cuts have been made."

Johnson points to Lake Sakakawea in North Dakota where its department of natural resources stocked 20,500,000 fingerlings from 1989 to 1993 and raised its average number of walleyes per gill-net lift from 11.8 in 1988 to 34.0 in 1994. In Minnesota, only a tiny percentage of lakes ever attain the 11.8 count which North Dakota officials found unacceptably low.

In 1996, Minnesota stocked 1.5 million walleye fingerlings in 225 lakes, Johnson said. In the same year, North Dakota stocked 7.9 million in 74 lakes.

He expressed dismay at the comments of a fisheries manager in charge of an important Minnesota walleye lake when confronted about a serious drop in stocking of that lake. "Our goal," the manager was quoted as stating, "is to maintain [the lake] at its historic level, which is a low walleye population."

We would suspect that Johnson and Sando are both right and both wrong. There are probably some lakes which would not benefit from increased walleye stocking and others which would, depending on forage, aquatics and other fish species in each lake. If some stocking is good, would more be better? One would expect the professionals to know best and act accordingly. Johnson doesn't think they do or are.

Our Homes, Communities and Jobs Depend on a Stable Supply of Energy
Americans use more than 700 million gallons of petroleum products each day in the form of gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel and jet fuel. Much of that petroleum is transported through underground pipeline systems.
FOR YOUR SAFETY:

IDENTIFY PIPELINES
Be aware of pipeline markers in your neighborhood. Write down the name and phone number of the pipeline company listed on the markers in case of an emergency. Markers include warning signs, aerial patrol markers, casing vents and painted posts.
RECOGNIZE A PIPELINE LEAK BY:
• SIGHT: Pool of liquid, dense fog or discolored vegetation
• SOUND: Hissing or roaring noise from the pipeline
• SMELL: Unusual smell
REACT TO A PIPELINE LEAK
• Leave the leak area immediately.
• Do not touch, breathe or go near leaking liquids.
• Do not create any spark in the leak area.
• From a safe distance, call 911 or your local emergency number and the pipeline company.
• Do not drive into a leak or vapor cloud area.
• Warn others.
CALL BEFORE YOU DIG
Know the location of all underground utilities near your excavating site. Call your State's Excavators "One-Call System." Representatives from the pipeline or utility will come to your site and locate the utility for you at no charge.

Blood drive in Grygla April 21

On Tuesday, April 21, citizens of the Grygla and Gatzke communities will have the opportunity to make an important contribution to the welfare of their communities at a mobile blood drive at the Grygla Community Center from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 21.

Ralph Rundell, chairman of the drive, would like everyone in the community to consider the drive an invitation for personal action — the simple, satisfying action of donating blood for a person in great need. In less than an hour you can give the most precious gift of all, the "gift of life."

In our area, over 3,000 units of blood are needed each month to supply the needs of patients served by United Blood Services.

You can be a lifesaver, by calling and making an appointment to donate blood. Call Ralph Rundell at 294-6177, Ione Aune at 294-6323, Roy Nordby at 294-6122 or Hazel Aune at 459-3315. Your gift is vitally needed.

Mandi Blawat, a 5-6 sophomore guard/forward, was named the team's most improved player and top defensive player.

Kilen and Blawat shared the Nordics' Queen of the Boards Awards for their rebound efforts – 199 (8.3 per game) for Blawat and 195 (8.1 per game) for Kilen.

A third sophomore, 5-6 guard Tiffany Bring, was recognized for leading the team in assists (3.1 per game).

Miki Waterworth, the lone senior on the squad, was named the Nordics' Most Dedicated Player.

Junior Jessica Anderson was selected as captain of the 1998-99 Nordics, succeeding Waterworth.

Kilen, who set a school single-game record with six blocked shots against Red Lake County Central, was an All-North Border Conference Honorable Mention selection.

Marshall County Central struggled through a 4-21 winter, coming up with a pair of two-point regular season wins over Kittson County North to go along with a forfeit decision over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart (granted when it was discovered the Eagles used a player in too many varsity/junior varsity quarters that night). The Nordics added a one-point opening round Sub-Section 31A tournament decision over Warren-Alvarado-Oslo before losing to eventual Class A state runner-up Red Lake Falls in the semifinals and to Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke in the third place game.

Despite the record, Dahl was encouraged by what she saw in her first year as head coach. The improvement her young team made from the start to the end of the schedule was noticeable as early-season blow-outs became competitive contests later in the year. The Nordics learned by trial-and-error, noted Dahl, overcoming obstacles as they gained experience during the course of the season.

"The girls tried very had, and never gave up," pointed out Dahl. "By the end of the season we were putting everything together. Hopefully we will start off that way next year."

Baseball season starts with six games in three days...

NCTC splits weekend games

A pair of strong pitching performances Sunday led to a Northland Community and Technical College baseball doubleheader sweep of UND-Williston, capping a busy season-opening April 3-5 weekend for the Pioneers.

Arthur Hamilton threw a complete-game, three-hit shutout in the opener (four strike-outs, one walk), while Kevin Grabowska and Chanc Keefe combined on a two-hit pitching performance in the nightcap as Northland won the Sunday games 10-0 and 5-2 for a 3-3 season start.

The Pioneers made their 1998 debut under first-year head coach Chris Mills Friday with 8-2, 18-4 doubleheader losses at the hands of Fergus Falls.

UND-Williston arrived Saturday to open a four-game series that began with a high-scoring first-day split as Northland won Game 1 by a 14-10 margin but lost Game 2 by an 18-9 count.

The games were moved from their original Fergus Falls and Williston sites to Thief River Falls because of field conditions.

Mills was more than satisfied with the Pioneers' performances. "I think we showed we can be a contender," he said. "If we play good defense, we'll be in most games."

With the three consecutive doubleheaders, the Pioneers' pitching staff got a work-out. "We really don't have the pitching to play that many games in that short of time span," admitted Mills, "but we had some kids who stepped in and did a nice job for us."

Hamilton, Grabowska and Keefe turned in strong pitching performances, according to Mills, who also expects to get solid mound efforts from Matt Malone and Nic Thompson this spring.

"Those kids all showed they can throw the ball across the plate," said Mills. "If we can make the plays defensively, we should be okay."

Northland committed eight errors in the Friday losses and booted the ball 11 times in the Saturday split before putting together an error-free effort in the Sunday sweep.

Jeremy Swanson is named as TRF MVP

Jeremy Swanson was selected as the most valuable player on the 1997-98 Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team during the Prowlers' recent post-season banquet.

Other special awards went to Cody Huschle, named the most improved player, and Casey Skjerven, voted Hustler of the Year.

Senior appreciation plaques were presented to Mike Johnson, Michael Morris, Justin Walseth, Kyle Waterworth, Swanson, Huschle, and Skjerven.

Joining the seniors as letter winners were juniors Darin Bjerknes, Kelly Cota, Wade Haviland, Arron Hendricks, Matt Myers, and Collin Schafer, student managers Brendon Engen and Brandon Page; statisticians Angela Bruun, Jessica Kaml and Jessica Radloff, along with student trainers Jackie Hoglo and Jenny Swanson.

The Prowlers went 4-19 this winter under new head coach Bob Johnson. The team won just one of its first 17 games, then won three of its last five regular season starts before losing to Alexandria 75-61 in the North Sub-Section 8AAA tournament semifinals.

"I think we made some big strides this year as far as discipline and commitment," said Johnson. "I was happy with what we accomplished over the last month-and-a-half of the season. It just took a while for the kids to get adjusted to a new coach, and for me to get adjusted to the kids."

Despite the mounting losses, the Prowlers played hard to the end most nights – a fact, pointed out Johnson, that was reflected in their post-season loss at Alexandria when they fell behind 25-7 but out-scored the Cardinals 54-50 the rest of the way.

The key to the Prowlers' future success, noted Johnson, will be their dedication to improving their basketball skills during the off-season. That's the case for all programs, admitted Johnson, but it's especially important for teams like the Prowlers who are coming off a four-win season and have a ways to go before becoming a contender in Class AAA basketball, he explained.

Team and individual statistics were not complete enough to be accurate, according to Johnson.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Darwin Hagen resigns

Darwin Hagen has stepped down as Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke head high school football coach.

Hagen made his debut as head coach at Grygla in 1976 and remained on the job when the Eagles and neighboring rival Goodridge joined forces to produce the Blue Devils football cooperative. His 1989 and 1991 teams were Nine-Man state playoff qualifiers, with the '91 squad reaching the state finals before losing to Chokio-Alberta.

Jerry Lindstrom was the first Grygla football coach in 1974. He resigned after the 1975 season. Tom Lindemoen was named to replace him, but he left on the first day of preseason practice the next fall to accept a coaching position at North Dakota State College of Science in Wahpeton. Assistant coach Bill Raduenz handled the one week of conditioning drills before Hagen was appointed head coach.

NCTC softball team has its 1998 opener delayed due to rain

A scheduled season-opening appearance at the North Hennepin Quadrangular in Brooklyn Center for the Northland Community and Technical College softball team was called off twice because of wet weather before finally being cancelled outright.

The outing was first rained out Saturday, April 4, and the weather again kept teams from playing on the Tuesday, April 7, make-up date.

Those delays left the Pioneers with a 10-game homestand to open a schedule that will then have the team on the road for the rest of the spring.

Northland's string of five home field Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division doubleheader match-ups were scheduled to start with games Friday (April 10) against Mesabi and today (Saturday) vs. Vermilion at 12-noon.

Middle River/Newfolden softball games planned cities in the region which have been very helpful, according to Heckman.

A permanent animal shelter is the long-term goal but a more immediate need is for volunteers who are willing to provide foster care for animals who would otherwise be homeless or impounded.

Other goals include public education and the involvement of many groups and individuals in the community. They also hope to involve young people. Lincoln High School students, Sara Anderson and Krista Phillips were participants in the early stages and another student, Kyle McCarty, came up with the name for the organization. While discussing what to name themselves, Kyle spontaneously offered "why not P.A.W.S. for Pets Are Worth Saving."

Ideas about educational goals, and fund-raisers seem to be bursting forth from this energetic group. According to Heckman, the most immediate plans are to encourage people to become members and participate in the organization's activities, to raise funds to help get P.A.W.S. up and running and to find volunteers to take on the critically important work of providing animal foster care.

Anyone interested in joining the Pennington County Humane Society is encouraged to attend one of their meetings, which is held on the third Monday of every month at 6 p.m. in the Library meeting room. Information is available from board members Vicki Heckman, Gail Holland, Teresa Levinson, Kristine Loeffler, Linda Benison, Sally Mumm, Trell Kelsch, Tom Wang or Scott Benison.

Memberships are $15 for individuals, $10 for students or seniors, and $25 for families. Membership applications and donations may be sent to: Pennington County Humane Society or P.A.W.S., P.O. Box 64, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Anyone interested in volunteering to provide animal foster care or in adopting a homeless pet should call 964-5640.

TamiJean Creations, Inc.

between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., they sold out — 12 cases, 144 jars of the cappucino mix! Who would have thought...?

The women's success that day presented one small problem. It was a two-day show! That evening they ran from store to store in Fargo buying ingredients and supplies to make more mix. "Did you know that grocery stores only carry four cases of canning jars in the off-season?" Jean asked when describing their dilemma. Covering everything in their motel room with the paper they'd also purchased, the women worked until 3 a.m., mixing and packaging more cappucino mix. Their labors paid off when, once again, they sold out. At that point, Jean and Tami knew they had something special with TamiJean Cappucino Creations.

Today, they are enjoying a steadily growing wholesale and retail operation, and they are learning every step of the way.

Tami and Jean have received assistance from the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI) in Crookston. The agency has helped them with ingredient labels and assisted them in streamlining their recipes to be cost effective.

Ingredients are purchased in bulk quantities from wholesale warehouses, and whenever someone makes a trip to the Twin Cities, they try to arrange a trip to the warehouse.

The main ingredient in the mix is a non-dairy creamer, the other ingredients varying with the flavors. At first, Jean and Tami rented the school kitchen to make the mix, but, of course, had to wait until school was out. During off-hours, they had to have the janitor let them in. They are currently renting a building in nearby Drayton, ND that has a kitchen approved by the Food and Drug Administration. At this time, the measuring and mixing are done by hand in five gallon containers.

The canning jars they used in the beginning were expensive. Glass is heavy and impractical to ship. Tami and Jean decided to go from jars to black lunch bag-type sacks. The first sacks they used were shiny black paper that, while they looked nice, didn't tolerate shipping or wear well on store shelves. This, of course, affected the product's marketability, and it was a problem Jean and Tami quickly remedied by finding a heavier glossy black bag, sturdier and more attractive than its predecessor.

The end result is a striking package that bears a round gold front label with black letters reading "TamiJean Cappucino Creations," its logo, and the flavor contained in the bag. The information on the matching rectangular label on the back includes a list of ingredients. The top of the bag is folded down and secured with gold wired clips, and a ribbon is drawn over the top and held in place by the adhesive backed labels — a different colored ribbon for each of the 15 flavors.

While the company that supplies the women with ribbon has nearly run out of different colors, Jean and Tami haven't run out of ideas for new flavors. They currently offer 15 flavors which include hazel nut, French vanilla, amaretto, banana split, Black Forest, Hawaiian dream, Irish creme, raspberry fudge, cinnamon, Swiss mocha, mint chocolate truffle, hot butter rum, caramel fudge, toffee and holiday nog. The permanence of a flavor, of course, is dependent on its sales.

Last year, Jean and Tami did 23 shows, together at all but four of them. This year they are doing more shows with each woman often going in a separate direction. They were apart last weekend, and two weeks ago, Jean was at the Home, Sport & Family Show in Thief River Falls while Tami was at a show in South Dakota. This weekend they will be at home celebrating Easter with their families.

Jean is married to Clayton Sjostrand who farms and does body work. Jean also has an insurance agency that she operates out of her home, offering life and health insurance and investments. She and Clayton have two sons, ages 19 and 17.

Tami's husband, Jim Boychuk, is also a farmer. They have two children, a five-year-old daughter and eight-year-old son.

Both women are appreciative of the support they have received from their families. The children help with packaging and at shows. Clayton and Jim were behind Jean and Tami as they went into debt to get their business off the ground and have been even more supportive since the figures from their first full year in business proved very positive.

Tami and Jean enjoyed and endured an enormously successful 1997 holiday season. With no way to anticipate sales, they found themselves working 17 hours a day seven days a week to produce enough product for the weekend shows. At one show, they sold 14 cases, 84 packages to a case. "Who would have thought...? It didn't leave much for the show the following weekend!" Jean says.

By the first of the year, Tami and Jean were exhausted and somewhat burned out. They've recovered, however, and in addition to the shows they're scheduled for, they have a number of other irons in the fire.

They have a brisk reorder business, and the exposure at shows has also brought them an ever-expanding wholesale business with TamiJean Cappucino Creations found in approximately 200 shops in nine states. More inquiries and orders were realized from an ad and "newcomer's" feature story in Fresh Cup, a publication for coffee lovers.

Currently, Jean and Tami's product is being considered by the National Association of Specialty Foods and Trade. If it qualifies, they can attend the Fancy Food show in New York in June giving TamiJean Creations international exposure.

Growth and potential for even greater growth brings about other concerns. At some point, nutritional information may need to be added to the ingredient label. While they are able to weigh the ingredients in ounces and pounds, they don't have the equipment to measure and weigh in grams. They are also checking into commercial mixing equipment.

The Ramada Plaza Suites in Fargo wants to offer single-serving sample packettes of the cappucino mix in its rooms and is willing to pay for the labeling. Tami and Jean are left to figure out how to package thousands of small servings. Their business name on every package would mean more exposure with unlimited possibilities.

These women have something going on all of the time. "Last week we incorporated. This week it was liability insurance," Jean says. "We're shipping every week. The phone rings every day," Tami adds.

They incorporated under the name "TamiJean Creations," a name they can trademark. By leaving out the word cappucino, the door is open for new products.

Obviously, Tami and Jean have something that a lot of people want. Tami tells about a large Christmas show in Bismarck, ND. "They announced it when there was an hour left of the show. People ran to our table!" she said. "And there were already orders in the mailbox on Monday when we got home!"

Sampling is a very successful marketing tool, and Jean and Tami sell larger quantities of the flavors they offer as samples. Butter rum is their most popular flavor with raspberry fudge picking up steam.

The retail price of a 10-oz. package of the flavorful mix is $6.50, and one of its unique features is that it can be used to flavor more than just coffee. The brochure Tami and Jean hand out at shows gives recommended measurements for adding the mix to coffee, hot milk, water and hot cocoa. Mixed with water it can be served as an ice cream topping. Dry mix can be used to flavor buttered popcorn. Jean whipped up a dessert using the mix and included the recipe in the brochure.

With so much going on, Tami and Jean are happy and having a good time. They laugh over the lessons they've learned in their first year and a half of business. They're excited and enthusiastic about what the future may bring them. After all, who would have ever thought ...?

Marshall-Beltrami SWCD banquet planned April 16

Author Janet Letnes Martin will be guest speaker at the 47th anniversary banquet of the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District Thursday, April 16, at the Steak Knife II restaurant in Grygla.

A roast beef dinner will be served starting at 6 30 p.m. Also on the program will be highlights of the past year in the district and recognition of Billy and Phyllis Wikert as outstanding conservationists and Lee and Donna Nelson and Richard and Margaret Nelson as Goodyear Award winners.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for students under 12 with preschoolers free. Tickets are available at the district office in Grygla or from board members Grant Satre, Gordon Foss, Orvis Byklum, Milton Anderson or Lloyd Wiseth and should be purchased by April 13. Everyone is invited to attend.

The guest speaker is from Hastings and is self-described as a Norwegian-Lutheran-farm girl humorist and author. She will be presenting a humorous program based on her rural background, which should be a reminder to many of their growing up in a rural setting 40 to 50 years ago.

Martin started writing books in 1993. Her first was a family history book titled Reise Til Amerika, followed by three best-sellers co-authored with Allen Todnem—Cream and Bread, Second Helpings of Cream and Bread and Lutheran Church Basement Women, which was nominated for a Minnesota book award in 1993.

She also wrote a "who dunit" entitled Shirley Holmquist and Aunt Wilma Who Dunit? and has created a number of novelty items such as Lutheran Jell-O power aprons and dish towels and the Helga Hanson Hotflash Hanky as a companion item to Helga Hanson's Hotflash Handbook.

In 1994 Martin and her college friend, Suzann Nelson, teamed up and have since authored six books: Cream Peas on Toast, They Glorified Mary, We Glorified Rice; They Had Stores, We Had Chores; Is It Too Windy Back There, Then?, Uffdo.But Those Clip-ons Hurt, and their latest, Growing Up Lutheran, What Does This Mean?

Together with her sister, Ilene Lorenz, Martin has also published a heritage cookbook entitled Our Beloved Sweden: Food, Faith, Flowers and Festivals.

Musical comedy presented by GMR drama department

Drama and music departments at Greenbush/Middle River high school will present the musical comedy Phantom of the Country Opera Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18, at 7:30 p.m. and a Sunday matinee April 19 at 2 p.m. in the Greenbush high school gymnasium.

The presentation is a newly published musical with music by Michael Duff, book by Sean Grennan and Kathy Santen and lyrics by Cheri Coons.

Loosely based on the musical The Phantom of the Opera, it is the story of a young American opera star in Italy who comes back to her roots in Nashville and finds a job at the Country Palace. Roseau receives grant for loan to Polaris Industries

Award of a $182,500 Minnesota Investment Fund grant to the City of Roseau was announced recently by the office of Gov. Arne Carlson. The city will in turn make a business expansion loan to Polaris Industries, Inc., which will allow the company to create 74 new jobs over the next two years.

Polaris proposes to spend $12,582,500 on its expansion project, which includes establishment of a plastic injection molding facility for the production of all-terrain vehicle (ATV) body parts and snowmobile hoods. The company will build a 60,800-square foot facility to produce the parts following a business decision by its past supplier not to provide them in the future.

Jay Novak, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development, said the funding proposal was approved "because it fulfills three important criteria for this project to be successful—it expands Roseau's industrial sector, it improves area workers' wages and it enhances Roseau as an economic growth center in this region."

President Ken Larson of Polaris added, "This project represents Polaris' largest single capital commitment in manufacturing facilities and equipment in the history of the company. Local and state officials have been instrumental in making this investment possible."

The Minnesota Investment Fund is an economic development tool used to create and retain high quality jobs across Minnesota with a focus on industrial, manufacturing and technology related industries. DTED uses the resources of state government to help foster a business climate that increased quality jobs in Minnesota.

Governor Carlson said it is exciting for the state to be able to contribute to the expansion and that the project "will result in the creation of new, highly-skilled jobs which will further enhance the great economic growth we have seen over the last few years."

Help arrives to process farm loan applications

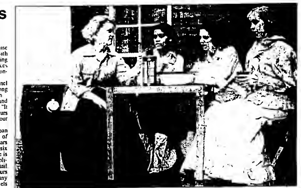
To provide assistance to process some 790 farm loan applications received by Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices in northwestern Minnesota, 26 FSA employees from across the state have been detailed to work in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman and Mahnomen counties.

Those on detail expect to spend from three to six weeks in these counties working on the applications. Through the middle of June in 1996 the number of applications totaled 830. Last year the number through mid-June was 555.

In addition to the FSA workers, the Farm Business Management Association through Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls is providing 20 people to work with 100 to 120 loan applications.

Since it is nearly two months until mid-June, FSA District Director Jerome Carlson believes that the 1998 numbers are comparable to those in 1996.

Many farmers have lost their optimism, Carlson said. Those who are optimistic and believe that they can make it through another year are the ones asking for loans. Those who have lost their optimism, with the potential of another operating loss this year due to the low prices of grain, are not asking for additional loans.



Carlson said the extra personnel are needed because it takes a long time to process a loan application.

"You can't just dive in and approve an application," he said. "It recently took three people 2.5 hours to decide how to proceed with four loans worth $1.6 million."

Due to the complexity of the loan process, Loren Severson of Kanabec county—who has 12 years of experience and who has spent six weeks in the area—states that he is lucky if he can process three applications a week. Those on detail spend an average of nine to 10 hours a day at work on the loans and many take paperwork back to their motels to work on during off hours.

Loan officers have to confer with the applicant and with private lenders. The complexity of the application and records provided by the applicant often slow down the process.

Ken Murphy (standing) is a trained volunteer instructor for 55-Alive, a defensive driving course for older, experienced drivers developed by the American Association of Retired Persons. Ken teaches 15 to 20 of the eight-hour courses each year in towns and cities throughout northwestern Minnesota.

Murphy teaches 55 Alive senior driving course

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

While Ken Murphy may have retired from U.S. West and local politics, this Thief River Falls man hasn't retired from life. In fact, he's busier than ever.

One of the things Ken does is teach the 55 Alive mature driving course in Thief River Falls as well as other towns and cities throughout northwestern Minnesota..

55 Alive is a driver improvement course for persons aged 50 and older developed by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Its purpose is to serve as a refresher course for motorists with many years of experience, reminding them of driving skills and techniques they may have once learned but don't regularly use. It also teaches new approaches and concepts, including compensating for normal age-related physical changes that may affect driving ability. "We draw attention to driving habits," Ken says. "We don't teach laws per se, but safety."

The eight-hour course is taught in two four-hour sessions. The class Ken was instructing on Thursday evening at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls was a four-hour version of the entire class, a pilot program being tested in Minnesota only. AARP provides materials for 35 students, and the classes are almost always full, often with waiting lists. When he has leftover materials, Ken has accommodated up to 40 students in areas where the course is not frequently offered.

Once the paperwork is done and a brief overview of the course is completed, students participate in a self-assessment. By anwering a few questions, the participant is able to determine his or her level of accident risk. A simple test measures reaction time, and a chart in the workbook allows students to compare their scores with those of others their age. Ways of compensating for slower reaction times are discussed. Distractions such as the radio, smoking and car phones are talked about with each student considering his or her own habits. The olders drivers are then asked to complete a questionnaire, answering questions about their own near misses and near hits. They are given questions to ask themselves after a near miss or near hit including how they would handle the situation differently in the future. Finally, they are offered a number of accident prevention tips.

The next chapter of the workbook offers tips for compensating for vision and hearing problems. Physical exercises designed to improve flexibility in older drivers are also suggested.

Intersections, turning, backing up, blindspots and freeway entrances and exits are a few of the normal driving situations covered in the fourth chapter which concludes the first half of the course.

Student homework includes identifying, describing and offering possible solutions for areas in the community which present problems for older drivers, thinking about and identifying available transportation alternatives, practicing and reviewing what was learned in the first session.

The second part of the course begins with the discussion of the hazardous driving environment and how to handle or avoid various situations.

Operation Round-Up grants $7,925 to 17 organizations

Red Lake Electric Cooperative customers participating in the Operation Round Up program have recently provided $7,925 in grants to community and charitable organizations. Seventeen different non-profit organizations received grants from Red Lake Electric Trust, the non-profit corporation that administers the money donated as a result of the Operation Round Up program.

Since 1993, most Red Lake Electric customers have allowed their monthly electric bill to be rounded up to the next dollar with the pennies earmarked for community organization grants. Currently, 83 percent of the Cooperative's customers participate in the program. To date, $101,065 has been granted at semi-annual meetings of the Red Lake Electric Trust Board of Directors.

Mark Naplin, president of the Red Lake Electric Trust, thanked RLEC customers when making a grant presentation at the Cooperative's annual meeting March 25. "The community spirit and generosity of customers is overwhelming. To generate the kind of grants we do with only pennies contributed monthly by customers is simply amazing. I thank you very much."

Three emergency service organizations were awarded grants. Red Lake County Emergency Services received $1,000 to help purchase jaws of life equipment for the Red Lake Falls area. The Goodridge Area Fire Department has a fund drive for a jaws of life and was awarded $800. They were also given $1,000 a year ago. The Crookston Fire Fighters Association received a $500 grant to help purchase a skid frame pump and tank for a grass fire response vehicle.

The Future Leaders of America, Red Lake Falls Chapter, was given a $200 grant for materials and supplies to conduct a youth safety camp in Red Lake Falls. A $500 grant was given to the Plummer Recreation Center, a youth activities center in Plummer. The Thief River Falls Little Brother/Little Sister Program was granted $500 to provide activities for children from at-risk families.

A $500 grant was made to the Goodridge Senior Citizens Center to help them with building repairs. Valley Home residents in Thief River Falls will be able to pass the time watching a new bird aviary with the help of a $500 grant. Seniors at Sunset Court in Red Lake Falls received a $300 grant for a new treadmill to exercise on.

The Middle River American Legion Auxiliary was given a $250 grant to purchase an electric hospital bed to be loaned to area residents in need. A $500 grant was made to the Red Lake County Unit of the American Cancer Society for area cancer patient programs. The Agassiz Environmental Learning Center received $500 to help pay for environmental education programs for area students.

People attending grandstand events at the Red Lake County Fair will have a new bleacher to sit on thanks to a $475 grant. The Red River Valley Emerging Leadership Program received $400 to provide agricultural leadership programs to young couples in the area. The Crossroads Displaced Homemaker Program in Thief River Falls was given $500 to help their clients eliminate barriers to employment.

Two Habilitation and Training Centers (HTCs) were given $250 each. The Thief River Falls HTC will use its funds for computer software to be used for training their handicapped clients to increase their independence at home and in the community. A new HTC will open soon in Red Lake Falls and received the grant for leisure room equipment.

Beverly Perreault of rural Red Lake Falls has served on the RLE Trust Board since its inception in 1993 and was not eligible for reappointment. Joyce Johnson of rural Viking was appointed to fill Perreault's directorship. Other directors are Orlan Stolaas of rural Oklee and Veral Mosbeck and Ron Kennedy of Red Lake Falls. The next funding meeting will be held in October 1998.

The airplane was manufactured in May of 1966 and was the 31st airframe made. Northwest Pilots Steve Erickson and Jim Gress flew the plane from Minneapolis to the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday. Parts will be taken off of the plane by the Flight Based Operator in Thief River Falls before students begin instruction on airframe repair.

Red Lake Falls man helps rebuild electrical lines in St. Peter

Red Lake Falls - One year after the city of St. Peter sent electrical lineman to East Grand Forks to help rebuild after the flood, East Grand Forks returned the favor as it sent four lineman to St. Peter to help rebuild substations and electrical lines destroyed by the recent tornado.

One of the East Grand Forks linemen sent to St. Peter was Dusty Demarais of Red Lake Falls. According to Demarais they worked 10 to 14 hours a day helping to build a substation on the west edge of Gustavus Adolphus College and then spent three days working with crews from Rochester and Willmer building permanent lines. The Gazette

Northern Plains town meeting in Crookston

Wheat growers facing several devastating crop years and low prices will receive an update highlighting the latest farm legislation in Congress and hear about how to use today's marketing techniques at "Rebuilding Wheat Prices - A Northern Plains Town Meeting," on April 23 in Crookston.

Willis Eken, a legislative assistant for U.S. Representative Collin Peterson, will discuss national farm legislation. Eken will be able to provide producers with more detailed information about what's being done in Washington, D.C. to help farmers.

In addition, National Farmers Organization National President Gene Paul, Delavan, will provide insight about possibilities for improving grain marketing. Northern Plains producers will move beyond current challenges and learn about more effective marketing techniques for their wheat.

"Rebuilding Wheat Prices - A Northern Plains Town Meeting," will be held at the Northland Inn from 1 to 3 p.m. at Highways 75 and 2N.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Spring brings plenty of work with it and so who wants to be in the kitchen when there are outdoor chores to do? These recipes should help make kitchen time as short as possible and still feed that starving family when they all come inside. Have some French bread and a salad ready to serve along with these.

This casserole is simple as can be - it's just a little oriental:

QUICK, YUMMY CASSEROLE

1 to 2 pounds hamburger
1 onion, sliced
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup instant rice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 1/2 soup cans water
Can of chow mein noodles

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix all ingredients except chow mein noodles and place in buttered casserole. Bake for 50 minutes, stirring two times during baking.

Sprinkle with chow mein noodles and bake 10 minutes more.

SIX LAYER DINNER

Sliced potatoes
1/3 cup raw rice
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
Sliced onions
Chopped carrots
Green peppers, if desired
1 quart canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste

Place a thick layer of sliced potatoes in deep, buttered baking dish. Add rice, then cover the rice with raw beef which has been finely crumbled.

Add onions, then carrots and/or green peppers. Pour tomatoes over all and add salt and pepper to taste.

Cover lightly and bake 2 hours or more (until beef is thoroughly cooked) at 350 degrees, stirring a couple of times. Add water or tomato juice if it becomes dry.

Start this one when you start your yard work and it will be ready when they are. It's a substantial meal for your hungry workers:

SIX HOUR STEW

2 pounds stew meat, unbrowned
5 stalks celery, chopped large
4-5 potatoes
Onion to taste
1/2 cup tapioca
4-5 carrots, cut into 3 inch chunks
1 can green beans and juice
1 large can tomatoes
1 tablespoon salt

Mix all ingredients in large Dutch oven. Cover and bake at 275 degrees for at least 6 hours.

Here's another robust dish - it feeds a bunch, but you can freeze it or half it and freeze it and serve at a later time:

HAMBURGER CORN HOT DISH

2 1/2 to 3 pounds hamburger, browned with a medium onion
16 ounce package noodles, cooked
1 can whole kernel or Mexican corn
1 cup milk
1 pound grated cheese
1 can cream style corn
2 cans tomato soup
1/2 green pepper
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup milk

Mix all ingredients except mushroom and chicken soups and 1/2 cup milk and place in buttered casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

During the last 15 minutes, pour mushroom and chicken soups mixed with 1/2 cup milk over top. (Recipe makes a very large casserole - freeze half for later if you like, but bake a little longer if it is frozen.)

Student Behavior Made A Positive Impression

Throughout the school year students at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls have presented themselves well in athletics, music, drama, languages, creative writing and other areas of public performance. Their talents are many and varied and in a number of cases are exceptional.

But nowhere was the student body as a whole more impressive than at the installation ceremonies for the Lincoln chapter of the National Honor Society recently. And it was impressive as much for what it didn't do as for what it did.

What it didn't do was offer anything at all in the way of derogatory activity or comment regarding fellow students who were introduced as having been accepted for membership in the chapter. Not once was even a single voice heard to disrupt the decorum of the proceedings. This display of respect for the organization, the school, the guests and fellow students was impressive because, in many schools today, it is an attitude that no longer prevails. It may be expected behavior, but it doesn't always happen.

To the contrary, Lincoln students were quiet and attentive to the speakers, enthusiastic in response to presentations by student musicians, politely responsive to announcement of Honor Society selections and awards and mature in behavior throughout the program.

Congratulations are certainly in order to the young people who displayed the attributes of scholarship, leadership, character and service to the extent that they merited selection for Honor Society membership. It is now up to them to sustain and build upon those strengths as they complete their high school careers or, in the case of seniors, move on to post high school education or employment, We are proud of you and your efforts and abilities.

But all Lincoln students should be proud of themselves, just as their parents, teachers, school administration and the community shodld be proud of them, for the way they participated in the event. Thanks, students, for being the kind of people we look forward to having as the public leaders and citizens of tomorrow. We are impressed and proud of you!

Congratulations To The Herald For Its Pulitzer

Earlier this week it was announced that the Grand Forks Herald had been selected as winner of the Pulitzer Prize in Public Service Journalism "for its sustained and informative coverage, vividly illustrated with photographs, that helped hold its community together in the wake of flooding, a blizzard and fire that devastated much of the city, including the newspaper plant itself."

A Pulitzer Prize in journalism is considered to be similar to an Oscar in entertainment and is coveted as recognition of exceptional performance. Most of the time it is awarded as a result of something that happened, rather than having a concentrated effort made specifically to win it.

In the case of the Herald, the management and staff simply worked around multiple adverse conditions to do their jobs to the best of their abilities. They stayed as close to the community as flood waters would allow and provided, on a daily basis, information of assistance to evacuated residents and a chronicle of events affecting the Grand Forks and Red River Valley area. In essence, the Herald and its staff epitomized what journalism is supposed to be.

For generations producers of newspapers have been slaves to publication deadlines. Everything from vacations to family funerals have been scheduled with a view toward the day or time of publication. It is an unwritten code among newspaper people that no edition will be missed, regardless of the disaster that may happen. Fierce competitors on a day to day basis will share facilities and assistance when a rival experiences a loss and needs help to "get a paper out."

Fortunately for the Herald in this case, it is part of a large newspaper chain with the total resources to maintain operations despite loss of advertising revenue and income from subscriptions and newsstand sales. The paper increased its number of copies printed and distributed them free for some time during the flood.

Every staff member of the Herald is in himself or herself a personal story regarding the effort it took to keep the paper in publication under extremely adverse conditions. These workers, however, had jobs while many people forced to flee the flooded city did not. Not only did the paper never miss an issue, it never missed a payroll. One former staffer, now working in the Twin Cities, said that on payday a cardboard box full of cash was brought to the temporary office in Manvel, ND, to pay the employees.

Our congratulations to the Grand Forks Herald, its owners, management and employees for winning this prestigious award—along with the fervent hope that they never have the situation which would occasion a second award under similar conditions in the future.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I am writing to thank the people of Thief River Falls for their support of a dynamic music program. I had the pleasure of conducting the Lincoln High School Concert Band and Wind Ensemble on April 6. It was an incredible experience for me. The students were well prepared and responded enthusiastically.

I felt the concert was especially rewarding. It was great to see so many people turn out for the concert! Your community has much to be proud of—a long tradition of excellence in music, dedicated and talented teachers and supportive administrators. A special thanks to Bruce Felt! He is doing an outstanding job.

Cordially,
Dr. Leigh Wakefield, Conductor
Concordia Cobber Concert Band

Dear Editor:

This session the Minnesota Legislature approved a bill that provides $1.07 billion in tax relief and refunds. Homeowners and renters will receive a property tax rebate of 20 percent of the property taxes paid in 1998 on filed income tax returns due in April 1999, and $427 million will be spent on property tax reform through various means including reducing class rates in one year.

The Legislature also approved a bonding bill which provides funds for important capital investment improvements throughout the state. This bill includes $20,000 for building rehabilitation and $120,000 for toilet remodeling at Lake Bronson State Park, $200,000 for a contact station at Hayes Lake State Park, and $150,000 for rehabilitating the sawmill at Old Mill State Park. The bill also includes funding for wastewater infrastructure, local bridges, forest road, the Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) reserve for permanent wetlands, and additions and renovations to the University of Minnesota Agriculture Experiment Station.

The Legislature accomplished many good things for the citizens of the state this session. I will stand by the votes I have taken. Anyone with questions or comments about the tax or capital investment bill should contact me at 501 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Ave., St. Paul, MN 55155-1298, rep.jim.tunheim@house.leg.state.mn.us or (612) 296-9635.

Sincerely,
Jim Tunheim

Training offered for families interested in adoption

At any given time in Minnesota, about 600 children, living in foster homes, group homes, and residential centers are waiting for adoptive families. They're not the babies many think of when they think of adoption — they're children with a wide range of special needs and a wide range of special gifts. Most are school aged, some have physical or mental or emotional disabilities, some are brothers and sisters who want to stay together, many are children of color, and most have experienced some degree of neglect or abuse. Their common bond is a strong desire to be part of a permanent, nurturing family.

The State of Minnesota has entered into an initiative with private adoption agencies throughout the state to assist with the adoption of these children at no cost to adoptive families. North Homes Inc., in coordination with Minnesota Adoption Resource Network will be hosting training sessions for families and individuals interested in adopting or becoming foster parents for older children and sibling groups.

The orientation session will be held April 30 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Northland Inn in Crookston. If you are interested in attending the orientation meeting or have additional questions, please call North Homes Inc. at 327-3000, 281-4688 or toll free at 1-888-430-3055, Adoption Services.

Receipt of the loans is vital for many farmers. One applicant told an FSA employee that if his loan application was not approved, "I'm not moving my tractor."

"FSA offices are becoming vital because banks are requiring more and more FSA guarantees in place on both operating and chattel type debts," said Richard Ballstad, who farms in the Fosston area. "It would help if we could bring in some people from other areas of the state for six months who have seen this before."

Rod Nelson, president of First American Bank in Crookston, said county office personnel are swamped and cannot take care of everything. "If State Executive Director Wally Sparby can provide them more help we can lend more to our farmers," he said.

Sparby has continually stated that FSA is doing everything possible within the rules and regulations to support county office personnel and help farmers.

At meetings in Crookston and Hallock in early March, House Agriculture Committee Chairman Steve Wenzel described the farming situation in the Red River Valley area as "probably the worst farm crisis in the history of northwest Minnesota."

Scott Kilman, writing in the Wall Street Journal, said he believes that farmers in the Red River Valley lead the nation in economic deprivation. Rev. Greg Isaacson of Grace Lutheran church in Ada referred to the area situation as "the silent crisis."

FSA personnel detailed to northwestern Minnesota are coming from the counties of Clay, Lyon, Stevens, Grant, Martin, Otter Tail, Waseca, Todd, Mower, Filmore, Olmsted, Dakota, Houston, Washington, Kanabec, Crow Wing, Clearwater, St. Louis and Koochiching.

Pennington county FSA director said that while Polk and Red Lake counties have received their disaster designation, Pennington county has not. He said that farmers may still apply, however, since the official designation is expected at any time.

A WILLOW WITHOUT THE MESS.

Willow

Willow are know to drop branches in the wind–but not the Flame Willow, a compact willow introduced by Bergeson Nursery. Discovered by Malvin Bergeson, the Flame Willow's branches are upright and dense, and are much stronger than the branches on most willow.

Gardener Pam Asselin of Oklee, who planted nearly ninety Flame Willow in her yard, dubbed the tree the "self-cleaning" willow. After a severe ice storm last year, the branches on Asselin's Flame Willow sprung right back. Very few broke.

But the best thing about the Flame Willow is its brilliant orange winter color. With the darkest orange branches of any willow, the Flame stands out during our drab winters and seems to become more brilliant as spring approaches. In this neck of the woods where trees are leafless much of the year, we need to plant trees which brighten things up during the long winter months. The Flame Willow makes a splash on the winter landscape like no other tree. Stop by the nursery before the leaves come out to see the Flame Willow for yourself.

The Flame Willow is very affordable. Healthy bare-root trees are available at Bergeson Nursery for five dollars. Flame Willow are fast growing and can be used as a yard tree, or for windbreak.

The Time To Plant Is Now!

Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. In an early spring such as this one, trees can go in the ground in early April. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

Solem, TRF stop MCC/Tri-County

Andrew Solem did the job on the mound and at the plate Thursday as Thief River Falls beat Marshall County Central/Tri-County 7-0 in high school baseball at chilly Irv Wilson Field.

As a pitcher, Solem finished with a two-hit shutout. He struck out 12 and had six assists on ground balls hit back to the mound.

"Andrew's got the ability," said Thief River Falls coach Brent Polum. "He's just got to believe in himself. He has a tendency to get down on himself when things don't go well. He has to be aggressive."

He was. Of the first 14 outs, the righthander junior had eight strikeouts and five assists.

As a hitter, Solem also supplied the game's biggest blow – a three-run home run over the right-center field fence in the bottom of the fifth inning that doubled a 3-0 Thief River Falls lead.

The Prowlers scored in the second inning without the benefit of a base hit as Mike Dowers and Paul Frank drew walks and advanced on a pair of wild pitches.

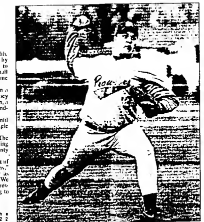
A lead-off double by Chris Mumm in the third inning was followed by back-to-back one-out singles by Jeremy Swanson and Andy Harbott for a 2-0 edge.

Swanson walked to start the fifth, moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Harbott and scored on a single to right by Dowers. An error on a ball hit by Frank preceded Solem's home run.

Final run came in the sixth on a lead-off single by pinch-hitter Joey Pribula, a walk issued to Swanson, a double-steal and an infield ground-out for an RBI by Dowers.

Solem worked on a no-hitter until Matt Nelson drove a two-out single to left in the the fifth inning.

The results put teams at 1-1. The Prowlers lost a 15-5 season opening decision to Red Lake County Tuesday.



"In the first game, we had a lot of problems with communications," noted Polum, in his first year as Thief River Falls coach. "We worked on that a lot in practice yesterday, and I think we're starting to to get things down."

■ Leach throws two-hit shutout

Thief River Falls pitcher Steph Leach threw a two-hit shutout Tuesday as the Prowlers opened their 1998 high school softball season with a 6-0 win over Park Rapids Area at the fairgrounds diamond.

A senior, Leach struck out 12 and walked three in the sunny but chilly, wind-swept late-afternoon match-up. "She (Leach) had a very good game," said Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher. "She was really hitting the corners."

Leach was supported by a 10 hit offense and a error-free defense.

"It was a great way to start the season," said Fletcher, who expects the Prowlers to improve considerably from the 3-11 and 4-12 records they've posted the past two years. "I'm looking for a better than .500 season. We've got 16 kids on the varsity, and they can all play."

Leach will be the Prowlers' No. 1 pitcher and will do most of the throwing. Lacey Huschle and Becky Wagner will be her back-ups. First baseman Beth Olson and shortstop Kelly Almquist anchor the infield, while center fielder Jennifer Swanson and left fielder Jackie Hoglo head the outfield.

Hoglo, who had three hits in the opener, Leach and Olson are expected to be the Prowlers' offensive leaders.

"It depends on which team shows up, but I think our defense will be all right," said Fletcher, "and our bats are starting to come around."

Nicole Kopari sets school record in discus...

Prowlers open outdoor track season at Park Rapids meet

Nicole Kopari twice set school records in the shot put as Thief River Falls opened its 1998 high school track schedule with a short indoor season – meets March 21 at Bemidji and March 26 at Moorhead.

Tuesday, the Prowlers were outdoors for the first time, competing at the Enterprise Invitational in Park Rapids, and Kopari set another Lincoln High School mark. But it wasn't in the shot. It was the discus, where the junior hit 149-5 – some 20 feet further than she was throwing at the end of the 1997 season. Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson figures it's the best distance in the state this year, and not that far from the existing girls state meet record of 156 feet.

"It was a huge throw," said Olson. "It was unbelievable."

Kopari also won the shot put, and Thief River Falls added first place finishes by sophomore Rachel Mathson in the 400 and eighth grader Chelsea Haviland in the pole vault. Since this is the first year that pole vault is part of the Minnesota girls' track scene, and it was the first time the Prowlers tried it, Haviland's 7-6 effort goes down as a school record.

Bemidji girls won team honors with 128 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 96, Detroit Lakes 88, Thief River Falls 73, Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale 54, Roseau 48, Tri-County 28, Fergus Falls 23, New York Mills 10, and Fisher 9.

In the boys' portion of the meet, Fergus Falls edged Park Rapids Area 107-104, followed by Bemidji with 95, Detroit Lakes 81, Tri-County 49, Thief River Falls 39 1/2, Bertha-Hewitt/Verndale 37, Roseau 28, Fisher 14 1/2, and New York Mills 13.

Top placing among the Thief River Falls boys was a third by senior Chad Skeim in the discus.

"The times were a little slow," noted Olson. "It was cold and windy, but it was nice to be outside."

Next outing for the Prowlers will be the Crookston Invitational Tuesday beginning at 3:45 p.m.

TRF girls open golf season

Thief River Falls girls opened their 1998 high school golf season Thursday at the East Grand Forks quadrangular.

"I wasn't sure about how we would do going into the first meet, but I was very happy with our play," reported first-year Thief River Falls head coach Bruce Jean.

Steph McMillen of East Grand Forks was medalist with a 42. Beth Goddard led Thief River Falls with a 49, while Jenni Gonsorowski turned in a 53.

"Beth should be real consistent for us this year, and Jenni did real well in the first meet," said Jean.

Pioneers lose four games

Northland Community and Technical College baseball team had trouble on defense Saturday, then struggled on offense Tuesday in losing doubleheader match ups with Itasca and Fergus Falls.

The Pioneers committed 11 errors while getting beat by the Vikings 13-2 and 20-13 at Grand Rapids.

"It was a terrible day defensively," acknowledged Northland coach Chris Mills. "We hit the ball, but we booted it all over the place."

Itasca took control of Game 1 with a nine-run second inning. Northland came back from an 11-5 second-game deficit to go ahead 12-11, but six errors led to nine unearned runs for the Vikings.

Fergus Falls swept visiting Northland 11-1, 12-0. The Pioneers came up with just two first-game hits and were limited to a second-inning Paul Gonsorowski single in the nightcap.

"It was a poor all-around performance," said Mills after the Fergus Falls trip. "We didn't do anything well."

A Monday doubleheader against the Concordia College junior varsity in Moorhead was postponed because of wet weather.

Northland is 3-5 for the year. The Itasca contests were the Prowlers' only Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division-counting games through the first eight starts. Outside of playing Concordia, the rest of the Northland 1998 schedule will be MCCC games.

Angie Gast is Wolverines MVP

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke team members voted Angie Gast as the Wolverines' most valuable player for the 1997-98 girls high school basketball season, it was announced this week during an awards banquet.

Amie Kotrba was selected as the most improved player, while Jenniecа Gallagher and Lori Hagen were co-winners of best defense honors.

Gast, and Kathryn Stanley were All-North Border Conference selections, with Jenny Nelson earning Honorable Mention status.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke went 12-12 this winter.

"It was an enjoyable season," said Wolverines coach Mike Gast. "The kids were easy to coach and they got along just great."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke proved to be competitive most nights as they climbed from 9-16 in 1996-97 to the .500 level this season. "We did some things pretty well," said Gast. "We accomplished some of our goals. We thought we had a chance to win the North Border Conference, and we came close. We lost twice to Roseau by a total of five points (57-54 and 40-38), and if we would have won those games, we would have tied for the title."

Gast hoped the Wolverines would reach the Sub-Section 31A title game, but they were upset by East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 56-49 in the semifinals before coming back to beat Marshall County Central 54-50 in the third place game.

Park Rapids tops TRF softball JV club 19-12

Park Rapids out-scored Thief River Falls 19-12 Tuesday in junior varsity high school softball.

Lindsey Nordhogen, Jennifer Rude and Andrea Stinson had the Thief River Falls hits. Becky Wagner and Ayla Donlin shared the pitching chores.

It was the second outing of the year for Thief River Falls, a 15-14 winner over Red Lake County Central in an April 2 season opener. Jennifer Rude was 3-for-4 that day, Sara Jensen went 2-for-2 and Carolyn Walrath had a triple. Lacey Huschle and Walrath did the pitching.

Erskine AAL branch 9462 to meet April 19

Aid Association for Lutherans branch 9462 will meet on Sunday, April 19 at Rodnes Lutheran Church, rural Erskine.

A gospel sing-a-long will be held at 10:30 a.m. prior to church services. After services, a potluck dinner will be held and then a short business meeting followed by a program at 12:30 p.m.

Brent Polum is new TRF coach...

Prowlers fall 15-5 in baseball debut

Part of the problem was a 'failure to communicate,' according to first-year Thief River Falls coach Brent Polum following the Prowlers' 1998 season-opening 15-5 high school baseball loss to Red Lake County at Red Lake Falls.

"I think we have some pretty talented kids," said Polum. "I think we'll be able to put a pretty solid nine on the field."

But, as shown by the first-game results, Polum and the Prowlers aren't guaranteed instant success.

"The kids are learning a new system with new terminology and new signs," explained Polum. "There was some mix-ups. It'll take some time before we get things worked out."

The Prowlers will be trying to bounce back from a 3-15 season with a group of lettermen headed by catcher Andy Harbott; infielders Paul Frank, Casey Skjerven and Nick Swanson; along with outfielders Wade Chiodo, Jeremy Swanson and Chris Mumm. Chiodo is a junior, while the others are seniors.

Swanson was Thief River Falls' opening day starting pitcher.

Thief River Falls spotted the Red Lake Falls/Oklee/Plummer combination a 4-1 lead, came back for a 4-4 tie in the top of the third, but couldn't stop the winners from reaching double figures in runs and hits. The game ended in the sixth on the ten-run rule.

Polum is a Fargo native who has been working with the Grand Forks Royals American Legion baseball team the past five years – the first two as an assistant and the last three as head coach. He also coached at the University of North Dakota for two years.

chapter of the workbook, is a review of road signs by shape and the meanings of the seven basic background colors of signs. There is also a discussion of traffic lights and signals as well as lane use signals.

Seat belts and air bags — how they work and what to expect — are the subjects of the next chapter.

The following section deals with medications and alcohol and the problems they present for older drivers. After each student has assessed his medication knowledge using a short true or false quiz, he is offered a number of safe ways to use medication and drive safely.

The final chapter of the course, "Driver Decisions," asks that each student consider his own abilities and make adjustments and set limits accordingly. Ken says, "If a driver has difficulty with night driving, he can modify his habits. If meeting friends in Grand Forks for supper is a tradition, they can meet for lunch instead." Transportation options are also discussed. By knowing about the alternatives, drivers will be prepared and able to get to where they want to go when driving, either temporarily or permanently, is not the best option. Finally, each class participant is asked to list two ways he or she plans to become a safer driver because of the course.

Class materials are clearly written and easy to understand, the print a bit larger for the older reader. The cost of the course for seniors is $8.

Recognizing the value of the course and noting a reduction in accidents, Minnesota legislators awarded drivers, age 55 and older, who have completed the 55-Alive course with a ten-percent reduction on their vehicle insurance. The savings also serve as an incentive for others to take the course. In addition to older drivers, Ken has taught the course to others including the employees of small companies, counties and municipalities.

The 55-Alive course is only one of may services offered to senior citizens by the American Association of Retired Persons. AARP serves the needs of people age 50 and over through legislative advocacy, research and informative programs. Services are provided by local chapters and experienced volunteers.

Ken Murphy is a trained volunteer who has taught the 55-Alive course for four years. His mileage is reimbursed for the 15 to 20 courses he teaches every year, and next week when he travels to the Twin Cities, his motel room and food will be paid for.

Ken and his wife, Wanda, have lived in Thief River Falls since 1964 when Ken's job transferred him from Baudette. A native of Boston, MA, Ken liked Minnesota and decided to settle here after completing his military service. The Murphys have two sons, a special education teacher in Grand Forks and a deputy sheriff in Fargo, and "four and one-half" grandchildren.

It's a good thing Ken is retired as he would have no time for work. In addition to teaching the driving course he is busy with a number of boards, committees and service clubs.

Watching him work with the driving course students and listening to his strong, clear voice one would think he had always been an instructor. When asked why he teaches the course, Ken says, "I like being with people and working with them. I always have."

April 19-25 is National Volunteer Recognition Week. Ken Murphy is a volunteer who, though retired himself, continues to make a valuable contribution to his community — and enjoys it. For that, he deserves a pat on the back.

Each candidate will receive a $100 participation scholarship, Miss Thief River Falls will receive a $1,500 scholarship plus a $1,000 expense allowance, and the first runner-up, personal interview and talent division winners will also receive scholarship money.

All young women interested in pageant participation are encouraged to bring their parents and/or friends to the meeting.

Pageant participation is open to young women between the ages of 17 and 24 who live within a 60-mile radius of Thief River Falls. The Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant is an official Miss America Preliminary event and the winner will participate in the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant at Austin in 1999.

"It is important that today's young woman be encouraged to pursue her aspirations," said Tammy Sparby and Sue Dondelinger of the local pageant committee. "The Miss Thief River Falls Scholarship Pageant offers scholarship opportunities as well as training in poise, appearance and interview skills. Take advantage of the great opportunities this pageant offers!"

Persons who have questions or who are interested in participating but will not be able to attend the information meeting are encouraged to contact Tammy Sparby at 681-6803, Sue Dondelinger at 681-8361 or the Chamber of Commerce office at 681-3720.

Housing Fund to hold meeting in McIntosh

Greater Minnesota Housing Fund will present a new statewide housing program at a meeting in the McIntosh Community building at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, April 28. Warren Hanson, president of the Housing Fund, will be on hand to explain this recently announced initiative. The event is open to the public.

Called "Home at Last," the program is the result of a partnership between the Housing Fund, the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency and the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development. Its purpose, according to Hanson, is "to encourage the construction of 400 to 500 single-family starter homes across Minnesota annually, and to foster the creation of vital, new residential neighborhoods in rural communities throughout the State."

Hanson says that the Housing Fund intends to do this by "stimulating development in sufficient number of units to maximize economies of scale. Large construction projects can attract volume builders with extensive industry experience to produce value-priced starter homes for the affordable housing market."

The Housing Fund will make up to $2 million available in 1998 for single-family subdivision projects. Eligible activities must minimize the need for subsidy through efficient use of land, infrastructure, cost-effective home design, and economies of scale. They must also provide for attractive neighborhood streetscapes and amenities.

Project proposals have been invited through a modified "Single Family Super RFP," issued by the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. The deadline for submission of proposals is July. Interested parties are encouraged to attend the McIntosh meeting, which is sponsored by the Northwest Minnesota Housing Coalition.

Hospice Foundation teleconference

Fifth annual Hospice Foundation of America's national bereavement teleconference will be presented Wednesday, April 22, from 12 noon to 3:30 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Sponsoring the local teleconference, which is free to the public, is Pine to Prairie Hospice with offices in Thief River Falls, Karlstad, Roseau, Grygla, International Falls, Kelliher, Fosston and Bemidji.

Persons planning to attend are asked to call 1-800-494-6081 no later than April 20 to register as seating is limited.

Auto air conditioning systems can often be retrofitted to use approved Freon replacement

While many vehicle owners have heard about the ban on the production of CFC-12 refrigerant, known by the trade name Freon, very few know that their CFC-12 air conditioning (A/C) systems can be retrofitted to accept a replacement refrigerant approved for use by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

According to a new study, 80 percent of those surveyed did not know about retrofit availability. Additionally, the remaining 20 percent of the respondents were misinformed about the costs associated with retrofitting. The study was conducted from 1993 through 1997.

"The switch from CFC-12 to the newer refrigerants is a confusing subject for consumers," says Don hart, president of the National Automotive Radiator Association. "Retrofitting is not a simple procedure. It requires the expertise of a cooling system specialist with the proper tools and technology."

Production of CFC-12 was banned Dec. 31, 1995, because it contains chlorofluorocarbon gasses, which are believed to deplete the ozone layer around Earth. Its use is still permitted, however, until supplies are exhausted. There is no way to predict with certainty when this will happen, especially with the extensive recycling and banking of CFC-12 that is occurring now.

When supplies do run out, most consumers with vehicles older than 1994 will need their vehicles' systems retrofitted to be able to use a replacement refrigerant. Retrofits also make sense for those having major service performed on their vehicles' air conditioning systems.

Replacement refrigerants must be reviewed by the EPA. Of the refrigerants that the EPA has found acceptable, HFC-134a is the only refrigerant vehicle manufacturers recommend as a replacement for CFC-12.

There are four major components in an a/c system: the compressor, a pump which circulates the refrigerant through the system, the condenser, responsible for transferring heat from the passenger compartment to the outside air, the evaporator, which transfers heat from the passenger compartment to the refrigerant so it can be sent to the condenser, and the receiver-drier/accumulator, which removes moisture from the system.

In general, these major components may not have to be replaced to retrofit your vehicle, unless replacement is recommended by the original equipment system manufacturer or a part failure has occurred. More often, a retrofit involved evacuating the system, adding a special lubricant and HFC-134a, and possibly replacing service fittings and seals. Cost of a retrofit can be as little as $100 and as high as $800, depending on the parts that need to be replaced.

The best advice is to take the vehicle to a cooling system specialist who uses certified refrigerant recovery/recycling equipment. Cooling system specialists have the tools, technology and expertise to quickly diagnose what the system needs, which effectively saves consumers time, trouble and money.

NARSA is a not-for-profit trade association with more than 1,500 members worldwide. It was formed in 1954 to serve as a forum for communication and education within the automotive cooling system aftermarket. The association provides its members with the latest technical information on the proper servicing and repair of the cooling systems of today's automotive fleet.

Nine ways to kill a "cat"

A leading role in the reduction of harmful exhaust emissions is the catalytic converter, through which exhaust flows on its way to the atmosphere.

The lethal components of exhaust gas are rendered harmless by the converter. This device should remain effective virtually forever unless it's damaged.

Major enemy of the converter used to be the lead in gasoline. Now that all gas is lead-free, nine other factors have become the most common "cat" killers.

The first three of the "nasty nine" are critical sensors in the emissions control system: Oxygen, coolant temperature and throttle position. If one or more of these sensors send the wrong information to the computerized fuel, ignition and/or emission control systems, unburned fuel in the exhaust will damage the converter.

Culprits four and five are a leaking fuel injector and ignition misfire, such as one or more worn spark plugs. The next three are less common but worth noting: bad gas, a leaking head gasket and a faulty fuel pressure regulator.

Finally, but not necessarily least common, is oil burning due to worn engine components. Oily exhaust can ruin a catalytic converter. The Car Care Council points out that even the most advanced vehicle design still demands periodic maintenance and service.

Prepare your vehicle for summer heat, humidity

Summer heat and humidity will take their toll on vehicles, so it is wise to get ready now, advise experts at the National Institute for Automotive Excellence (ASE), a non profit organization that tests and certifies the competence of automotive repair technicians.

ASE offers a free brochure entitled Getting Your Vehicle Ready for Summer. It is written in non-technical language and lists the components and systems that should be checked either by the owner or a qualified automotive technician.

The first step is the easiest, according to ASE. Motorists should read their owner's manual and follow the manufacturer's recommended service schedules. Other recommendations include:

- Correct problems with hard starts, rough idling, stalling and other difficulties before hot weather sets in;
- Flush and refill the cooling system according to the service manual's recommendations. A 50/50 mix of anti-freeze and water is usually recommended. The level, condition and concentration of the coolant should be checked periodically. (Never remove the radiator cap until the engine has cooled!)
- The tightness and condition of drive belts, clamps and hoses should be checked by a qualified auto technician.
- A marginally operating air conditioner will fail in hot weather. Have the system examined by a qualified technician.
- Change oil and oil filter as recommended in the owner's manual.
- Replace other filters (air, fuel, PCV, etc.) as recommended.
- Check the condition of tires, make sure that the spare is okay and the tire jack is in good working condition. Let tires "cool down" before checking their pressure.
- Inspect all lights and bulbs; replace burned out bulbs.
- Replace worn wiper blades and keep plenty of washer solvent on hand.
- Carry some basic tools for emergencies (ask a technician for suggestions). Also include a first aid kit, flares and a flashlight. Consider buying a cellular phone.
- If you are not a do-it-yourselfer, a section is included on how to find a certified technician to do the hard stuff for you.

For a free copy of the brochure, send a self-addressed, stamped business size envelope to ASE Summer Brochure, Dept. SB-98, 13505 Dulles Technology Drive, Suite 2, Herndon, VA 20171-3421.

Scour windshield to keep wipers from streaking

If you have a problem with windshield wipers leaving streaks, even after new wipers have been installed, the problem may be the film that has built up on the windshield from car wash waxes and road dirt.

To clean off this film, wet the windshield and sprinkle it with a scouring powder called Bon Ami. (This is the only scouring powder that will not scratch glass!) Wash the window thoroughly and also wipe down the edges of the wiper blades. Rinse thoroughly. This should help keep the wiper blades from streaking.

Angus America
(Scotch Cap Angus Alliance)
"A full service company for commercial cattlemen"
If you are a member you will be entitled to all the benefits listed below.

1) Receive Feedlot and Carcass Data: You will receive carcass and feedlot data and have your own carcass data base. This will be your main tool in building, improving, managing and promoting your herd.

2) Management and Genetic Advice: The alliance will help you analyze your data and will provide management and genetic consultation.

3) Semen and Commercial Bull Discounts: The Alliance will be working with a number of purebred Angus breeders throughout the country. All members will get semen discounts of up to 50% and commercial bull discounts from all of those participating breeders.

4) Regional Female Sales: Once the alliance data base is in place, we will have regional female sales for you. Your herd will become a major source of proven carcass quality genetics for other breeders. Your heifers should bring a large premium because replacement heifers with carcass information will become very valuable in the future.

5) Exclusive Final Formula: Beef America (5th largest meat packer in the U.S.) will be working with our company and will provide an exclusive carcass merit marketing formula for you. This is the best formula that is being offered in the industry today and is designed to get you the absolute top dollar for your high quality cattle, but to get this premium you must retain at least partial ownership of your cattle. Once the alliance data base is in place we will develop our own branded beef products. You will be able to see first hand the results of your labor in restaurants and other outlets.

6) Gene Mapping: You will be the first to receive benefits from genetic research that the alliance is conducting.

7) Feedlots that will purchase or Custom Feed: We have a list of approved feedlots for custom feeding, partnering or purchasing alliance cattle. These feedlots will actively bid on your cattle so that they can sell them on our exclusive Angus America formula. Copy of your membership form will be faxed to each of these feedlots so they will have information on your calves and will contact you directly. We will send you back a copy of this list along with individual information on each lot which will include a person to contact and phone number. Any other buyer that you sell to will also have the privilege to sell your cattle under this formula. We want very much to get your calves into the system in order to get you all the alliance benefits, and we'll do everything possible to make this easy for you.

8) Hide Premium: Angus America will give a $3 premium per head for any cattle that are not branded. All calves born after January 1, 1998 will receive a $5 discount if branded anywhere on the hide other than the butt. All calves butt branded will not be discounted.

Cost of Program:
Membership fee: $2 per calf sold in the system
Individual Carcass Data: $3 per head
(Data Includes: Carcass Weight, Quality Grade, and Yield Grade on each animal)
Also all feedlot performance data will be included in this cost.

Cattle Qualifications: All cattle must be guaranteed to be 50% Angus (Red or Black) and no Brahman or Dairy.

Under No Obligation: If you become a member and pay your $2 membership fee, you are not obligated to sell your cattle in the system. You are in full control of your cattle. You will still get all the membership benefits. The main purpose of this company is to help its members get the maximum income possible for their cattle. If you change your mind or find a better deal you are free to market your cattle any way you desire.

EGF schools raise over $7,400 for St. Peter and Comfrey

East Grand Forks - Students from East Grand Forks Senior High went to tornado- stricken St. Peter recently with some advice and financial help — over $7,400 for the schools in St. Peter and neighboring Comfrey.

To initiate the fund drive, letters were sent home with students and canisters were placed in the school office, and the community's response was more generous than anticipated by school officials. The Exponent

Sunsdahl TV and Appliance notes 50th anniversary

Stephen - Starting as a electrical service shop, Sundahl TV and Appliance has evolved into a popular sales and service entity in the past 50 years.

The business, "A & L Motor Lab," was originally a partnership between Lawrence Sunsdahl and Adolph Johnson. Sunsdahl became the sole owner in 1952. With the addition of appliances and later television, the nature of the business changed as did the name to the present Sunsdahl TV and Appliance.

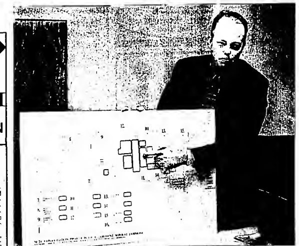
Lawrence and his wife, Phyllis, sold the business to son David and his wife, Carol, in 1984. David, born in 1952, grew up in the business. The Messenger

Restaurant owners protest fee scale

Crookston - Several Crookston restaurant owners addressed the Polk County Board of Commissioners recently stating that they prefer a solid waste fee structure based on weight, not volume.

The solid waste haulers, however, do not have weight scales on their trucks. If a five-yard dumpster is emptied three times a week, that's 15 yards of waste, even if the dumpster wasn't full. That 15 yards a week plugged into the newly expanded non-residential solid waste fee scale adds up to a lot of extra money. For Mike O'Keefe, owner of McDonalds, it's a jump from $1,730 to $7,000.

With the difference between his old fee and new, O'Keefe could purchase a scale for his hauler. "It would be worth it in the long run," O'Keefe said.



Restaurant owners prefer a weight-based fee scale because, typically, their garbage is light, mostly paper and cardboard. O'Keefe said, "I have feathers, not bricks." Crookston Daily Times

Roseau county potholes waiting for the sun

Greenbush - As in other counties around the region, Roseau County Highway maintenance crews will have their work cut out for them this year when it comes to repairing the county's roadways.

Until all of the frost is out of the ground, it's too early to make any permanent repairs to damaged roads. The problem, more extreme this year, was caused by lack of snow cover. The Tribune

Architect Paul Sorum of Triebwasser, Helenske and Associates reviewed plans for the Phase I construction and remodeling project at Northland Community and Technical College for various groups this week. He collected input from faculty, staff, student and other groups and individuals. Northland was successful in receiving $4 million for the project in the bonding bill adopted by the 1998 Minnesota legislature.

Northland plans phase I of major remodeling plan

With state bonding funds of $4 million approved by the 1998 session of the Minnesota Legislature, Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls will undertake Phase I of a building and remodeling program which will make major changes in the campus.

The project ties in with a state directive to consolidate the technical and community colleges where they had been developed as separate entities in Minnesota. All of these schools are now included in the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) system created by the legislature.

While Northland Community College and the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College were among the first in the state to merge and share facilities and administration, and the name was officially changed to Northland Community and Technical College, the campus is still primarily divided into technical college and community college areas.

Project architect Paul Sorum of Triebwasser, Helenske and Associates (THA) of Fargo, spent much of the past week in Thief River Falls meeting with a number of groups and individuals having an interest in the construction and remodeling project, gathering ideas and information which could be used in the Phase I project.

"Our original proposal was for an extensive project of nearly $7 million, conceptualized in 1994 in response to the merger directive," Sorum said. "For a number of reasons this was put on hold until early in 1997 when it was revised and presented to MnSCU for approval and presentation to the legislature."

MnSCU divided the project into two phases and assigned a priority to Phase I for presentation to the 1998 legislature. Late in the session the NCTC request was dropped from the state bonding bill. Sorum credits a concentrated and effective lobbying effort by Dr. Orley Gunderson, NCTC president, along with area legislators, to get the project back in the bill for final approval.

Phase I will include about 15,000 square feet of new construction and about 18,000 square feet of remodeling. Sorum said. Much of the new space will involve filling in an open area on the north side of the campus between the cosmetology department on the west and a computer area on the east.

Some new area would also be used for corridors on the north and south sides of the building to connect the east and west parts of the campus.

Major remodeling that will be apparent to the general public will

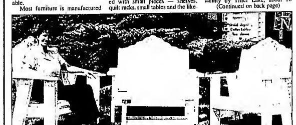
Kezar Designs builds furniture

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Ambitious is one word to describe Nancy Kezar. Talented is another. Nancy is the creative force behind Kezar Designs, a wholesale furniture company.

Nancy began the furniture building business about two years ago. "The company, like so many others, was born out of necessity," Nancy says. She is also the owner of Home Sweet Home, a gift and floral shop in Thief River Falls. Seeking inventory for her store, Nancy searched the market for furniture pieces that could be shipped to this area and sold at a reasonable price and was dissatisfied with what was available.



Most furniture is manufactured in the southeast. "Because of our location, shipping rates are the highest in the nation," Nancy said. Those costs, of course, are passed on to the consumer. Quality was another of her concerns. Made of pine that wasn't completely dry, the pieces would often twist or warp. Many pieces were shipped broken down and had to be put together. Nancy was frustrated.

And, if she couldn't find a manufacturer that could make the quality product she desired, Nancy would start that company herself. She designed the pieces she wanted, had them built by area woodcrafters and brought to Home Sweet Home to be sold. Due to lack of space, she started with small pieces — shelves, quilt racks, small tables and the like.

Nancy's oldest brother Mitch, a free-lance photographer, photographed the furniture for the brochure she designed and sent along with 19 cartons of furnishings to Dallas, TX to a large gift market. Nancy followed by air and wallpapered a wall for a backdrop when she arrived. Buyers from gift shops, catalog companies, furniture stores and antique shops all over the country attended the market. Nancy's exposure at the showing netted her Kezar Designs' first order from a catalog company and about 200 wholesale accounts. "Kezar Designs," Nancy says, "was off to a good start."

Today, the furniture is built at a facility by Thief Lake, about 10

Proprietress Nancy Kezar takes a break from her busy day outside Home Sweet Home, a floral and gift shop in Thief River Falls. Nancy is also the creative force behind Kezar Designs, a two-year-old wholesale furniture business. The outdoor furniture shown in the photograph as well as bedroom and dining room furnishings have recently been added to Kezar Designs' line. The furniture will make its debut at Home Sweet Home's 15th anniversary celebration beginning May 4.

To spend $29 million on highway projects

Northwest District of the Minnesota Department of Transportation plans to spend $29 million on 27 highway and bridge construction projects this season, according to Karen Bedeau, public affairs coordinator in the Bemidji office.

This amount includes the carry-over from last year of the Halstad bridge project and completion of the four-lane divided highway between Bemidji and Cass Lake.

Major projects among the 27 include grading and surfacing of Highway 64 from the north junction of Highway 87 at Badoura to the south junction of Highways 64 and 87; restoration and rehabilitation of Highway 11 from Roosevelt to Williams; replacement of the bridge superstructure, approach panels and guardrail over Hay Creek on Highway 11 (1.3 miles west of Salol); 43 culvert replacements along Highway 11 from the west Koochiching county line to Highway 71; replacement of bridge No. 4396 over the Wild Rice river on Highway 200 in Clearwater county, and resurfacing of the Highway 2 east and west-bound lanes of the Bemidji by-pass.

Traffic impacts will vary with each project and Mn/DOT will issue project by project news releases to alert the public of necessary traffic delays as they draw near.

Motorists are reminded that fines double in work zones and they should slow down and obey all traffic signing when approaching and traveling in any construction zone.

A synopsis of each project including location, type of work, cost, estimated project start time and traffic impact is as follows:

Highway 75 at Noyes, state entry landscape and repair, $114,791, April 15 for 30 working days, no traffic impact;

Highway 220 from Highway 1 to Highway 11, chip seal (bid in package with other chip seal projects at a total of $629,808), June 15 for 30 working days, very slow-moving operation, loose rock, alternate lanes;

Highway 1 at Oslo, turf establishment, $794,356, starting date not determined, no traffic impact;

Highway 220 from East Grand Forks to Climax, chip seal (bid in package), June 15 for 30 working days, very slow-moving operation, loose rock, alternate lanes;

Highway 220 north of Climax, culvert repair, $130,000, starting date not determined, minor traffic delay;

Highway 200 at Halstad, new bridge, $3,750,000, (in progress, carry-over from last year), no traffic impact;

Highway 2 in Crookston, lighting project, $2,046,183, carry-over from last year, minor traffic delay;

Highway 2 in Crookston, reconstruction, $3,400,000, May 18 to October 16, detour and delays;

Two men arrested after high speed chase on Hwy. 59

Mahnomen - Two Mahnomen men face numerous charges after a recent high speed chase down Highway 59.

An officer was southbound on Hwy. 59 when a car passed him on the right hand shoulder traveling at speeds of 80 to 90 miles an hour.

The driver of the speeding car continued to pass cars on the shoulder and swerve at other vehicles. At one point, he shut off his lights, at times reaching 110 miles an hour. Several law enforcement officers joined the pursuit, and the car was finally stopped by flattening its tires with stop sticks.

Arrested in the incident were 25-year-old Harold Ray Leslie and his passenger, 24-year-old Roy Gene Bjorge. Mahnomen Pioneer

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Sometimes it's fun to make a cake from scratch. Some of today's recipes sound more like fancy desserts, but they're all called cakes.

OLD-FASHIONED SPICE CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat.

Mix dry ingredients and flour and add buttermilk. Mix well. Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan and bake 30 to 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

POPPY SEED CAKE

3/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
3/4 cup milk
3/4 cup poppy seeds
2 cups flour
2 teaspoon baking powder
4 egg whites, beaten

Mix butter and sugar. Add milk and poppy seeds and mix. Add baking powder to flour, mixing well, and then add mixture to cake, mixing well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Place in two (or three for thinner cake) greased and floured round pans and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Filling
4 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup sugar
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix egg yolks with cornstarch, flour and sugar, adding milk to make paste and then adding remaining milk. Cook until thick. Cool and then add nuts and vanilla.

Fill layers and then top cake with whipped cream.

Here's a cake that everyone will love, chocolate-chocolate and the wonderful taste of maraschino cherries on top:

MILK CHOCOLATE BROWNIE CAKE

1 cup margarine or butter
4 egg whites
2 cups flour
1/3 cup cocoa
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup plain yogurt

Heat butter, water and cocoa to boiling point, stirring occasionally. Add flour, sugar, soda, salt, yogurt and egg whites. Beat until smooth (batter will be thin).

Place in 9x13 inch greased and floured pan and bake at 375 degrees for 20-24 minutes. Cool well before frosting.

Frosting
6 ounce jar of maraschino cherries, chopped fine
1/2 cup margarine or butter
1/3 cup cocoa
1/3 cup skim milk
1/4 cup almond extract
4 cups powdered sugar or enough for good spreading consistency

Heat butter, milk and cocoa to boiling. Add powdered sugar and beat smooth. Stir in almond and cherries.

CHOCOLATE CHIP OATMEAL CAKE

1 3/4 cups boiling water
1 cup oatmeal
1 stick margarine or butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
2 eggs
1 3/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cocoa
1 package chocolate chips
3/4 cup nuts

Pour water over oatmeal and let stand 10 minutes. Add margarine until melted. Add sugar and eggs and mix well.

Sift flour, soda, salt and cocoa and add to oatmeal mixture. Mix well and then add 1/2 cup chocolate chips. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan and sprinkle with nuts and remaining chips.

Bake about 40 minutes at 350 degrees.

Government By Paranoia A Poor Way To Operate

Roger Beaver of Rolette, ND, is very likely accurate in his assessment that "I'm sure if this application was put in in January, it would have been approved."

Beaver had his application for a pawn broker license in Devils Lake, ND, unanimously rejected by the city commission last Monday night. Nothing in Beaver's character or background was cited, nor was the proposed pawn shop a non-conforming property use or restricted by city ordinance. He was turned down in his application because the shop, which would include firearms in its trade, was located across the street from an elementary school.

In addition to their own personal feelings, the city commissioners acted in response to a request from the Devils Lake school board to deny the application. "The presence of weapons in that location is not in the best interests of students, staff and parents," a letter from the school board to the city commission had stated.

For the Rolette farmer and auctioneer it was a case of bad timing. The shooting attack by two young boys on students of an elementary school in Jonesboro, Arkansas, several weeks ago was apparently etched in the minds of the school board and commission. Guns and schools in close proximity draw negative thoughts, regardless of the hazards or lack thereof.

Undoubtedly there are many, probably even a majority, who would agree with the Devils Lake school board and city commission. In a city the size of Devils Lake, they reason, why should it be necessary to have a business dealing in guns located near a school?

Wrong question.

Should a local governing body have the right to prevent a private citizen from going into a legal business in a location of his choice when it is not restricted by existing law or ordinance nor proven to be a hazard to human health and safety?

In the bizarre Arkansas ambush, 13 and 11-year-old boys took guns from their own homes, brought students outside their school by setting off a false fire alarm, and opened fire from a nearby wooded area. Nothing in this scenario would at all implicate a nearby business handling firearms.

Suppose the application was for a pawn shop across from a post office, a fast food restaurant, a public park, an office building—all scenes by description of shooting sprees in the past. Would this be grounds for denying a license?

We should all be thankful that local government officials are concerned about the welfare of children. But government by paranoia is a poor course to follow. We suspect Beaver would prevail if he took his case to court, but it would probably be a poor business decision. Public good will is important in business, and especially important to a new business.

We also suspect as this is being written Tuesday that another acceptable site in Devils Lake will be made available if Beaver wants it. The real casualty in this situation is freedom—freedom from fear as well as economic freedom.

We've Been Waiting To Hear This Comment

Certainly the flood of 1997 in the Red River Valley was an unprecedented disaster in terms of property damage and lives affected. It was also unprecedented in terms of public and private relief efforts and assistance.

In today's mail was an "Anniversary Report" by the Minnesota Recovers Disaster Task Force, a group established by Gov. Arne Carlson of Minnesota to coordinate flood recovery. It was one of many groups working with the state legislature during a special session to provide $125 million in state flood recovery funding.

One article in the report told of the flooding of Conzemius Oil Company (Breck Amoco) in Breckenridge. An extensive effort of sandbagging and pumping to keep flood waters out of the business came to naught when the wake from a slow-moving National Guard truck toppled the sandbag dike. The business had two feet of water in it for 12 days, but due to a heroic effort by employees and others it was cleaned up, stripped down to the studs, provided with new wiring and plumbing and put back in business.

Conzemius had operated the business for 32 years. He was assisted with getting low interest loans from the Small Business Administration and Minnesota Initiative Fund. Gap financing through the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development will be forgiven if he stays in business for the next three years. He plans to be in business much longer.

His quoted comment at the end of the story is one we have been waiting to hear in all of the millions of words that have been spoken and written about the flood and recovery.

"While I don't want to ever do anything like this again," he said, "I don't look on it as a negative experience. "We didn't feel that we were entitled to anything. I really appreciate all the help we did receive."

"We didn't feel that we were entitled to anything."

Can anyone recall seeing or hearing that statement before? We can't. We have seen plenty about buy-out offers being too low, government payments too slow in coming, even trying to find a source of state or federal funds to use for the local match of other state and federal funds.

Hundreds of thousands of volunteer hours and hundreds of millions of dollars in public grants and low interest loan funds and countless donations of food, clothing, cleaning and building materials, equipment and other needed items have come to the flooded areas. Thousands of people have been the beneficiaries and many have expressed their heartfelt appreciation.

But Clint Conzemius of Breckenridge is the first person we have heard about who said, "We didn't feel that we were entitled to anything." We were glad to hear that someone said it, even just once.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

It is really nice to see so much of your newspaper devoted to the youth of the community. With all the changes in society that affect our youth, they need a voice and some recognition.

I am a former student and graduate of Lincoln high school and Moorhead State University and have worked with young adults for about five years, most recently with the North Dakota Department of Corrections juvenile division.

Keep up the good work. It will help everybody's future.

Self-insurance pool returns money to cities

Several cities in northwest Minnesota will receive refunds from a self-insurance pool participating in the League of Minnesota Cities Insurance Trust (LMCIT), workers' compensation program.

The $4 million total dividend was made possible because member cities filed fewer workers' compensation claims and incurred fewer losses in 1997 than actuaries expected. This dividend is in addition to the more than $12 million total dividend distributed earlier this year to cities enrolled in LMCIT's property/casualty program.

LMCIT is a self-insurance pool formed in 1980 to meet the unique risk management needs of Minnesota cities. More than 750 cities throughout Minnesota purchase their liability, property and workers' compensation coverage from this insurance trust. And where extra funds in private insurance companies translate into profits, LMCIT's extra funds are returned to member cities in the form of dividends.

Cities in northwest Minnesota to benefit from this dividend include: Crookston $15,482; East Grand Forks, $33,366; Goodridge, $486, Grygla $302; Middle River $508, Newfolden $144; Red Lake Falls $2,454; Thief River Falls, $22,474, and Warren $4,057.

This is not the first year that participants in the workers' comp program have received a dividend from LMCIT. In 1997, members received a total of $8.5 million in dividends, and in 1993, the dividend was $5.4 million.

"This LMCIT workers' comp dividend is good news for cities and their employees," said LMCIT Board Chairman and Moorhead City Manager Jim Antonen. "Municipal governments have worked hard to improve the safety of working conditions for city employees, and to help employees recover and return to work faster when injuries do occur. As a result of these city efforts, and the workers' comp reform legislation of 1992 and 1995, our member cities are filing fewer claims and incurring reduced losses, and we are able to send money back to these cities and their taxpayers."

The amount of money each city receives is determined by the total amount of premiums paid into the trust and the losses claimed for all of the years the city has participated. The longer a city participates and the more successful it is in controlling losses, the greater the city's dividend will be.

Antonen cautioned that, while cities can expect to receive occasional dividends from the workers' comp program, members should not rely on potential returns when planning city budgets. The trust will always work to keep losses and expenses down, he said, but there are too many factors that can cause increases in future losses. However, Minnesota cities can count on LMCIT to provide workers' comp and property/casualty coverage for cities at stable, predictable costs.

LMCIT is a service of the League of Minnesota Cities, an organization of 814 cities across the state working to promote excellence in governance, management and services to citizens.

AN EASY-PICKIN' RASPBERRY.

Red Wing Raspberry

The Red Wing Raspberry, introduced by the University of Minnesota, bears its fruits on the tip of its stems for the easiest picking possible. No searching underneath prickly branches for elusive berries. No crawling on the ground. Sometimes you can fill an entire bowl while standing in one spot.

The Red Wing bears in the fall, from late August through frost. If we have a long fall, you can pick berries for weeks and weeks. A couple of years ago, we picked straight through to November 2. The berries are firm and tasty. They hold their shape in the fridge.

Best of all, the Red Wing raspberry bears on the new, first year shoots. That means instead of having to prune out the old canes to keep the patch fresh, you can mow the whole patch to the ground. The new plants will bear fruit that August. If you want to have a early crop as well, leave some of the old canes unmowed, and they will bear in July.

The Red Wing is a vast improvement over the old type of raspberry. Not only is a patch of Red Wing easy to maintain, but the berries have a mild flavor. A planting of ten canes will give you a good-sized patch in two years.

The Time To Plant Is Now!

Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. In an early spring such as this one, trees can go in the ground in early April. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

MPCA honors wastewater treatment operators

Minnesota Pollution Control Agency has recognized outstanding performance by operators of wastewater treatment plants around the state during 1997.

Several area cities were among the award recipients including: Goodridge, Grygla, Hallock, Oklee and Thief River Falls. This year, 187 facilities were awarded certificates for meeting the agency's criteria for excellence in operations at the MPCA's 61st annual Wastewater Operations Seminar held March 18-20 in Bloomington.

The seminar brings together wastewater operators from all over Minnesota for training and professional education. MPCA Commissioner Peder Larson and Water Quality Division Manager Rod Massey handed out the certificates and commended the winner for their efforts to help protect and preserve Minnesota's water resources.

To be eligible for the certificates, winning facilities had to comply with their permit requirements throughout the year, including submitting all monitoring reports to the MPCA correctly and on time, demonstrating compliance through monitoring or in surveys, and employing MPCA-certified operators.

There are about 1,300 wastewater treatment facilities in Minnesota, including municipal, industrial, and some privately operated institutional facilities. The size of the community, institution, or treatment plant is not a factor in receiving a certificate.

WorkForce office opens at Roseau on Tuesday

Grand opening of the state's 41st WorkForce office operated by the Minnesota Department of Economic Security was conducted Tuesday, April 21, at the office location in Roseau.

The ceremonies opened with several numbers by the Roseau high school jazz ensemble, followed by a brief presentation by Earl Wilson, Deputy Commissioner. A number of state legislators and other officials who had been scheduled to attend were unable to be present due to the special legislative session in St. Paul.

Deputy Commissioner Wilson said that "the WorkForce Centers are a key element in dealing with the workforce shortage in the area. The performance and function of the WorkForce Centers are critical to the area."

The center in Roseau is staffed by two Job Service/Reemployment Insurance and two Rehabilitation Services staff members. Veterans Services, Job Training and the Welfare-to-Work programs are provided by itinerant staff from Thief River Falls. State Services for the Blind are offered by staff members who come to Roseau from Bemidji.

Emcee Gary Sorensen commented that WorkForce Centers are expanding to serve more job seekers and noted that new technology and other services are now available to local area employers. He introduced a number of dignitaries who did attend the ceremonies.

Myrna Pease represented U.S. Sen. Rod Grams and Sharon Josephson represented Congressman Collin Peterson. Other officials in attendance were Roseau County Commissioner Doran Horner, Roseau Mayor Bernie Burggraf and Warroad Mayor Bob Marvin.

Also in attendance were Jack Swanson, Roseau area JSEC chair, Jane Roalfeldt of the Warroad Chamber of Commerce and Dave Cleveston of the Roseau Chamber of Commerce.

Ribbon cutting officially opening the WorkForce Center in Roseau was conducted Tuesday, April 21, as part of the open house ceremonies for the day.

Changes made on NCTC staff

Football, volleyball, basketball teams affected

Personnel moves that were announced during the course of a Wednesday afternoon press conference held at Northland Community and Technical College affected four of the six intercollegiate athletic programs currently offered at the two-year Thief River Falls school.

It was announced that Shari Olson has resigned as Northland volleyball coach and that Rick Nikunen would leave his position as the Pioneers' head women's basketball coach to accept the men's head basketball job, vacated recently when it was reported that Ted Krize had stepped down after just one year at the post.

Nikunen also said he would not return as an assistant coach on the Northland football staff next fall. With Dan Willoughby named at the close of the 1997 season to move up from assistant to head coach to succeed Gene Klinke, the Pioneers found themselves short two football assistants.

However, Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson, the Pioneers' former head football coach, said during the conference attended by local print and broadcast media, that he had accepted an invitation to rejoin the football staff as an assistant in 1998.

Search for a volleyball and women's basketball coach is already underway, according to Nelson and Northland President Dr. Orley Gunderson, who was also part of the conference. It's possible a single person could be hired to fill both positions, they said, but it would not be a requirement that coaching applicants handle the two jobs.

Olson said she was leaving coaching because of time demands involved in her position as Dean of Custom Training and Continuing Education at the school. She took over as Pioneers coach in 1995 – a year after the Northland program was put on a one-year hiatus because of low numbers. Her teams went 6-13, 10-13 and 11-14, qualifying for the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament last fall.

"It's been a great honor to be involved in the volleyball program at Northland," said Olson, an Alvarado High School graduate who played volleyball at the University of Minnesota-Crookston and earned degrees at North Dakota State University.

It wasn't an easy decision to give up coaching, explained Olson, but with the on-going development of her job duties, the demand on her time was just too great, she said, adding that the free time will allow her to explore other opportunities, including work on advanced college degrees.

"Shari did a lot of hard work for the female athletes at Northland," pointed out Nelson. "She did a great job with the young student-athletes who played for her."

While Olson leaves coaching, Nikunen, her husband, will take a different course in leaving the women's team he has coached the past six years for the men's program. He is a Biwabik native who earned degrees at Mayville State and North Dakota State before beginning a coaching career that took him to the University of Mary in North Dakota and McCook Community College in Nebraska.

Nikunen's Northland women's basketball teams have finished 8-13, 10-14, 8-15, 9-13, 16-8 and 10-12. The Pioneers were Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament consolation champions in 1996-97 and were nationally ranked at the start of the 1997-98 season before a series of injuries and personnel losses forced them to scramble for a .500 season.

He will remain as the Northland softball coach.

"I had never coached women before I came here," explained Nikunen. "It's been a great experience, but it's time for a change. Coaching men's basketball is what I prefer to do."

Nikunen will take over a team that won just one game last winter. And after working hard since the end of the 1997-98 season to recruit players for the women's basketball program, he now has to make up ground in a hurry to fill the men's roster. He will first contact the eight-to-nine high school players he has been actively recruiting for the women's team to let them know about the coaching changes, then quickly turn his focus to finding players for the men's squad.

"Men's basketball has struggled lately," acknowledged Nikunen. "I hope to be able to turn that around in a couple of seasons. I'm looking forward to the challenge. We've got a lot of hard work ahead of us in the next three months. I did not anticipate this happening, and I have to admit I did not pay that much attention to (high school) boys basketball. We're going to need some luck. We've got to get a couple of players to fall into our laps."

"We want to thank Shari, and at the same time congratulate Rick on his new assignment," offered Gunderson. "They have both worked hard at recruiting outstanding student-athletes. We've never had to worry about image when it came to their players. They put first-class teams on the court."

Along with the coaching changes, it was also reported by Nelson and Gunderson that Northland will reintroduce men's and women's golf to the Pioneers' athletic line-up in the 1999-2000 school year.

Husband-wife coaching combination of Rick Nikunen and Sheri Olson was the center of a press conference held at Northland Community and Technical College Wednesday when it was announced that Nikunen would step down as the Pioneers' women's basketball coach to become the school's men's basketball coach, and that Olson was resigning as Northland volleyball coach. Nikunen will take the men's job left open with the resignation earlier by Ted Krize.

Pioneers sweep Fergus Falls 3-1, 8-4...

NCTC in softball playoff race

A pair of Minnesota Community College Conference softball wins over Fergus Falls Wednesday kept the Pioneers atop the Northern Division standings and in position to secure a National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 playoff spot.

Northland used the three-hit pitching of Angie Vagle and an error-free defense to win Game 1 by a 3-1 score. A five-run first inning, which featured five hits and three Fergus Falls errors, carried the Pioneers to an 8-4 victory in Game 2.

"We weren't as sharp as we have been," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen, "but we played pretty good defense."

It was the final home appearance of the year for the Pioneers, who played their first ten games (five doubleheaders) in Thief River Falls and will spend the rest of the spring on the road.

The wins put Northland at 7-3 for the year and 5-1 in the MCCC, where they are competing with Itasca for first place in the Northern Division race that will advance its top two teams to the May 8-9 regional tournament at Ridgewater Community College.

Regional qualifiers will be based upon standings after games played the first weekend in May, including Northland doubleheaders Friday at Mesabi and Saturday at Vermilion. Top two teams in the MCCC Northern and Southern Division standings will be joined at the region tournament by qualifiers from Montana and Wisconsin.

Times drop for TRF runners

Temperatures climbed and times dropped Tuesday as the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams competed at the Crookston Invitational.

Warm spring weather and solid performances produced a smile for Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "That's a nice combination," he said. "The times are starting to come down across the board. It's exciting to see kids who are not normally top place finishers for us do well."

Thief River Falls girls placed second in a field of 14 point-scoring teams, while the boys finished seventh in a field of 11.

Becky Mooney and Nicole Kopari were both double-event winners for the Thief River Falls girls, and Rachel Mathson was just a step away from a two-victory afternoon. Mooney won the 800 and 1600 meter races. Kopari took the shot put and discus. Mathson won the 200, was a close second in the 400 and ran a strong anchor leg on a third place 4x400 relay team that also included Mooney, Jennica Gallagher and Chelsea Haviland.

Kopari, as she has been doing all spring, broke another of her school records with a 41-1 effort in the shot. Her discus throw was an eye-catching 140-8.

Kelly Fossum led the Thief River Falls boys with a second place run in the 1600 meters. He also ran a leg on the 4x800 relay along with Chad Borneman, Zach Olson and Zach Bosh, that placed fourth with a school record 9:07.32.

Although they did not place in the meet, the Prowlers' Luke Erickson, Matt Kochmstedt, Brad Bulger and Brent Nelson set a school record in the 4x200 relay – a new event this spring.

Crookston girls won team honors with 151 3/4 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 82, Roseau 77 3/4, Red Lake County Central 50, East Grand Forks 34, Fosston 34, Fertile-Beltrami 29 3/4, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Tri-County 26, Fisher 23, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 21, Marshall County Central 11, Norman County East 11, Win-E-Mac 5 3/4, Stephen-Argyle 1.

Making it a sweep, the Crookston boys also collected a team title with 104 points, followed by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River/Tri-County with 89, Stephen-Argyle 77 1/2, East Grand Forks 67, Roseau 60, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 60, Thief River Falls 48, Win-E-Mac 28 1/2, Fertile-Beltrami 23, Norman County East 12, Fisher 1.

Spuds rally to edge TRF in baseball, 6-5

Moorhead came up with four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning Monday to edge Thief River Falls 6-5 in a North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball game plated at Mathson Field.

The Prowlers carried a 5-2 lead into the sixth, but a pair of dropped fly balls in the outfield opened the door for the Spuds in their game-winning rally.

It was the third straight close North Sub-Section 8AA setback for the Brent Polum-coached 1-4 Prowlers, who lost earlier 4-2 and 7-5 decisions to Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls, respectively.

"I thought it was probably our best game of the year," said Polum. "We've hung right with teams, but we haven't had a lot of experience, as of late, on how to win. We need to have people step up and take charge in those situations."

Cardinals take two games from NCTC

Hibbing swept visiting Northland 6-5, 5-3 in a Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader Wednesday.

The Pioneers overcame a 4-1 deficit with a four-run Game 1 seventh that included an Arthur Hamilton home run and a 2-run double by Ryan Bendickson. But the Cardinals used three walks, a hit-batsman and a single to score twice in the bottom of the inning.

"We played well," said Northland coach Chris Mills. "We had our chances, but we didn't get the hits when we needed them."

The Pioneers are 6-10.

Thief River Falls drops four straight...

Troubles on offense slow softball squad

Lack of offensive production has been the culprit, according to Thief River Falls head high school softball coach Ken Fletcher, in a string of four straight losses for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls opened the 1998 season with a 6-0 victory over Park Rapids Area, but since then the Prowlers have lost to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 5-4, Red Lake Falls 14-2, Lake of the Woods 7-4, and Detroit Lakes 10-1. The Lakers stopped the Prowlers on one hit in the Tuesday match-up at Detroit Lakes.

"The defense, for the most part, has been okay," noted Fletcher. "The biggest problem is that we just haven't been hitting the ball. But it's early yet."

Thief River Falls players will have plenty of opportunities to hit their way out of their collective batting slump this week with a busy schedule that includes games Tuesday at Crookston, Thursday at Roseau, and Friday at Badger/Greenbush-Middle River that will be followed by the Prowler Invitational Saturday, May 2 – a six-team event featuring a round-robin format.

Comment period closes on proposals to reform milk marketing system

Farmers, milk processors, rural business owners and others whose livelihood is tied to Minnesota's dairy industry have just a few days left to submit comments to the U.S. Department of Agriculture on proposals for reforming the outdated federal milk marketing order system.

As the April 30 deadline for submitting comments nears, Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson is spreading word that USDA's decision will have lasting implications—not only for the financial health of dairy farmers, but also for bankers, implement dealers and other Minnesota businesses with commercial ties to the state's $1.2 billion-a-year industry.

"This USDA reform decision will create either new hope or added frustration for our dairy farmers," the commissioner said. "Dairy is the traditional foundation of our state's agricultural economy, but in the last few decades we've watched that foundation erode due in part to unfair federal dairy policies that favor states like Louisiana and Texas. This reform decision will have major economic implications for our dairy farmers, and no one with ties to the Minnesota dairy industry can afford to sit idly and watch."

For 60 years the federal milk marketing order system has assigned higher Class I milk prices to farmers the farther away they are from Eau Claire, WI. The resulting price discrepancies have contributed to economic problems that force an average of three Minnesota dairy farmers out of business each day, adding up to more than 1,000 a year.

Last November in a lawsuit filed by Minnesota milk producers against USDA, a U.S. District Court judge found the current order system unlawful and ordered USDA to reform it. In January of 1998, USDA put forth two reform options. Option 1A would make only minimal changes in the current system, while Option 1B (Minnesota's preferred option) would take bolder steps to reduce regional differences.

"Our farmers have struggled for decades under a federal milk pricing system that sets a minimum price for their milk that is lower than the prices for farmers in Florida or Texas," Hugoson said. "There is no rational basis for this system. It's time for USDA to correct this injustice and do what's right for Minnesota farmers by selecting Option 1B."

Because they benefit most from the status quo, many farmers and politicians in states outside the Upper Midwest are in favor of maintaining the current pricing system. They have lobbied fiercely against changes in the order system that would help Minnesota farmers, and are outspoken in their preference for Option 1A, the commissioner added.

Hugoson presented Minnesota's views on milk order reform at a USDA public hearing last month, and MDA submitted written comments as well. But that response may not be enough on its own. Unless Minnesota and Wisconsin citizens send a strong signal to Washington, Commissioner Hugoson believes, USDA may elect to preserve the status quo by choosing Option 1A.

"Southern and eastern states have already spoken out against us on this issue, and now it's time for Minnesota farmers and other business owners to let the folks in Washington know how they feel," Commissioner Hugoson said. "This USDA decision could be one of our last chances for meaningful reform of this unfair pricing system."

Those who wish to submit comments to USDA may send letters to Richard M. McKee, Deputy Administrator, Dairy Programs, USDA/AMS, Room 2968, South Building, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, DC 20090-6456. Comments are due on April 30.

TRF chamber adopts resolution supporting farming

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently adopted a resolution requesting that all chamber members lobby for federal and state relief bills that will support and preserve farming in northwest Minnesota.

The resolution released by Chamber Chairman Kent Fritze states: "Whereas farming is a critical component of Northwest Minnesota's economy, and whereas for reasons of disease, bad weather and flooding in Northwest Minnesota farmers have had five consecutive years of poor crops; and whereas these five years of poor crops have created a financial crisis for family farmers of greater impact for Northwest Minnesota Farmers than the farm crisis of the 1982; and whereas current Federal and State programs for farmers do not provide adequate financial relief, be it resolved that all chamber members and all sister chamber of commerce's be contacted and encouraged to lobby for federal and state relief bills that will support and preserve farming in Northwest Minnesota."

The release from Fritze encourages chamber members to contact legislative representatives. It also provides a list of addresses and the bills, which support farming.

Governor signs bill providing aid to farmers

Minnesota Gov. Arne Carlson has signed a bill to provide $8.8 million to provide financial relief to wheat and barley farmers in "crisis counties" located in northwestern Minnesota. Those counties include Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Lincoln, Lyon, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Pipestone, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, and Wilkin counties.

"I'm pleased the governor recognized the seriousness of the situation and is being helpful on this issue," said Rep. Jim Tunheim, Kennedy, who was a co-author of the bill. "Five years of disease and low market prices have taken their toll on local farmers. I hope this bill, which provides help with federal crop insurance, will be the break that many farmers need to keep going."

Rep. Tim Finseth, Angus, also commented that he was pleased Governor Carlson had signed the legislation. "This will help struggling farmers in the Red River Valley pay the high cost of crop insurance."

The bill defines "farmer" as someone residing in Minnesota who operates a family farm located wholly or in part of the crisis counties already listed. "Farmer" also means a resident who is a shareholder in a family farm corporation or a partner in a family farm.

To be eligible for state assistance, farmers must:

- operate a farm located in one of the crisis counties;
- have experienced a 50 percent or greater loss according to the United States Department of Agriculture, Farm Services Agency, county yield or collected an indemnity or disaster payment on wheat or barley in one or more growing seasons between 1993 and 1997.
- submit a properly completed application for assistance to the Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture on or before August 1, 1998.

From the funds, the ag commissioner will provide reimbursement to an eligible farmer for premiums and administrative fees paid for federal crop insurance on wheat and barley grown in a crisis county during 1997 growing season. The maximum reimbursement available to any farmer, or in the case of a family farm corporation or a family farm partnership, is $4,000.

Completed applications will take priority in the order in which they are received. Farmers are encouraged to apply as soon as possible.

"I would like to thank everyone who shared their stories and experiences with lawmakers as the bill moved through the process. By working together we made a difference," said Rep. Tunheim.

Wheat planting may be lowest in past 26 years

Farmers intend to plant an estimated 1.85 million acres of spring wheat in 1998, down 600,000 acres or 24 percent from last year and the lowest acreage since 1972, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Durum wheat is estimated at 10,000 acres—up 5,000 acres from last year—while winter wheat seeded for 1998 harvest totals 60,000 acres, down 5,000 acres from 1997.

Farmers also intend to plant only 460,000 acres of barley, down 21 percent or 120,000 acres from 580,000 acres in 1997.

Soybean acreage intentions are estimated at 6.9 million acres, up one percent from last year—a record high by 100,000 acres. Corn acreage is projected at 7.3 million acres, up four percent. Oat planting intentions at 500,000 acres are up 22 percent from a year ago.

Sunflower acreage is expected to be up 10 percent to 110,000 acres.

The Statistics Service notes that the acreage farmers actually plant in the state may change from those published due to a number of factors, including availability of credit, grain prices, changing weather conditions and the influence of the Service's report.

Field activity picks up and planting begins

The week prior to April 20 marked the beginning of the 1998 field work season in most parts of the state, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Field preparation activities included tillage of last year's stubble, spreading and incorporation of manure, and application of chemicals. Greening of pasture and hayfields has begun in most areas. Serious winterkill problems have not been reported yet. Potato planting became active on sandy soils. An estimated three percent of sugarbeets were planted during the week.

Small grain seeding has barely begun in the major growing areas of the Red River Valley, as a few more drying days are needed. In southern counties, the smaller acreages of small grains were being planted quickly. An estimated 16 percent of this year's oat acreage has been planted statewide as of Sunday, compared with three percent for the same date in 1997, and six percent for the five-year average. Spring wheat and barley are both three percent planted. A year ago, planting profess was zero for both crops; the five-year average progress is three percent for spring wheat and two percent for barley.

Preparation of corn ground for planting was 10 percent completed compared with four percent for the five-year average. Scattered fields of corn have been planted; many producers are waiting for the soil to warm a little more. Major corn areas are poised to begin full-scale planting in the next week if the weather is favorable.

Planting of green peas for processing has reached 10 percent compared with two percent a year ago and three percent for the five-year average.

Topsoil moisture ratings as of Friday were one percent very short, three percent short, 70 percent adequate, and 26 percent surplus.

Strategies for a delayed planting season outlined

Planting season is always a time for last-minute adjustments and considerations. Throw in the difficulties of a cool and/or wet spring delaying planting, and adjustments become the norm rather than the exception.

Climatologists continue to predict a wet, cool spring as a result of the now famous El Nino effect. Charlie Notis, with Freese-Notis Weather Service, says that this spring has all the elements to mimic the cool, wet spring of 1983, including a still strong late season El Nino effect. As a result, he says, don't be surprised if growers experience some weather delays. Elwynn Taylor, climatologist with Iowa State University Extension says that there is a definite risk of planting delays caused by a wet spring, although he says conditions should be favorable for the remainder of the season.

If these predictions hold true, producers may need to reconsider some of their planting-time decisions as a result of delays. One decision that often receives a great deal of discussion is whether to switch soybean varieties based on relative maturity. But Chuck Hansen, seed production manager with Stine Seed Company located near Adel, IA, says that, when faced with a delayed-planting situation, switching to a variety with a shorter relative maturity will often only penalize yield further.

One factor that Hansen says growers should consider when faced with planting delays is the possibility of switching to narrower rows and/or higher plant populations.

"As the planting date for soybeans grows later, farmers should definitely look at raising planting rates and, if possible, switching to narrow rows," he says. "Yield is determined by the plant's ability to intercept sunlight, particularly during flowering. As a result, more plants closer together will canopy sooner, effectively reducing weed pressures and increasing light interception and yield potential.

In the end, of course, only time will tell whether Mother Nature will smile on America's soybean growers this spring. But Hansen says that, with these guidelines, a late spring can still be a profitable one.

Crop associations issue statement on act implementation

Five major associations representing field crops produced in the United States have issued a joint statement regarding implementation of the Food Quality Protection Act.

"We are encouraged by the directive released last week by the Clinton Administration clarifying Food Quality Protection Act implementation principles," the statement says. "This is a welcome first sign that our calls for an open, fair process based upon sound science and complete data have been heard.

"The EPA Administrator and the Secretary of Agriculture are to work together to implement the new law, and we believe this partnership is essential in carrying out the principles announced by Vice President Al Gore.

"We support the goals of the Food Quality Protection Act and will continue to measure implementation by three simple questions: (1) Are new, safer products approved in a timely manner? (2) Are use decisions on existing products based upon sound science and credible data? (3) Can emergency uses be approved in a timely manner? We believe the law can be implemented fairly while addressing these three concerns.

"One of the first steps of Vice President Gore's directive will be a process to involve stakeholders in the implementation process. The integrity of this process is dependent upon broad and balanced participation. As the nation's largest commodity organizations, we hope that each of our associations will have a seat at the table when decisions are made that will determine future crop protections practices, and ultimately the financial futures of our producers, who supply U.S. consumers with the world's safest, most abundant and affordable food supply."

The joint statement was issued by the National Association of Wheat Growers, National Corn Growers Association, National Cotton Council, American Soybean Association and the National Barley Growers Association.

Outbreaks of grasshoppers may hit area

Warm, dry spring weather could set the stage for serious grasshopper outbreaks in some areas of northwest Minnesota, according to Curt Nyegaard, extension educator in Kittson county. Early scouting is the best strategy for minimizing grasshopper damage.

"Scouting may need to begin in late April or early May, depending on how warm it gets and how fast degree days accumulate," Nyegaard said. "This early scouting should focus on known 'hot spots' from last year."

In 1996 and 1997 Nyegaard found several areas where grasshoppers were damaging young crops in early June during short dry spells. The grasshoppers were moving into fields from ditches, field windbreaks and other grassy areas.

"Protective treatments may be necessary along field borders and margins," he said. "Effective treatment should take place when most of the hoppers are in the fifth instar. If treatment occurs too early, it will have to be repeated. When it occurs too late and hoppers are larger, they are more resistant. Those with wings can cause more crop damage than nymphs that cannot fly."

Nyegaard says two-striped, migratory clear-winged, red legged and differential grasshoppers damage crops in northwest Minnesota and northeast North Dakota. For detailed information on scouting and control measures, contact Nyegaard at the Kittson county extension office (1-800-770-7029) or 218-843-3674 and ask for a publication on grasshopper management.

Three elected, one appointed to Wheat board

Bruce Hamnes of Stephen, Don Loeslie of Warren, and Douglas Ruud of Twin Valley have been elected to serve on the board of directors of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council, which administers the state's one-cent per bushel wheat checkoff for research and promotion. Each will serve a three-year term.

Hamnes was re-elected to a third term, and Loeslie to a fifth term. Both will represent wheat producers in area one, which includes the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Clearwater.

Ruud will serve his first term on the board, representing area two, which includes the counties of Norman, Mahnomen, Clay, Becker, Wilken, Otter Tail, Wadena, Morrison, Todd, Douglas, Grant and Traverse. He will fill the area two seat held by Paul Aasness, Fergus Falls, who will step down from the board in July after serving the council for nine years.

Earlier this year, Hugh Hunt of Hallock was appointed to a first term on the council board to fill the unexpired term of Kelly Bengtson of Hallock who stepped down from the board to pursue off-farm employment.

Others who serve on the council board include Art Brandli of Warroad, Ellsworth Danielson of Fosston, Francis "Butch" Buschette of Renville, Cliff Keller of Fergus Falls, and John Leseth of Moorhead.

Quilter to speak at UMC Women's luncheon May 2

"Homespun Treasures" is the theme for the UMC Women's Association spring luncheon to be held Saturday, May 2, at 11 a.m. in Brown Dining Room at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC).

Kathe Lemmerman, who has been a quilter since her early 20s, will bring about 50 quilts for display and discussion. She will talk about many aspects of quilting, including care, storage, display, patterns, materials and color. In her easy style of presentation she frequently sits on the floor with quilts spread around her as she talks about each one.

A hot chicken salad luncheon will be served and a silent auction will feature several quilted products. The UMC Women's Association sponsors a spring fund-raiser each year with proceeds going to UMC scholarships.

Tickets for the luncheon and quilting program are $10 each and may be purchased locally from Glenice Johnson at the county extension office (phone 683-7030) or 681-4472 evenings.

miles from Middle River with Anthony Burda as the primary builder. The furnishings are not manufactured, but crafted by Anthony and Nancy — two people who combine their talents to build quality furniture — two people who love what they do and enjoy working together. Nancy refers to Anthony as a very hard worker who maintains a wonderful sense of humor.

Having acquired the space and tools, Kezar Designs' line has expanded to include larger furniture items — lawn furniture as well as furnishings for the dining room and bedroom. Cedar, pine and balsam are used to craft the uniquely designed pieces. Nancy and Anthony will also build oak pieces on a made-to-order basis.

They prefer the lighter woods, and Nancy describes the furnishings they make as whimsical. "No two pieces are the same," she says. Using an air gun, Nancy paints the furniture with either an interior or exterior finish, depending on where it will be used. "Then," Nancy says, "I add my touch!" Using a variety of stencils and handpainting techniques, Nancy decorates and, if desired, personalizes the pieces. Imagine giving or receiving a garden settee that includes a "Happy Mother's Day" message and the date. Nancy derives her greatest satisfaction from creating such special pieces — furnishings destined to become heirlooms.

Lately, Nancy and Anthony have been busy building and finishing lawn furniture — filling orders received as a result of the recent Home, Sport and Family Show in Thief River Falls. The furnishings are available in several styles, and several orders wait to be picked up from the lawn of Home Sweet Home. A favorite seems to be a slatted Adirondack-style set — two chairs, settee and lemonade table — painted a soft ivory, sanded, antiqued and then stenciled with a dark green trailing English ivy motif.

The furnishings are sold at Home Sweet Home at wholesale prices, and Nancy is happy to be able to bring customers a quality product at a reasonable price. Local customers are her number one priority, and Nancy says, "Why ship it to Texas when I can stay busy selling it here for the same amount?"

Nancy is also busy getting ready for a Home Sweet Home celebration scheduled for the week of May 4. The celebration will commemorate the 15th anniversary of the business. Home Sweet Home was opened by Arlys Hendrickson in 1983. "I've owned the business for nine or ten years," Nancy says. "Time flies, you know?"

The store is currently receiving about 40 boxes of new inventory every day, and a little preview revealed exciting and fun new gift and home decorating accessories.

Home Sweet Home is also the sales location for a line of vinyl fencing, and the store itself will soon be surrounded by a new white picket fence. Carrying a life-time guarantee and requiring no maintenance, the fencing is available in four colors and forty styles.

The fence will not be the only change to the exterior of Home Sweet Home as the outside of the 116-year-old house gets a fresh coat of paint in a new color.

The anniversary celebration will include beverages and cookies baked by Betty Olson, a dedicated customer who often visits and brings treats for the help. There will also be live entertainment and drawings for outdoor furniture. Brides-to-be will have the opportunity to view the new tableware and register with the gift registry, a free service offered by the store.

Perhaps the most exciting thing going on that week is the re-opening of the newly redecorated upstairs of Home Sweet Home where Kezar Designs' line of bedroom and dining room furnishings will make its debut.

Because she would rather spend her time designing and building furniture, Nancy is extremely grateful for the capable employees she has at Home Sweet Home. Leanna Bengston of Newfolden lends her talents in the fresh and dried floral department, and Marlys Anderson of Thief River Falls efficiently runs the giftware end of the business, and Nancy says, "She keeps me abreast of what's going on." Nancy also expresses her gratitude to the community for its support of the store over the years.

Each having three children, Nancy and Anthony are trying to blend their families and incorporate the children into their furniture making endeavor. According to Nancy, Anthony's 10 and 11-year old sons, Alex and Devon, are very helpful at the shop, filling in nail holes, sanding and cleaning up at the end of the day. Alex, Devon and Nancy's son Wyatt take care of the yard at Home Sweet Home. Nancy's daughter Meghan is very helpful also running errands and delivering flowers on busy floral days. Anthony, Nancy and the six kids install the vinyl fencing they sell with Nancy giving Anthony the credit for know-how. "Growing up on a large dairy farm with ten brothers and sisters, he knows how to lay a fence!" she says. It's that family farm-type atmosphere— everyone working together toward a common goal — that Nancy and Anthony are aiming for with their children, building furniture instead of growing grain or raising animals.

Still working on the renovations to the upstairs of Home Sweet Home and the new furniture creations, Nancy is wondering if she'll get it all done by May 4. She will. She's ambitious, talented, and the driving force behind it all is the fact that she loves what she's doing.

Northland plans Phase I of major remodeling plan

be in the central area on the south side of the building. Sorum said that a new entrance to the building will be made at that point with an open commons area, surrounded by virtually all of the services needed by regular students—from registration to administration, counseling, financial aid, career center, book store, placement and others.

This area of the building is expected to occupy from 20,000 to 25,000 square feet. It would be accessed from a visitor's parking lot which is envisioned to have 20 to 30 spaces and would be served by a new entrance off Highway 1. Student and staff parking would remain primarily on the west, east and northeast parts of the campus.

Relocation of the cosmetology department and computer classrooms and labs is also planned, with the computer area to be larger than at present.

Sorum said that it is expected the plans for Phase I will be drawn and available for review by the end of the current school year. The project would be put out for bids this fall or winter with main construction to start in the spring of 1999.

In addition to the $4 million for Phase I, Northland will receive about $1.5 million for roof repair and work on existing rooftop equipment.

The Northland campus originated in 1964 when School District 564 purchased 55 acres and built a technical institute to replace the vocational school which had been located in an addition to Lincoln high school. In 1966, Northland Community College built its stand-alone building on 40 acres directly west of the technical institute and moved from temporary quarters in the Lincoln building.

In 1978 the technical institute requested a construction project for additional shop space and both higher education units requested funds for cafeterias. Community College Chancellor Phil Helland and acting Commissioner of Education Howard Casmey envisioned eventual consolidation and said building should take place in the vacant area between the two schools and they should be connected by a hallway.

In 1989 the community college was given funds to expand the library and gymnasium and add daycare, classrooms and a new entrance on the community college side of the cafeteria. All of the construction projects, however, were designed for the concept of separate colleges. Office areas were on the far west and east ends of the buildings.

When the two colleges volunteered to become consolidated in 1993 and were formally joined with the advent of MnSCU on July 1, 1995, more than a dozen major function and support areas were combined. They included receptionist, admissions, counseling, assessment, financial aid, business office, bookstore, computer operations center, women's center, learning resource center, custom training, human resources and administration.

The two former colleges had six separate entrances, all of which could be considered front entrances. The merged support areas were still physically scattered throughout the two buildings.

In 1994 a $100,000 allocation was made by the legislature to develop a pre-design for the new entrance and consolidated support services area. As noted above, the plan developed at that time was revised to the Phase I project.

"We believe the construction of this new area will truly be the 'glue' that cements us together as one college," President Gunderson told the state legislature in a locally produced video presentation, "and externally makes it possible to present ourselves and be viewed as one consolidated community and technical college."

Becker county considers sending inmates to school

Detroit Lakes - Fifty people would be sitting in the Becker county jail if, that is, the jail weren't already full.

That's why Sheriff Tom Hunt asked the county board to explore the feasability of purchasing the old Washington Elementary School to be used as a minimum security dormitory-style jail.

The school was closed at the end of the school year last spring because of problems with bringing the older section, built in 1909, up to code. The jail, however, would be housed in the newer addition, built in 1961.

Hunt estimates that between 100 and 120 minor offenders could be housed in the building with minimum staffing requirements. Becker County Record

Routine check results in arrest of fugitive in Fosston

Fosston - Noticing a hitchhiker on the west side of Fosston, a Polk county deputy did what deputies usually do. He routinely stopped the man for identification.

Running a check on the man's South Carolina identification card, a warrant from South Dakota along with a lengthy records of arrest in other states were discovered.

After handcuffing 42-year-old Danny Allan Thornton, the deputy discovered a knife slipped into his belt in the back. Thornton was taken into custody and confined to the Regional Corrections Center in Crookston. The Thirteen Towns

MCC students volunteer for Community Service

Newfolden - Sprucing up the Newfolden park by scraping and painting picnic tables and raking leaves was one of the projects volunteered for by Marshall County Central students last week during Community Service Week.

Other students volunteered their time to connect the computers at the Newfolden Elementary School to the Internet. New River Record

Sheriff's report shows rampant crime in county

Mahnomen - While presenting his annual report to county Board commissioners recently, the Mahnomen county sheriff revealed some startling information.

With 876 more calls for service in 1997 than 1996, from 2,940 to 3,816, crime continues to heighten to out of control proportions. Jail bookings increased 57-percent, from 533 in 1996 to 835 in 1997.

Between 1992 and 1997, Class I crimes — serious crimes like burglary, homicide, rape, assault, theft over $500 and arson — have increased 157-percent. In 1997, 1,205 Class I crimes were reported.

During his presentation, the sheriff commented that 50-percent of the violent crime is occuring in an area were only nine percent of the population in Mahnomen county lives. The Mahnomen Pioneer

State releases results of basic standards tests

Statewide results of the Grade 8 Basic Standards Test were released Thursday. This is the third year that Minnesota's graduation skills test have been administered, and the first year that they have been required for all Minnesota public school districts.

According to test results, a total of 68 percent of grade 8 students taking the reading test were at or above the 75 percent required to pass the test. A total of 71 percent of the grade 8 students taking the math test were at or above the 75 percent required to pass that test.

This year, state law requiring statewide testing went into effect. The law requires that all students in grades three, five and eight be tested annually with the same test. At grade 8, the Basic Standards Tests are in reading and mathematics.

The law requiring the tests has been in headlines and at the top of news reports across the state for three years now. The controversy isn't over, but the first statewide test was held this year. The Basic Standards tests are minimum competency tests in reading and mathematics designed to determine if students have a minimum level of literacy required to graduate from high school in Minnesota. All students who were capable of testing were required by law to test.

The tests are untimed, but it takes most students between 60 and 90 minutes on each subject to complete. The tests are multiple choice tests. The reading test contains mostly literal comprehension questions about newspaper articles, and the math test contains questions most students have worked with by sixth grade. If students don't score at or above the 75 percent required to pass the test, they must re-test annually until they pass.

The following is a list of results from schools in this region: (Percentages listed are those students at or above 75 percent required by law)

- Bagley — 65 percent reading, 60 percent mathematics;
- Crookston — 72 percent reading, 77 percent mathematics;
- East Grand Forks — 64 percent reading, 56 percent mathematics;
- Fosston — 65 percent reading, 60 percent mathematics;
- Goodridge — 61 percent reading, 78 percent mathematics;
- Greenbush - Middle River — 72 percent reading, 65 percent mathematics;
- Grygla — 71 percent reading, 82 percent mathematics;
- Kittson Central — 78 percent reading, 81 percent mathematics;
- Lancaster — 47 percent reading, 67 percent mathematics;
- Marshall County Central — 64 percent reading, 67 percent mathematics;
- Oklee — 84 percent reading, 88 percent mathematics;
- Plummer — 44 percent reading, 63 percent mathematics;
- Red Lake Falls — 62 percent reading, 74 percent mathematics;
- Roseau — 82 percent reading, 90 percent mathematics;
- Stephen-Argyle Central — 80 percent reading, 64 percent mathematics;
- Thief River Falls — 72 percent reading, 77 percent mathematics;
- Tri-County — 48 percent reading, 67 percent mathematics;
- Warren-Alvarado-Oslo — 71 percent reading, 75 percent mathematics;
- Warroad — 72 percent reading, 79 percent mathematics.

Tricia Willett

Tracy Konickson

Willett is Plummer Legion Aux. Girls State delegate

Tricia Willett, daughter of Tom and Rebecca Willett of Plummer, has been selected by the American Legion Auxiliary at Plummer as its 1998 Girls' State delegate.

Alternate selected is Tracy Konickson, daughter of John and Leona Konickson of rural Plummer. Both girls are juniors at Pershing high school in Plummer and plan to attend college after their high school graduation in 1999.

"Girls' State is an educational program in how our system of government functions," notes Fern Hesse, who chairs the project for the auxiliary. "It is a great opportunity for girls from all over the state to live together for one week as self-governing citizens and learn about their duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities as American citizens."

Tricia has been active in school and communities activities, including nine years of 4-H club membership and a group member and Sunday school teacher at Immanuel Lutheran church in Plummer.

She is on the Red Lake County Central basketball and track teams, co-editor of the annual staff, co-coordinator of Project Strive and a member of the National Honor Society, student council, Students Against Drunk Driving and the letterman's club.

Tracy Konickson was the recipient of the Hugh O'Brian youth award last year and winner of the NCEOA Washington, DC, leadership scholarship. She is a member of the National Honor Society, community education board, chorus, honors choir, letterman's club, Future Leaders of America and SADD.

Tracy is a member of the yearbook staff, a Project Strive co-coordinator, volleyball player and boys basketball cheerleader. She is also a member of her church youth group.

Improvement noted in S.D. 564 grad tests

Thursday was the first day results from the State Graduation Standards exams became available to educators. Thief River Falls, School District 564 Educational Services Director and Grad Standards Coordinator, Glenn Chiodo, saw improvement in scores.

Chiodo cautioned that only partial results were available. Results made available Thursday included only scores of Eighth graders taking math and reading tests. It did not include results from re-takes for students in grades nine through 12. In addition, the state, he explained only requires students to pass at 75 percent, but School District 564 requires that students pass at 80 percent. Chiodo said more specific information that would tell him who passed at the 80 percent level was not available yet.

From left are Krista Bot, Katy Lundbohm, Merrilee Dunham, Mary Solom and Nicole Broten with advisor Jeff Olsen. The team of senior girls, all of whom are in the top 12 of their class academically, has declined to participate in the state event on May 20 due to the rush of pre-graduation activities.

Roseau wins Envirothon but turns down state trip

A team of senior girls from Roseau high school earned first place at the Area I Envirothon Wednesday, April 29, at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, but has opted not to compete at the state Envirothon May 20.

"I left it up to the girls who are just a great group of kids," said Roseau team advisor Jeff Olsen, a science teacher at Roseau high school. Team members are Krista Bot, Katy Lundbohm, Merrilee Dunham, Mary Solom and Nicole Broten.

"The five girls on the Envirothon team are all in the top 12 academically in the senior class and involved in a lot of school year-end activity," Olsen said. "Two are in the top three and will be speakers at commencement. We have our baccalaureate program on the Wednesday of the state Envirothon and the girls don't want to miss that part of their high school experience."

Olsen also said that he coaches the softball team, one of the girls from the Envirothon team is also on the softball team, and they have games on Tuesday and Thursday, May 19 and 21.

"We could have worked around the softball if the girls had really wanted to go to the state," Olsen added. "The state Envirothon is somewhere down around Rochester and that's a long way for us to travel. A one-day event really becomes a three-day event for us."

Olsen said he was extremely proud of his team. He said he assigned specific competition areas to each of the team members and they did much of the research and study on their own.

"They are exceptional students and they work really well together," he said. "It would have been fun to see how we could do against other areas of the state, but the girls probably made the right decision. We wish Grygla and Thief River Falls teams well at the state contest."

The Grygla team of Alex Holte, Nick Smeby, Keith Nelson, Melissa Verbout and Abby Schuler, coached by Tim Mostrom, won second place and automatic advancement to the state Envirothon in a tie-breaker.

The team of Nate Keller, Jeremy Seibel, Yvonne Asp, DeDe Dally and Josh Hendrickson, coached by Patti Johnson, from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls tied with the Grygla team at 78 points each after the regular six stations.

In the tie-breaker, each team was asked the same question. Both teams correctly answered the first question, missed the next two and correctly answered the fourth before Grygla prevailed with a correct answer on the fifth question.

Thirty teams competed in the Envirothon at Agassiz Wednesday. Grygla and Thief River Falls will enter the state Envirothon on Wednesday, May 20, at Whitewater State Park.

Female landscaper never outgrew playing in dirt

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Karen Biever doesn't think there's anything non-tranditional about being a female landscaper even though she admits that sometimes others find it curious. To Karen, she's simply doing what she enjoys.

"I've always loved to be outdoors," she said. "As a kid, I was never in the house unless it was raining." Karen grew up beside a lake in Alexandria.

For the past 22 years, she and husband Neil have lived in a variety of locations. For nine years, the Bievers have made their home near Thief River Falls where Neil is employed by Evans Steel. The couple has a daughter, Alicia, who will be 12 next month.

Karen began her landscaping career in 1992. She studied and completed the technical courses for two majors, greenhouse and landscape management, at the University of Minnesota - Crookston. She took those studies very seriously and was determined to get her money's worth. Karen commented that she drove her instructors crazy with ceaseless questions. She was anxious to learn everything she could, and earned the respect of the teachers as she did well in their courses.

The name of Karen's business is Karlof Garden & Landscaping. Karlof is the first three letters of her first name, the first two letters of her middle name and the first letter of her maiden name.

She started out on a small scale, pruning bushes for those unable to do it themselves, tilling gardens and other miscellaneous maintenance-type jobs.

Karen got more serious about her landscaping endeavor four years ago, and she estimates that her business has tripled every year since with many of her new clients the result of word-of-mouth.

While people are becoming busier, balancing careers with family and leisure time, the appearance of their yards remains important, and Karen seems to be cashing in the the current trend toward service oriented businesses.

Karlof Garden & Landscaping provides a wide variety of services including maintenance and consulting. Karen will plan, plant and prune. She'll diagnose a sickly plant and treat it, and she will till and plant a vegetable garden if that's what the customer wants.

Karen does not mow grass or spray grass for weeds, and while she will lay sod to patch a small area, she leaves the big sodding jobs to those with big equipment. Last year another landscaper who does those larger types of jobs subcontracted some work to Karlof Garden and Landscaping.

Paul Dehnert, a senior and Bridgette Stock, a junior at Lincoln high school, both placed seventh in their respective categories of discussion and storytelling at the Minnesota Class AA state speech contest recently in Shakopee. Also competing at the state meet from Thief River Falls were sophomores Meghan Raad and Yvonne Asp. These four students will be giving their interpretations as part of an "Afternoon with the Arts" Sunday, May 3, at 1:45 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Smokey Bear a big hit in Indus

Indus - While there were plenty of demonstrations and displays, it was Smokey Bear who made a big impression on the younger set at Indus School's Earth Day program on April 22.

Mother Nature was very accommodating as students learned about Mother Earth, and many of the activities to take place outside on a perfect spring day.

The program included demonstrations and information from NorthStar Electric Cooperative, Boise Cascade, Voyageurs National Park, the Indus School classes and others. The Boudette Region

MEMORIAL

The family of "Bubs" Rayton Dargon III would like to thank all the family, friends and neighbors for the flowers, plants, food, memorials, prayers and cards.

Thanks go out to the class of "85" and all the Dargon cousins for their floral tributes.

Special thanks to the Green Funeral Home for their excellent services, kindness and understanding; to Deacon Elsbrener, Father Bob LaPlante, the folks at St. Bernard's who made and served lunch and to Pastor Terri Skildum, whose personal touch is always heartfelt.

Thanks to Dave Klein for all his help and kindness, Jill Klein for the lovely poem, and Larry Kruse for his help, support and generosity.

We would like to express our regrets to anyone who didn't receive a thank you note from us because we were unable to find an address or by oversight. Please know that we appreciate your kindness.

The family would like to express our appreciation to all the people who shared their thoughts and memories of Bubs at the prayer service. It meant a lot to us. It especially left a lasting impression on Bub's son, Dylon. We would like to encourage anyone who might like to share their memories of Bubs with Dylon to write or record them for him. Dylon is just about 9 years old and we're sure they would be of comfort to him in the years to come when he thinks of his Dad.

In his short life Bubs touched the hearts of many people. He just had that way about him. His life was rich with friends who loved and cared deeply for him and him for them. Bubs has "come home" and is in a better place than us now. We will meet again someday where these tears of sorrow will be tears of joy.

County Humane Society begins registration drive

Pennington County Humane Society will conduct a pet registration drive on Tuesday, May 5. The registration drive, which is being conducted in collaboration with the City of Thief River Falls, is part of Pet Awareness Week.

Students from Lincoln High School, including members of the Key Club and National Honor Society, have volunteered to help conduct the drive. They will go door-to-door throughout the city between 4 and 8 p.m. in an effort to register as many pets as possible.

According to Vicki Heckman, president of the Humane Society in Pennington County, registration offers pet owners an important benefit. "If your pet is lost or involved in an accident, law enforcement will know who to contact," said Heckman.

The fee for registering pets within the City is $5 for a dog or cat which has been neutered or spayed and $10 for those which have not been neutered or spayed.

For more information contact Gail Holland at 681-1465.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

In anticipation of hot summer days, here are some good hot weather salads you might like to have on hand. Notice that many of them use the same ingredients, so you could make all of the salads for a patio party or big get-together, too. What fun!

This recipe is made as bars, but I would like to make it in a pizza pan as a raw veggie pizza - bet it would be great - and it would also be great served with your favorite barbecued meats or burgers:

SALAD BARS
- 2 tubes crescent rolls
- 1 package Hidden Valley Dip mix
- 2 (8 ounces each) packages cream cheese
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- Raw vegetables and cheese as desired

Roll out both tubes of crescent rolls onto cookie sheet. Bake according to directions. Cool.

Mix dip mix, cream cheese and mayonnaise. Spread on cooled crust.

Top with favorite vegetables, using at least 1 cup of each (celery, broccoli, carrots, onions, tomatoes, cheese, ripe olives, etc.)

TEX-MEX SALAD
- 1 pound hamburger
- 1 envelope taco seasoning mix
- 1 to 1 1/2 heads lettuce, chopped or torn into bite-sized pieces
- Green onions
- 2 tomatoes
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 can kidney beans (chilled)
- Catalina dressing
- Corn chips

Brown hamburger and drain well. Add taco seasoning mix.

Mix together the lettuce, onions, tomatoes, cheese and kidney beans. Just before serving toss with dressing and top with corn chips.

I have some little frozen shrimp I'd love to use in this salad - I would also add some green or ripe olives:

SHRIMP MACARONI SALAD
- 7 ounce package quick cooking macaroni
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped pimento
- 1 can shrimp
- 1/2 cup peas
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup French dressing
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cook macaroni until tender. Drain and chill.

Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Keep refrigerated.

Make this the day ahead for a really delicious luncheon:

CHICKEN SALAD
- 1/3 cup mayonnaise
- 1/3 cup sweet relish
- 2 tablespoons minced pimento
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 3 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 can water chestnuts, drained and finely sliced
- 1 cup finely chopped celery
- 2 hard cooked eggs, sliced or diced

Combine mayonnaise, relish, pimento, onion, lemon juice, salt, pepper and garlic powder in large bowl.

Add chicken, water chestnuts, celery and eggs and toss lightly to blend. Cover and refrigerate overnight or several hours.

Before serving, toss again. Serve on lettuce or in tomato halves, if desired.

Doesn't this sound like a yummy dish for a hot summer day - don't count this as a low-calorie salad, though:

GREEK LAYERED SALAD
- 1 head lettuce, torn in bits
- 1 head cauliflower, sliced
- 1 large onion, sliced thin
- 1 pound bacon, fried crisp and crumbled
- 1 can ripe olives, sliced
- 1 pint mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese

Layer lettuce, cauliflower, onion, bacon and olives in order.

Make dressing of mayonnaise, sugar and Parmesan and spread over salad. Chill. Mix before serving.

Recital of original compositions held at LHS on May 3

Lincoln High School Music Theory students will present a recital of original compositions on Sunday, May 3 at 7 p.m. in the high school band room. This recital is free and open to the public. Please enter the high school at the gym doors.

The recital is the culmination of a year that has seen tremendous growth in the composition program at Lincoln High school. The students have spent a total of eight weeks working with professional composers and artists through a grant from the Surdna Foundation of New York. This grant, which is being administered by the MacPhail Center for the Arts in Minneapolis, has been the catalyst for the personal improvement of individual students and an overall improvement of the music theory curriculum at Lincoln. The grant was for $40,000 this year and will provide the same level of funding and support in the 1998-99 school year. The theory classes are taught by Darcy Reese and Bruce Felt as part of the Northern Expression School of the Arts Magnet Program.

Some of the compositions will be performed with the aid of music technology (computers and synthesizers) and some will be performed by musicians.

"The Seven Percent Solution That Isn't"

The above title headed an article in The Lamp, a quarterly publication of Exxon Corporation. The article discusses impacts of the Kyoto Protocol, a general agreement put together by representatives of some 160 nations in Japan a few months ago. Under the treaty, the United States agreed that by no later than 2012 it will cut greenhouse gas emissions by seven percent below 1990 levels.

Seven percent seems like such a small number that many people probably expect that it can be achieved. We doubt that the American people are truly willing to pay the price if indeed the goal is attainable.

The U.S. Department of Energy projects that by 2010—two years short of the stated goal—carbon dioxide emissions in the United States will be more that 40 percent higher than the Kyoto target. This growth, a direct result of our nation's strong economy, is expected to occur despite the advent of new technologies that will help curb emissions.

"To meet the protocol's emissions-reduction target, the United States must reduce energy use dramatically over the next decade," states Bill O'Keefe, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute. "The impact on our economy and lifestyles would be tremendous."

O'Keefe points out that the U.S. economy has a deeply imbedded "capital stock" in the form of utilities, plants, commercial structures, houses and automobiles. "There is no feasible economic way, in a little more than a decade, to replace that stock fast enough with new, more energy-efficient technology that would allow economic growth without an increase in energy use.

"In addition, during the same period of time, we'll be shutting down nuclear facilities but not reducing electricity use. Nuclear generating capacities will be replaced with coal or gas-fired electric plants, which means carbon dioxide emissions will be higher," O'Keefe adds.

Some impacts on the American family?

• Gasoline prices would have to increase by at least 50 cents a gallon to reduce use significantly. Many people live 30 or 40 miles from where they work. Significant fuel cuts would adversely impact the way people live and the mobility they cherish.

• According to independent studies, fuel-use reductions similar to those called for in the Kyoto agreement would cost the average American family of four about $2,000 a year.

Most importantly, no one knows for sure if the goals established at the conference would actually do any good in helping to slow global warming. As O'Keefe points out, climate is a very complex system that is not well understood and the average person hopes we can trust what the government tells us. The scientific community still has a long way to go in understanding the critical role oceans, clouds, water vapor and solar activity play in determining changes in climate.

It is an accepted fact that the earth has warmed about one degree in the past century. However, most of the increase occurred before World War II and most of the growth in carbon dioxide emissions has take place since then. On a worldwide basis, carbon dioxide emissions will continue to rise as the world's population and economies grow.

For that matter, emissions-reduction commitments at the Kyoto conference were not made by developing nations—the largest sources of future emissions growth.

Fortunately, despite the federal administration's support of the treaty, the U.S. Senate has gone on record 95-0 as opposing any treaty that seriously damages the U.S. economy and excludes developing nations. This means treaty ratification is highly unlikely, even if signed by the President.

"This is not a question of acting or not acting," O'Keefe says. Individuals can and should take a number of voluntary actions now to use energy more efficiently. "It's a question of smart policies and dumb policies."

O'Keefe's assessment of the Kyoto protocol: "This is a horrible deal for the United States and many other countries, and a horrible way to address a serious global issue."

Spend An Afternoon With The Arts

School District 564 has a number of exceptionally talented students, and some of them at Lincoln high school will put their abilities on public display Sunday afternoon, May 3, from 1 to 5 p.m. during an Afternoon with the Arts.

Vocal and instrumental departments have their concerts throughout the year during which they showcase the talents of the students as groups and as individuals. Sunday's showcase will lean more toward speech, drama, media, literary arts and visual arts.

Instructors involved in the program are Connie Stock in speech and theater, Alice Hofstad in media arts, Loiell Dyrud in literary arts and Marilyn Adams in visual arts. Also having students involved in the program will be German language instructor Paivi Young and orchestra instructor Derek Druse.

There will be displays and demonstrations of visual, literary and media art; speeches from regional and state competition; readings of written works; German poetry, song and dance; musical group performances; an orchestra performance at 2:30 in the auditorium, featuring an original composition by student Josh Hendrickson; and the play The Jungle Book at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

Lincoln arts students and their instructors would love to have a good public turnout to see and hear what they have done and can do. Admission is free and visitors can spend as much or as little time as they like during the four-hour open house-type activity. And really, don't you need a break from yard work anyway?

LETTERS

To The Editor:

When Rep. Tim Finseth voted for the Omnibus Tax Bill in the last week of the Minnesota Legislature, he voted for continued economic growth and prosperity for all Minnesotans.

The tax bill takes a big step toward reforming Minnesota's property tax system. Minnesota businesses will no longer carry the highest property tax burden in the nation, although they are likely to remain in the top three. Renters, long overburdened by unfair property taxes, will receive substantial relief and homeowners will be protected from property tax shifts.

While property tax relief is important, particularly to Minnesota businesses, the bill does more—it begins reforming the system. By restructuring the class rates, property taxes will grow more slowly in the future for all Minnesota taxpayers, including homeowners.

Representative Finseth kept the promise of reform made by the Legislature last year. We appreciate his leadership and commitment.

Sincerely,
Robert Bergan, President

To The Editor:

I am a 30-year-old amateur World War II historian looking for history of a World War II U.S. Army Air Force airman, reputed to have come from Thief River Falls, who was killed in March of 1944 near my home town in England.

The airman concerned was Lt. Gaylord Strong, and I am trying to locate any family or surviving relatives or friends. Lt. Strong was a C47 co-pilot with the 437th Troop Carrier Group, U.S. 9th AAF based in Ramsbury, Wiltshire county, England.

In 1990 I located th crash site of Lt. Strong's aircraft and had a memorial erected to his memory and that of his pilot, Major Donald Bradley. Unconfirmed reports indicate that Strong's wife was named Ina and that he may have a son born while he was absent in the UK—a son he never got to meet.

Any help that can be given would be much appreciated. Contact me at neilstevens@lineone.net on the internet or write to 21 Crewe Road, Nantwich, Cheshire, CW5 6HX, England.

Sincerely,
Neil W. G. Stevens

Construction on Hwy. 2 to begin next week

Construction on Highway 2 near Erskine is expected to get underway on or about May 4.

According to Todd Broadwell, MnDOT's resident engineer in the Thief River Falls office, "the work will consist of concrete pavement rehabilitation and bituminous shoulder repair on the westbound lanes of Highway 2, starting at the junction of Highway 2 and Highway 59 near Erskine and extending 15 miles west to the Junction of Highway 2 and 32 near Marcoux."

Broadwell added, "we are asking motorists to be extremely cautious and patient as the project will require traffic to be restricted to one lane and motorists can expect some short delays." The project is expected to be completed in approximately 45 working days, depending on the weather.

MnDOT would also like to remind motorists that under state law, a double fine will be issued to anyone caught speeding through a work zone. Please, Drive Smart, Drive Safe.

Burning restriction in effect for NW Minn.

Continued dry weather conditions and increasing fire severity has prompted the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) division of forestry, to announce a burning restriction for the entire northwestern region of Minnesota.

Effective April 27, all existing burning permits were cancelled, and no new burning permits will be issued for open burning of yard debris, brush piles, leaves or grass. Special permits will be issued only for necessary management work, such as agricultural burning and construction burning, where sufficient means to control the fire can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of forest officers. Prescribed burning by qualified agencies is the only other exception to this burning restriction.

All of northern Minnesota is now under burning restrictions; similar controls have been in effect for almost two weeks in the northeastern part of the state. There is no restriction on charcoal grills or campfires, although extreme caution is advised. Significant rainfall is needed to reduce the fire hazard.

Nearly 40 percent of all spring wildfires are the result of burning yard debris and grass. This past weekend, DNR Forestry firefighters worked on 32 new fires which burned more than 10,000 acres in northwestern Minnesota.

Restrictions will remain in effect until May 20.

Agassiz refuge invites public for observance of Migratory Bird Day

International Migratory Bird Day has been set on Saturday, May 9, but Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will observe the event a week later with an open house and tours on Saturday, May 16. The office at refuge headquarters will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., rain or shine. Refreshments to be served throughout the day are provided by the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary at Warren and McDonald's restaurant. Several videos on birding will be shown and cassette tapes with bird calls and songs will be played throughout the day. West Gate and Thief River roads will be open for public travel to the bald eagle nest station, weather permitting.

Refuge operations specialist Gary Tischer and Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon member Jeanie Joppru will conduct birding tours from 9 to 11 a.m. Tours will start with observation of warblers and song birds in the headquarters area, then continue on one of the refuge roads to observe waterfowl and other wetland bird species.

Wildlife biologist Gary Huschle will be stationed at an active bald eagle nest on the west side of the refuge and Agassiz refuge manager Margaret Anderson and volunteer Shelley Steva will be stationed at Farmes Pool to identify shorebirds, all from 1 to 4 p.m.

Farmes Pool is being completely drawn down for dike repair work and habitat management, so shorebirds should be actively feeding on the exposed mud flats. Tischer notes that all outdoor birding activities will take place only if weather and road conditions permit.

Theme of International Migratory Bird Day this year is "Catch the Migration Sensation." Tischer said that ornithologists and bird watchers have observed a decline in populations of many migratory bird species due to degradation of their habitat. Habitat loss is occurring in North and South America and world wide due to man-made causes.

"Partners in Flight," a joint government interagency and private organization, was initiated seven years ago to call public attention to the plight of these birds and educate people about the needs of birds. The organization serves as a coordinator and facilitator for migratory bird conservation.

Tuesday high school baseball...

Fee sparks Pirates past Prowlers 17-7

Andy Fee led a Crookston offensive assault against Thief River Falls Tuesday with a 5-for-5, 7-RBI performance that carried the Pirates to a 17-7 six-inning high school baseball win over the visiting Prowlers.

Fee had a double and two triples among his five hits.

Andy Harbott of the Prowlers homered, but Thief River Falls was out-hit 16-6 and picked up five of the game's seven errors.

It was the sixth straight loss for the 1-7 Prowlers.

Crookston softball club stops TRF 5-1

Level of play improved, but Thief River Falls still wound up on the losing end of a 5-1 high school softball score at Crookston Tuesday.

The Pirates won it with a tie-breaking four-run fifth. It was the sixth straight loss since a season-opening win for the Prowlers, but head coach Ken Fletcher said this one was a lot easier to take than 10-1 and 13-10 setbacks at the hands of Detroit Lakes and Marshall County Central/Tri-County in the team's two previous starts.

"It was a much better game than we've played in the last two weeks," noted Fletcher. "We played well. I was really happy with their performance."

The Prowlers' lone run came on a third inning inside-the-park home run by Beth Olson, who drove a long fly ball over the heads of the Crookston outfielders and circled the bases before they could retrieve the ball that rolled all the way to the fence.

Crookston pitcher Nicole Lauf, an eighth grader who played regularly a year ago, struck out 15 and walked just two batters.

Itasca runner Simon Weltman crossed the plate as Northland catcher Paul Gonsorowski stepped out of the way during Wednesday's Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader in Thief River Falls. Weltman scored from second base on a two-run single by teammate Dave Anderson in the third inning of the twinbill opener. The Vikings swept the Pioneers 15-4, 16-2.

Pioneers lose pair

■ Itasca sweeps NCTC 15-4, 16-2

Itasca put the bat on the ball Wednesday and the result was a pair of one-sided Minnesota Community College Conference baseball wins over Northland in Thief River Falls. The Vikings won 15-4 and 16-2 to push their record to 17-2. The Pioneers' bid to reach .500 was denied, leaving them at 8-12 for the year.

The Vikings' aggressive at-bats kept the ball in play most of the day. They banged out 30 hits in the two games and Pioneers' eight twinbill errors provided the visitors with additional offensive opportunities.

Itasca set the tone for the afternoon in their initial at-bat in Game 1 when the first five batters produced a double, home run, error, walk and another double. Four of them scored. In fact, the Vikings pushed four runs across the plate in each of the first three innings en route to a 12-1 cushion.

A run-scoring error and a home run by Chane Keefe put Northland on the board in the first inning of Game 2, but that was the extent of the Pioneers' scoring in a game that was broken completely open by a five-run Itasca seventh.

It was the second sweep of the year over the Pioneers by the Vikings, who won 13-2 and 20-13 games at Grand Rapids back on April 11.

Northland fell to 4-6 in the Northern Division. The Pioneers host Mesabi Range Tuesday in a 2 p.m. doubleheader in another one-outing week.

Warroad 18-8 winner over MCC/-T-C team

Warroad combined nine hits with eight Marshall County Central/Tri-County errors Tuesday to win an 18-8 high school softball game.

"Eight errors – that's pretty tough to overcome," acknowledged Marshall County Central/Tri-County coach Jerald Hagen.

NCTC posts two softball wins

A first-game pitcher's duel and a second-game offensive shootout both went in Northland's favor Tuesday as the Pioneers swept Ridgewater 1-0 and 10-9 in a match-up of Minnesota Community College Conference softball teams at Willmar.

Angie Vagle pitched a five-hit shutout in Game 1. The only run was scored in the top of the sixth when Terra Lorenson reached base on a two-out error. Vagle singled and Rayna Benson drove a base hit to center field.

Northland had a 5-1 lead in Game 2 before Ridgewater scored eight times in the fifth inning. The Pioneers, after pulling within 9-8 in the sixth, scored twice in the bottom of the seventh for the win on a lead-off single by Benson and a game-tying triple by Nikki Burns, who ended the contest by beating the throw to the plate on an infield ground ball.

The two wins in the nonconference meeting between the Northern and Southern Division teams improved the Pioneers' record to 13-4.

■ Nick Chiodo and Courtney Skjerven of Thief River Falls and Scott Lorenson of Plummer are members of the 1998 Bemidji State University baseball team. Lorenson played baseball at Northland Community and Technical College before transferring to Bemidji.

Thief River Falls ninth grade team falls twice

Thief River Falls freshman high school baseball team lost to Bemidji 15-4 Friday (April 24) and fell to Roseau 8-1 Thursday.

The Prowlers were out-hit by Bemidji 10-5 and out-hit by Roseau 11-6. They also had five errors against the Rams.

Nathan Koland took the pitching loss against Bemidji. Justin Skjerven was tagged with the loss against Roseau.

Area DNR boat ramps expected to be ready for '98 fishing opener

Boat ramps at most public water-access sites in northwest and north-central Minnesota should be open and in useable condition in time for the Minnesota fishing opener May 9, according to Dick Kimball, Area Trails and Waterways Supervisor for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources at Bemidji.

"Some boat ramps have been damaged over winter by expanding lake ice," explained Kimball. "We'll be checking every access, and making repairs as needed, between now and the fishing opener. We may not have all the spring maintenance and clean-up chores finished on every access by May 9, but all ramps should be useable."

Many lakes in western Becker and eastern Clay counties have been experiencing high water levels, which makes boat ramps difficult to use. "Big Cormorant Lake in Becker County and Sand Lake in Clay County have especially high water," said Kimball, "and the Red River access near Hallock still has mud problems as the river rises and falls."

Prowlers shut out Mahnomen 7-0 for first tennis victory

First home meet produced the first win of the 1998 season for the Thief River Falls boys, who shut out Mahnomen 7-0 Tuesday in high school tennis.

The Prowlers had lost their first nine dual meet decisions – all on the road.

All seven wins over Mahnomen were straight-set victories for the Sylvia Sjoberg-coached Prowlers.

The team won a tie-breaker with one of the six teams from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls to gain advancement to the state Envirothon May 20 at Whitewater State Park near Rochester. From left are team members Alex Holte, Nick Smaby, Keith Nelson, Melissa Verbout, Abby Schuler and advisor Tim Mostrom.

Third place team Wednesday, April 29, at the Area I Envirothon conducted at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge was this group from Lincoln high school. An alternate at third place, the team will compete at the state Envirothon since the first place Roseau team has opted not to participate.

Congressman Peterson

Congressman plans to seek his reelection

Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes has announced that he will seek reelection from Minnesota's Seventh District in the November election. The DFL party member has held the seat since 1990.

Peterson is a member of the Agriculture and Veterans Affairs committees and co-chair for policy for the Blue Dog Coalition—a group of moderate Democrats who champion balancing the budget while protecting priorities like Social Security, education and health care.

Peterson said it is the coalition which will force a vote on campaign finance reform this session. "As a Blue Dog, I work with Democrats and Republicans who are interested in putting aside political differences and working together to pur common sense into our political process."

Rep. Peterson also cited his efforts on behalf of northwest Minnesota farmers through a supplemental appropriations bill and securing 90 percent reimbursement instead of 75 percent federal government reimbursement for public sector repairs after the 1997 flood.

Female landscaper

Karen's first contact with a customer involves finding out what the person wants. If it's some type of garden that he or she desires, Karen conducts an interview, getting to know the person and making sure that the project reflects that individual's personal taste. "Otherwise," Karen says, "every yard I do would look the same." She then measures and draws a design and seeks out plants, finding the best plants at the best prices with respect to the monetary guidelines set by the client. Finally, she does the planting and corresponding labor to create the garden.

Karen answers a lot of questions about various plant diseases and harmful insects. In treating those problems, she prefers environmentally friendly remedies and products to chemical treatments. Diluted Ivory soap, for example, can be sprayed on plants to rid them of aphids. "Aphids breathe through their backs. The diluted soap suffocates them, and the plant can be rinsed off," Karen says.

She does her pruning with a traditional shears rather than an electrical device citing that unless the plant is very young, an electric clipper will wound the plant, leaving jagged edges.

According to Karen, the hardest part of her job is convincing a customer that a particular plant they desire won't survive the growing conditions in northern Minnesota. "They will see a plant in a gardening magazine and have their heart set on it," Karen says. "Because the plant grows in 'Zone 5' they're convinced that it will grow here. What they don't realize is that Zone 5 encompasses the entire United States!"

Prior to the landscaping business, Karen enjoyed a clerical job at an elevator for ten years, and she likes the bookkeeping end of her business. However, she doesn't particulary like the financial part of the occupation. She works by the hour and is conscientious about offering her clients value for their money. While her hourly rate has slowly increased over the years, she has become more proficient, working faster and spending less time on each individual job.

Landscaping is hard physical labor, and at the beginning of the season, Karen finds herself stiff and sore at the end of the day. Any exposed skin bears the battle scars, scratches and scrapes, from working outside in the elements. She uses sports tape on her hands instead of wearing gloves and protects her skin from the sun with a visor and sunscreen.

A bit shy and claiming to "look tough" after a day of work, she drew the line at posing for a photograph. Actually, she looked fine. A petite woman, muscular from physical part of her work, Karen's eyes are as bright and blue as the summer sky, and her smile radiates the joy she obviously derives from doing a line of work she enjoys.

Her schedule, of course, revolves around the weather and while some days are short, other workdays can be 12 hours long. The weather also determines the season, usually from April until October. In the off-season, she does interior painting.

Karen is humble about what she does, and if she's confident about anything, it's her knowledge of plants. What she doesn't know, she's more than eager to learn. She's certified by the Minnesota Landscaping Association and is also a state licensed tree Inspector.

Karen shares her know-how as a guest speaker at area garden club meetings and beginning May 13th, will teach ten Community Education classes on Thursday evenings at Franklin Middle School. A list of her classes can be found in the Community Education tabloid included in this issue of the Northern Watch. Karen is hoping to have a class roster previous to the beginning of each class so that she can call participants to find out what specific type of information they're looking for, tailoring the classes to the students the way she does landscaping to clients.

For more information about the classes or Karlof Garden & Landscaping, Karen can be reached at 681-1751. Like me, you'll discover an unpretentious but enthusiastic landscaper to knows and enjoys her business.

Education Associations congratulate students on Grad Test performance

President of Minnesota' teacher organizations, Minnesota Education Association (MEA) and Minnesota Federation of Teachers (MFT), offered support and congratulations to students passing Minnesota's graduation tests, and the educators who helped them reach the new standards.

In remarks aimed at students, families and educators, Judy Schaubach, president of the MEA and Sandra Peterson, president of the MFT, teamed up to say, "We know the graduation tests are a challenge for many students and we want to congratulate every student who passed the reading and the math tests."

"The students who took these important tests are experiencing a new, more accountable approach to education in Minnesota," Peterson said. "Students who passed the tests worked hard, their teachers encouraged their efforts, their families and communities supported them and we all can be proud of their achievements."

Schaubach offered encouragement to students who have not yet passed the tests, saying, "We know that every student does not pass the graduation tests the first time, but students who attend school and are willing to work to the new standards can count on their teachers, and their school community for support.

"I want to give a little extra praise to students who improved their skills over the past year, students who grew academically, even if they haven't yet passed the tests," Schaubach said. "These students have come a long way and I want them to be proud of their progress."

Peterson urged parents and community members to use the test results released today as a reminder to focus on students and their success. Peterson asked families and community members to take an active role in helping Minnesota's children succeed.

Schaubach and Peterson encouraged parents and community members to support student achievement by calling their local schools for information on family involvement activities and in-school volunteer programs.

"We support high standards for students, teachers, families and the entire community," added Schaubach. "The results released this week show that we all have an important role to play in helping Minnesota's students succeed at their highest level."

This was the third year that Minnesota's graduation skills tests have been administered, and the first year that they have been required for all Minnesota public school districts. The graduation tests are the most visible element of Minnesota's decade-long effort to adopt statewide standards for student achievement.

Community Arts Council to hold audition for play

Auditions for the musical Charlotte's Web will be held in the Northland Community and Technical College theater Wednesday, May 6, from 5 to 7 p.m.; Friday, May 8, at 7 p.m.; and Saturday, May 9, at 10 a.m. Performers age nine through adult are encouraged to try for roles in the production.

Based on the classic children's book by E. B. White, the musical is contemporary and filled with beautiful music, according to director Kari Frisch. Characters range from the loveable pig named Wilbur to the mischievous rat named Templeton.

Charlotte's Wed is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts council with funding from the Northwest Regional Development Commission. Performances are scheduled for June 24-27. For more information, call 681-6604.

Sara Rasmussen

Rasmussen is recipient of scholarship

Sara Rasmussen, daughter of Randy and Margaret Rasmussen of rural Thief River Falls, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship ($500 for each of two years) from Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL).

A 1998 graduate of Lincoln high school, Sara is one of 100 graduating high school seniors to receive the scholarship. She will attend Northland Community and Technical College for two years to study accounting and then transfer to a four-year school to complete her degree.

Scholarship recipients were selected from nearly 400 applicants based on academic record, leadership qualities, church and community involvement and extracurricular activities.

information released Thursday, of the School District 564 eighth graders taking the math and reading tests, 72 percent passed reading at or above 75 percent; and 77 percent passed at or above 75 percent in math.

Chiodo said the first and last time eighth graders were tested in both math and reading was in 1996. At that time, 54 percent passed at the 75 percent level in reading, and 79 percent in math.

Chiodo noted the significant improvement in reading scores. He added that math scores have been holding pretty evenly. Last year, 79 percent of eighth grade students taking the math only test passed.

Chiodo was encouraged by the scores. "Things look considerably better this year," he concluded.

This is the third year that Minnesota's graduation skills test have been administered, and the first year that they have been required for all Minnesota public school districts.

According to a story in the Star Tribune, Thursday, April 30, 33.2 percent of Minneapolis School District eighth graders, passed the test in 1996 on the first try.

Host families needed for 4-H international visitors

Pennington county extension office is looking for families to serve as hosts for several 4-H International visitors in the county this summer. Host families do not need to be currently involved with 4-H.

"Many families think their home or farm isn't good enough (to host an exchange student)," states Van Swanson, county extension educator. "Remember that we have a relatively high standard of living compared to many other countries, and that most of our homes would be just fine for an international visitor."

At the present time host homes are needed for the following:

Finland—One 20-year-old male and one 17-year-old female for the period from June 20 to July 20;

Norway—One 18-year-old male and one 26-year-old female for the June 20 to July 20 period;

Russia—Two 13-year-old boys from June 20 to July 20;

Switzerland—One 22-year-old male interested in dairy and beef cattle production, visiting from June 23 through September 7;

Sweden—A 20-year-old female interested in 4-H camps and farm experience, nature, baking and cooking, who will visit from June 23 through September 12.

Families who would be interested in hosting or learning more about the requirements of a host family may contact Glenice Johnson at the Pennington county extension office, phone 683-7030.

Lori Olson begins campaign for House Dist. 1B

Having received unanimous endorsement from the DFL party at its endorsing convention recently in Newfolden, Lori Bergland Olson of Thief River Falls has begun her campaign for election to the state House of Representatives from District 1B. The district includes Red Lake, Pennington and parts of Marshall and Polk counties.

Olson farms with her husband Lyle and their two sons, Krist and Shawn, in Kratka township of Pennington county. She said she plans to focus her campaign on taxation, equitable funding for area schools and the district's economy and will use the slogan, "She is one of us for all of us."

Olson earned a degree in architectural drafting and design from the Thief River Falls Technical Institute (now Northland Community and Technical College). Past employment includes serving as a field representative for Minnesota Farmers Union and manager of the Red Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District in Red Lake Falls. She has been an active volunteer in the schools and with other community organizations.

Lori Bergland Olson

At the endorsing convention in Newfolden, U. S. Congressman Collin Peterson said, "Lori will be an outstanding representative for this area. I will look forward to working with her."

Year of the tomato recalls the storied past of garden favorite

by Beattie Mickelson
Publicity Chairman
13th Dist. Horticultural Society

Did you know that tomatoes were originally considered poisonous? Early herbal books said "this plant is more pleasant to the sight that either to the taste or smell because the fruit being eaten provoketh loathing and vomiting."

Thomas Jefferson raised them as an ornamental plant at Monticello in 1781. In the 1830s, people in North America began to relish tomatoes as food.

In 1820, in Salem, New Jersey, Colonel Robert Gibbon Johnson staged an event to eat a basketful of tomatoes at the local courthouse. An audience gathered to watch the colonel die. Col. Johnson survived and slowly people began to accept the tomato.

In 1835 tomatoes were readily available in local markets. In 1880 there were six types of tomato seed available in garden seed catalogues. In 1949 the first hybrids were released giving us the large, smooth, red tomatoes we know today.

Tomatoes are divided into two basic types—determinate and indeterminate—based on their growing habits. Determinate plants grow to a certain height and then stop. They set all their fruit within a relatively short period of time with more of the fruit on a single plant ripening at one time.

Indeterminate plants keep on growing and setting fruit. These plants will do better if they are staked. Indeterminate varieties will have some fruit ripening and blossoms being set all at the same time.

Plants are also labeled as early, midseason or late varieties. This refers to the number of days it will take the plant to produce ripe fruit after it is transplanted into the garden.

When looking through a garden seed catalog, you will also see letters like VFN. These letters describe diseases that particular variety is resistant to. V stands for verticulum wilt; F stands for fusarium wilt. There is no cure for these diseases that cause yellowing of the leaves, wilting and early death. N stands for nematodes—tiny worms that live in the soil, causing stunting of the plants and poor crops. Don't let anyone smoke in the garden, since they can infect plants with tobacco mosaic virus.

Tomatoes are also classified by fruit shape. There are five major fruit shapes: cherry, plum, pear, standard and beefsteak. Cherry varieties weigh one-fourth to one ounce. They are produced in clusters like grapes but have a tendency to crack if not picked regularly.

The plum and pear tomatoes are the fruit shapes as described and weigh between two and six ounces. They usually have meaty interiors, thick fruit walls and less gel than others.

Standard tomatoes are round to globe shape and may weigh four to eight ounces. The beefsteak type can be two pounds or more, depending on variety and is usually oblate shaped.

Although we usually think of tomatoes as being red, they do come in other colors from creamy white to lime green, pink, yellow and golden orange.

There are three fruit disorders that often affect tomatoes: Blossom-end rot, cracking or catfacing and sunscald. Blossom-end rot begins with 10 lesions on the blossom end of the tomato. The lesions enlarge and become a dark sunken area. Rot begins when fruit are about half developed and appears during periods of high growth or when soil moisture is alternately high or low.

Any soil condition that affects the plants' uptake of calcium can result in the rot. To help control this rot, try adding calcium soil amendments, water during dry weather and use a mulch to maintain more uniform soil moisture.

Cracking usually occurs near the fruit stem while catfacing occurs near the blossom end. These are caused by environmental conditions such as fast growth caused by high temperatures or moisture levels, initial fruit growth during a dry spell followed by heavy rain or watering, or excessive swings in day and night temperatures. There are some varieties such as "Big Beef" that are resistant to cracking and catfacing.

Sunscald is the sun burning the tomato skin causing white, shiny blisters on areas which are exposed to the sun. Normal leaf cover keeps the tomatoes in the shade. Sunscald can occur due to excessive pruning, insect damage to leaves or foliage disease causing leaf loss.

As I looked through a number of garden seed catalogs, I found a large number of terms used to describe the various varieties. One catalog said "all tomatoes ripen with the accumulation of growing degree or heat units. Smaller fruited varieties require about 1,100." Early varieties that have three to four-inch fruits require about 1,500 heat units. Some varieties are listed as being pathenocarpit because they will set fruit at a colder temperature than most varieties. Heirloom tomatoes or old traditional varieties usually have much better flavor. Italian sauce or paste tomatoes are characterized by their pear shape, more flesh and smaller juice sack.

In the later years storage tomatoes have been developed that will keep up to three months or longer after picking. Other terms used are "low acid, highest amount of Vitamin A, juicy with thin skin, prolific vine, fruit are large and pink with ruffles like a pleated dress."

Tomatoes in general provide 15-17 of the 20 amino acids needed for protein synthesis, including lycopene which is believed to help prevent several types of cancer.

Following are some quotes from the seed catalogs regarding various varieties of tomatoes:

"Naturally high in pectin, Italian Gold was bred for sauce and paste production, making meaty, rich sauces and salsa of exceptional flavour and quality."

"Marigold and Basil both are considered to help tomatoes grow more fruitfully if planted nearby. Basil is also considered an insect repellent and marigolds have been found to help repel white fly."

"Oxheart—the Heart tomato, a large heart-shaped pink tomato frequently showing two inches thick without a seed cavity."

"White Beauty. Sweet and completely white, inside and out. Highest sugar content of all tomatoes we carry."

"Stuffing tomatoes; ready to stuff when you pick them. They're mild, firm, bright red and hollow except for a few seeds around the core."

"Globe to slightly flattened shape. Bright red and meaty with a lot of flavor and aroma."

"Brandywine—the best and most popular heirloom tomato. A heavy producer of rough, deeply lobed, slightly purplish-red fruit."

AAS winner means that the variety was selected as an All American winner in that year.

"Early slicing tomato, high in natural sugars, fine for peeling and canning, flesh very solid, mild in flavor, low in acid. Highly recommended for salads."

"Goliath VFFNTASt—65 days. We challenge one and all to try to find a single thing wrong with this majestic tomato—every inch a king, from its beautiful, smooth, bright red, deep oblate fruits averaging 10 to 15 ounces to a sweet, luscious flavor that lives up to its picture-perfect, virtually blemish-free exterior."

"A good paste tomato is much drier and meatier than a slicing tomato so that it cooks or dries quickly yet holds its flavor."

"A vegetable fertilizer high in phosphorus added twice—first when set outside and then when fruit has started to form will ensure early ripening."

Bergeson Compact Dogwood

The Bergeson Compact Dogwood, introduced by Melvin Bergeson and available at Bergeson Nursery, is one of the toughest, hardiest shrubs available.

Unlike many dogwood, the Bergeson Compact Dogwood grows densely and seldom needs trimming. Its branches are a brilliant red in the winter. It blooms white in the spring. The leaves are a rich green in the summer, and turn bright cherry-red in the fall.

The Bergeson Compact Dogwood makes an ideal large hedge. It also works well as a foundation planting next to larger houses. It requires little maintenance - in fact, all one needs to do to keep it looking neat is cut the plant to the ground every couple of years and let it come fresh.

For hardiness, showiness, durability, and ease of care, the Bergeson compact Dogwood is hard to beat.

PLANT THEM BARE ROOT: Like a majority of trees and shrubs, the Bergeson Compact Dogwood is easily planted bare root. Bare root trees and shrubs are just as large as potted ones, but have no soil on the roots. Bare root plants are less expensive, easy to transport, easy to plant, and much easier to maintain after planting.

The Time To Plant Is Now!

Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

Spring SEMINARS:

Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served.

Class: Tips on chemicals and fertilizers for home gardeners.
Demonstration: Preparing the soil for spring planting.

•May 9: Annuals and Perennials
Class: What's New for 1998
Demonstration: Designing and planting your own planters.

Please try to wait to plant garden plants until the danger of frost has passed. The average time of last frost is mid-May. Although the warm weather makes it tempting to get a head start on your garden, one frost can make a mess of things. Trees and shrubs can go in any time

Geraniums and coneflowers top annuals and perennials

by Beattie Mickelson
Publicity Chairperson
13th Dist. Horticultural Society

According to the National Garden Bureau, 1998 is the Year of the Tomato and Geranium with the purple coneflower selected as the perennial of the year.

The purple coneflower is a prairie plant native to the eastern half of the United States. The two to four-foot plants like to grow in clumps. They have showy blossoms with bronze cone-shaped centers and drooping daisy-like petals. The centers are often referred to as pincushions and the stiff and sturdy stalks stand as erect as palace guards.

From early spring to late autumn for years to come, planting perennials will accent your yard and garden beautifully.

Nothing fazes them—heat, sun, drought, insects or wind. They'll care for themselves and always look neat, even after the flowers have faded!

The plant has also been called Indian root or scurvy root, because it was at one time used to treat snake bites, scurvy and other illnesses. Research studies have found substances in the plant that can help fight viruses. Its dried roots are sold in different forms and used to combat colds, flu and other infections. When cut, the flowers are long-lasting. The cone centers dry beautifully for winter or permanent arrangements. The way the blossoms droop is also referred to as hoop skirts. They are "solid proof from Mother Nature that redheads should wear pink."

One garden seed catalog had coneflowers listed under the medicinal herb section. One variety is said to "stimulate the immune system in production of white blood cells and increase lymphatic filtration, thereby helping to fight infections, both viral and bacterial. The plant is also reported to have tumor inhibiting properties."

There are a few varieties of coneflowers available, some white, yellow, various shades of pink and with the petals more erect instead of drooping. Seeds can also be found in wildflower mixtures and bird and butterfly mixtures.

Geraniums are believed to be the most popular flowering plant in the United States. They are grown as indoor plants, outdoor plants and container plants. The annual geraniums we grow most often are divided into four basic types: Zonal or common, ivy-leafed, regal or Martha Washington and scented-leaf. Some can be grown from seed but most are propagated vegetatively by cuttings.

Geraniums like full sun and need to be fertilized about once a month. Early colonists associated geraniums with home and hospitality, and when settlers headed west, the geraniums went with them. Thomas Jefferson brought geraniums from France in the 1770s and the 1780s.

Geranium flowers are composed of a cluster of florets and each floret is either single, semi-double or double (only one type to a plant), one color or bicolor.

Zonal geraniums can be grown from seed or cutting. If they are grown from seed, the flowers tend to shatter but their colors can be spectacular and include a wide range: bright red, scarlet, scarlet and white, orange-salmon, coral, pink and white, soft pink, hot pink, pure white and lavender.

Vegetatively propagated geraniums can have single, double or semi-double florets. This is the only way, at the present time, that Martha Washington and scented-leaf geraniums can be propagated. Ivy geraniums have a unique blossom. The star-like flowers bloom in small clusters on long glossy-leaved stalks. Martha Washington geraniums have large, showy flowers that bloom in loose round clusters. Each flower can be up to three inches wide.

The common or zonal geraniums have long-lasting flowers and continuous blooms. Older varieties used to get tall and straggly but new varieties stay more compact, growing 12 to 18 inches tall. The leaves of scented geraniums are used in potpourri and perfumes and to flavor jellies.

Keeping the Lawn in Shape Makes a Yard Look Beautiful

With the return of spring, homeowners begin to work on their yard, planting everything from beautiful floral borders to huge vegetable gardens. However, if their lawn doesn't look lush and green, the yard can lose its appeal and all of the work put into it could be for naught.

To help homeowners maintain a healthy lawn, The Lawn Institute recommends that they have a lawn-care program that works.

Many lawn-care experts believe that a majority of lawn problems are a result of not mowing at the proper height and not keeping the lawn-mower's blade sharpened throughout the mowing season. Every type of grass has a specific height for optimum performance. Keeping grass at its best growing height will increase a lawn's density and attractiveness — and reduce problems.

A simple rule of thumb to follow when mowing is never to remove more than one-third of the leaf surface each time the lawn is mowed. Leaf surface, or cutting height, refers to the length of grass above the soil. According to the Institute, cutting below the optimum height impedes root development, which is essential to having a dense, healthy lawn.

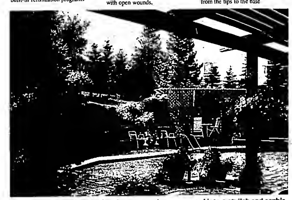
Also, homeowners don't have to collect the grass clippings after they finish mowing. These clippings decompose quickly and put nutrients back into the soil, like a built-in fertilization program.

When it comes to watering a lawn, the institute says that the best lawns grow when they are watered heavily at infrequent intervals. On average, a lawn needs about 1 inch of water a week, either from rain or irrigation during the growing season. This inch of water normally will soak the soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches, which allows the water to reach deep into the root system.

Homeowners should determine the rate of application of their sprinkler system to set up any irrigation program. An easy way to do this is to set out a series of cans if they have an underground sprinkler system or a couple of cans if they use a single sprinkler. After running the system for 30 minutes, they can measure the water in the cans and determine the length of time it will take to apply 1 inch of water.

The best times to water a lawn are in the early morning or early evening, when there generally is less wind and heat. The least desirable times are in the heat of the afternoon when water evaporates too quickly, and very late in the evening, which can cause the lawn to stay wet all night. This encourages disease development.

With these tips, homeowners can be well on their way to a healthy, lush lawn — and a beautiful yard.



Spring is not the time to prune Oak Trees

Don't be tempted to get an early start on spring by pruning oak trees. Beetles that spread oak wilt disease are attracted by the smell of freshly-cut branches, says Chad Behrendt, plant pathologist with the University of Minnesota's Extension Service.

The warm weather this spring has prompted trees and shrubs to leaf out earlier, and may have encouraged earlier activity by "picnic beetle" insects that can spread oak wilt. The insects, which are usually active between April 15 and July 1, are attracted to oak trees with open wounds.

Oaks should never be pruned during this time, and homeowners should try to avoid damaging the trees during construction projects. If oak trees are wounded, a dressing should be applied immediately to the wounded area. Although the dressing doesn't help the tree heal, it provides a barrier to help keep the fungus from entering.

Oak wilt is fungal disease that results in plugging the tree's internal tissues that conduct water. As the tissues become plugged, the tree wilts from the top down. Individual leaves on an infected tree also wilt from the tips to the base.

The key to a beautiful yard is robust potted plants. A well-prepared, peat-based soil mix gives proper nourishment and soil aeration, which results in a flourish of plant health and exploding blossoms. Lattice, trellis and multilevel brickwork add dimension and further metamorphose your yard into a stylish and sophisticated outdoor haven. Perfect for quiet, solitary moments and festive gatherings, your yard easily can become an Eden for all seasonal (Photo courtesy of Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss Association)

Plant shade trees to reduce need for air conditioning

May is the busiest month of the year for Minnesota gardeners and landscapers. If you are among those expecting to plant trees or shrubs this Arbor Month, the Minnesota Department of Public Services (DPS) suggests you consider planting to increase the comfort of your indoor environment and reduce future energy costs.

"The home shaded from the summer sun by strategically planted shade trees is cooler, and the need for air conditioning is reduced," said DPS Commissioner Kris Sanda. "Studies conform what people know intuitively, trees are good for the environment."

Strategic planting means to locate the trees and shrubs where they provide the most value. The three major principles of energy saving landscaping are:

• Shade west and east windows. Give highest priority to planting shade trees due west of west windows; planting trees east of east-facing windows is the next priority. Select a tree that can be planted within 20 feet of the window and will grow at least 10 feet taller than the window. If space permits, create a continuous planting along all major west and east windows.

• Avoid trees south of windows. In summer, when the sun is high in the sky at midday, the shadow of a tree falls directly under the tree and misses the home to the north. In winter, however, when the sun is low in the southern sky, the shadow of the same tree will fall on the house through most of the day. Even though the deciduous tree is leafless in winter, shade from the branches reduces beneficial heat gain from the sun.

• Create windbreaks. The shelterbelts planted on farmsteads across the Midwest testify to the ability of trees to filter wind and reduce soil erosion. For urban homeowners with sufficient space, planting a shelterbelt of evergreen trees shields the home from harsh winter winds. Usually, the shelterbelt runs along the west and north sides of the property.

To help ensure a successful planting, DPS makes these suggestions:

• Buy a good tree. Look for good branching structure and a root system big enough to support the tree. It doesn't hurt to start with a small, less expensive tree. With proper care, a small tree will reach the beneficial size close to the same time as a tree that started large.

• Plant it right. Dig a broad shallow planting area the depth of the root ball and about five times the width of the root ball. After planting, mulch a large area around the tree, and throughout the growing season generously water the whole planting area on a weekly basis.

Recommend trees. Good choices for shade trees, depending on local soil conditions, include red and sugar maple, white ash, and Kentucky coffee tree. Trees appropriate for windbreaks include Norway, Black Hills, and Colorado spruce, Douglas fir, and American arborvitae.

More information on tree planting to save energy is available in a publication, Energy Saving Landscapes: The Minnesota Homeowner's Guide. For a free copy, call the DPS Energy Information Center at 612-296-5175 in the Twin Cities area, or 800-657-3710 from elsewhere in Minnesota.

Select best tree or shrub for your yard

Nurseries and garden centers know how to appeal to the Johnny Appleseed in all homeowners. Young trees and shrubs hold the promise of future shade, fall color and sometimes even tasty fruits and nuts. Selecting a species that you'll enjoy for years to come, however, should involve more than just checking a nursery tag for information on size and winter hardiness.

Gary Johnson, urban and community forestry specialist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service, suggests an ecosystem approach to selecting the best planting for your yard. This takes into account your area's soil type, precipitation, topography and natural vegetation.

"Minnesota is an ecologically diverse state and not all trees do well in every planting situation," Johnson says. "Selecting trees that will grow into healthy additions to our yards requires knowing the planting site and carefully matching trees to that environment."

He says some people blindly favor so-called native species over introduced or non-native species, but this approach can be short-sighted. "What the term native implies is that it is native to a certain niche in the environment," Johnson says. "Unless your yard is identical to that ecological niche it may not do well, while other introduced species may thrive."

Johnson said, for example, that several of the metropolitan Twin Cities counties are ecologically typical of the Big Woods. Modern day factors can change that, however. These can include the amount of topsoil that developers have left behind, soil compaction from foot traffic and development and even salty winter road spray and runoff. These factors might spell doom for a native Big Woods species tree such as an oak, maple or basswood, while certain introduced species could still do well.

Johnson encourages homeowners to research their tree selections carefully. "Too often, tree selections are based on what a nursery is promoting or what a neighbor has planted, not on a good analysis of the site and conditions."

To aid in tree selection, Johnson and several colleagues have collaborated on a series of region-specific publications that classify a wide variety of trees as recommended, limited or suitable for certain specific sites or conditions. Each publication lists a wide variety of deciduous and confer species and outlines size, fall color, suitability for street landscaping, shade tolerance and flower production. The guides are: FO-6574-S recommended trees for southeast Minnesota; FO-6575-S recommended trees for southwest Minnesota, FO-6945-S recommended trees for northwest and central Minnesota.

Each publication sells for $3 (Minnesota residents at 7 percent sales tax), plus $2 for shipping and handling. To order, send a check payable to the University of Minnesota Extension Service, Distribution Center, 1420 Eckles Ave., St. Paul, MN 55108-6069. To order by credit card, call 1-800-876-8636 or 624-4900 in the Twin Cities area.

Give your yard a new look by adding some shrubs or rearranging plants. For the healthiest soil when transplanting, mix one part Canadian sphagnum peat moss with two parts soil removed from the planting hole. Place the new tree or shrub in hole, backfill with mixture around the root ball, and water.

Yards Need 'Spring Cleaning,' Too

When spring cleaning this year, don't forget about the yard. Trees, shrubs, plants and flowers need just as much attention as the rest of your home.

There are a lot of products that will help to perk up the outside of your house and keep it looking good throughout the summer.

One of the first things you can do to give your yard a fresh look is to get the landscape beds in shape. The best way to do this is by using landscape fabrics, which professionals have been using for years. Instead of fussing with messy chemicals or the old black plastic, more home gardeners are using one of the landscape fabrics, which stops weeds by blocking out the light that the weeds need to grow. At the same time, this fabric permits the flow of water and air which are essential for plant growth. It is easy to use and can last for several years in direct exposure to the sun.

WeedBlock is great to use before the temperatures rise, because it also helps retain moisture so that landscape beds will be prepared for the hot summer months. You'll spend less time pulling weeds in the hot sun.

Using landscape fabric is easy. Prepare your landscape bed, spread the fabric over the plants, cut holes to the sizes needed and pull the fabric down around the plants. Then, spread mulch, bark or stone over the fabric.

Another way to give your yard a fresh look is by planting new plants and flowers. A nontoxic spray, helps plants prosper by protecting them from transplant shock, summer heat, wind and winter stress.

This spray is an acrylic polymer antitranspirant which forms a thin film that reduces water loss through the leaf but still lets the leaf breathe normally. It helps hold the moisture in plants, which is important for new plants because their roots haven't become sufficiently established to search for water.

Once all of your new spring plants are in place, the next step is to nourish them well. One of the best ways to do this is by using fertilizer spikes. The spikes feed plants at the root and continuously provide them with the right amount of nutrients.

Easy to insert, the spikes aren't messy and won't wash through when watered. When you're ready to use them, just water the area where they're to be placed. Then, hammer the spike 1 to 2 inches below the ground's surface around the plant's drip line.

Don't forget to perk up your existing plants with these spikes, which are inexpensive and available in specific formulas for a wide variety of plants and trees.

A great way to add a finishing touch to your yard is by using edging. There are several different types of easy-to-use edging on the market today that offer a neat and clean appearance, a decorative look, and a barrier between your landscape beds and your lawn.

Plastic edging won't rot, rust, crack, chip or fade and comes in lightweight sections that securely connect to form a continuous border and barrier. Easy to cut, the edging is durable, yet flexible enough to create curves and nice rings.

To use this popular product, lay a garden hose in the desired edging position, and drive the edging into the ground by striking the scalloped top with a mallet. To ensure placement and to maintain a barrier above the surface, be sure to drive the edging 3 to 4 inches into the ground.

For a decorative look, you may want to try TerraCotta Tiles, which feature the handsome look of terracotta but boast the strength of high-density, UV-treated polypropylene. This edging also is available in authentic stone color.

These tiles are simple to use and will last for years. The product comes in packages of four tiles that create a 3-foot border in both straight and curved lines.

To edge with TerraCotta Tiles, place a hose in the desired edging position, and use a shovel or spade to create a wedged opening next to the hose. Then, push the tiles into the ground as far as they will go.

Remember, when you're spring cleaning this year, don't forget your yard. With so many easy-to-use garden products available, it should be a breeze to spruce up your yard and keep it looking great throughout the summer.

Give your landscape beds an attractive border.

Legion members approve sale of building to county

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday night, American Legion Post 117 members in Thief River Falls voted to accept an offer to sell its club building in downtown Thief River Falls. By a vote of 57 to 49, club members voted to accept the $250,000 offer from Pennington County, which is studying plans to turn it into a minimum security facility to support its overcrowded jail.

There are 742 members of the club, but only 106 exercised their option to vote on the issue. Chuck Richards, Post Commander, said all members were sent a letter about the meeting and vote on the offer.

Richards said the next step for the Legion involves establishing a building committee. The club board has looked at a couple pieces of property already, but the building committee would be charged with continuing the process, and ironing out more of the specifics. He said the club will retain the southerly 50 feet of its property, but they need to determine if that's enough room for a smaller building.

Richards noted that the Legion Club in Red Lake Falls is expanding. He explained that Thief River Falls was in a similar position many years ago when it built its current club facilities. The city didn't have the banquet facilities or space to hold meetings that it does now. Circumstances are different now, he said; the club rarely uses the full space available in the building.

Richards said declining membership and participation in club activities were certainly part of the reason they considered the offer. In his estimation, however, the main reason they considered the offer was because it was a concrete offer.

The building does have its faults. "It's an old building and there have been some problems with maintenance. When a building gets that old it starts to deteriorate," he said.

Richards, a former Pennington County Sheriff, remembers how much work was put into getting the current jail built. Richards said he didn't want the jail issue to be a part of the vote, but it came into play more than he had expected. Nevertheless, the members voted to accept the offer.

Richards said he doesn't know when they have to be out of the building. That's one of the things that has to be negotiated, he said.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe said county board members are trying to organize a meeting to work out some of those details.

The county pursued the building because of overcrowding at the jail. The jail has a variance to hold 22 prisoners, but was originally permitted to hold 14. Moe said the jail has been operating at capacity for some time now. In addition, people are waiting to serve time at the jail, and he has about 800 warrants in a file drawer waiting to be served.

Plans for the building had included housing a crew of state prisoners in the building. Those prisoners would, among other things, renovate or build homes in the area. Moe said Wednesday that there aren't any funds for building homes in the community. The current state prison work crew housed at the jail in Pennington county are committed to Tri-Valley Opportunity Council in Crookston. Moe said that the crew has been permitted to do some work in Pennington county, specifically on facilities in the park in St. Hilaire, and in Oakland Park in Thief River Falls.

Moe said he is excited about the decision by Legion members and getting started on the project. "We have some direction now, and know where we're going," he added.

NWRDC awards arts funds to several groups

Northwest Regional Development Commission (NWRDC) recently awarded funds for arts programs in northwestern Minnesota.

With funding provided by the Minnesota State Legislature, awards totaling $16,470 were given for local regional arts development projects, and $2,125 were given for small arts projects. With funding provided by the McKnight Foundation, an award of $365 was given for an individual artist grant, and award of $750 was given for three student individual artist grants, and $1,000 was given for a training and development grant.

Local Regional Arts Program

Under the local regional arts development program, Red Lake Falls public schools was awarded $1,080 for the sponsorship of the graphic art residency with Vivienne Morgan on April 20, 27-29, September 28-29, 1998, and $1,460 for the sponsorship of the painting residence with Elizabeth Manfredi September 14-18.

Thief River Falls Community Education will receive $2,500 for two performances of "Kids on the 50's" June 1-2. Northland student senate at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls received one of two major awards at the spring general assembly of the Minnesota Community College Student Association. The NCTC senate was selected among 21 community college student government groups as "Most Improved Senate of the Year." Members (from left) include, seated, Amber Berg, Middle River; Jennifer Gustafson, Warroad; Paula Hovde, Roseau; and Melissa Lawrence, Thief River Falls; standing, Dean Amundson, Sauk Rapids; Cami Sorenson and Stacy Narlock, Thief River Falls; Carrie Cameron and Nic Thompson, Warroad; Rayna Benson, Pelican Rapids; Chris Sorenson, Luverne; Devin Grugel, Roosevelt; and Melissa Bernstein, Grygla.

NCTC student senate named most improved in Minnesota

Student senate at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls has been selected "Most Improved Senate of the Year" by the Minnesota Community College Student Association. The award was presented recently at the association's spring general assembly at Cragun's Resort near Brainerd.

The award is given annually among the 21 two-year colleges in the association to the student senate judged to have improved the most from one year to the next in local, regional and statewide participation.

"I think the award has a lot to do with our regional and state involvement this school year," says Jennifer Gustafson of Warroad, who has served as regional liaison member. "One or more of us have been at virtually every regional and state meeting and have actively taken part in activities at those levels."

Gustafson said this participation included the fall and spring state assemblies, monthly council president's meetings, regional meetings each month and two lobby days at the State Capitol in St. Paul. As a member of the statewide diversity committee, Gustafson herself has been part of a group to put on workshops on race, gender and age diversity at a number of campuses.

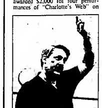
"Our local activity has been really good, too," adds Cami Sorenson of Thief River Falls. She and Stacy Narlock of Thief River Falls are secretaries who have been instrumental in keeping students and others informed of what is going on locally and statewide.

Sorenson pointed out larger participation in student life activities including foreign films, business movie night, increased participation in the annual blood drive (53 donated blood this year), a highly successful Santa Claus night, moonlight bowling, special event and regular dances, Kick Off Week, Spring Fling and Halloween costume dance for students and student-community events such as homecoming and sno-fest.

The Santa Claus night involved the student senate purchasing gifts for the children of students and staff and distributing them at a party in the college cafeteria. It was so well received that the $1,800 expense was well over budget.

"Santa night turned out to be a lot bigger than expected, but that was good," notes advisor Rick Nelson. "We can find ways to solve those situations."

Nelson said the most improved senate award was a very special one for the local group because the effort to merge separate community college and technical college student senates into one organization involved melding two completely different philosophies into one. As of July 1 this year, the state community college and technical college student associations will merge into one body with 47 member senates.



"This award goes to show what our student body can do when it's willing to work together, put down both existing philosophies, create a new one, take down fences and work together to do what's right for students in the educational process.

"I'm very pleased with the young men and women who are participating in the senate," he added, "and who have taken the leadership role on our combined campus. They are very deserving of this honor."

Fire caused extensive damage to the Jan Klopp residence and garage at 1011 North Duluth early Wednesday morning. The fire department received a report of the fire at 12:22 a.m. May 6. No one was injured. The fire apparently spread from the garage to a covered porch between the house and the garage to the house. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

The Lyon's Share makes its debut on sports pages

Making its debut in the Northern Watch this week is a new outdoor sports column written by Tim Lyon of Baudette and dubbed The Lyon's Share. It will deal primarily with the fishing destination of choice for hundreds of our readers—Lake of the Woods.

A transplanted Rhode Island commercial fisherman, Lyon has spent the last 14 years floating around Lake of the Woods. Having spent the bulk of that time at Sunset Lodge on Oak Island, he is familiar with both U.S. and Canadian water and the politics that go with that territory.

Tim is a summer fishing guide and in the winter runs a "sleeper" fish house business off the south rim of the lake where he lives with his wife Deb and two children, Sam and Alex.

While The Lyon's Share will keep up to date on fishing conditions for Lake of the Woods, look for Tim's writing to be more than a "how to, where to, when to" fishing column. Read it each week on the Northern Watch sports pages.

Buddy Magnusson named 9th District Fairperson of Year

Roseau - Buddy Magnusson, a member of the Roseau County Fair Board since 1970 and its secretary since 1987, was named 9th District Fairperson of the Year at the recent convention of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

While another secretary keeps the books and pays the bills, Buddy refers to himself as the fair's "organizer and troubleshooter."

While he appreciates the award from his peers, Magnusson recognizes that without the help of many volunteers, the Roseau County Fair would not be the success that it is. Warroad Pioneer

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I see the little sprouts of rhubarb coming up, so it is time for a bunch of ways to use it.

If you have lots of rhubarb, this is a tasty way to use it, and wouldn't it be great for those graduations and other parties coming up:

RHUBARB PUNCH

2 pounds tender rhubarb
Sugar - 1/3 cup per cup of juice
5 cups water

Boil rhubarb in water until tender. Drain through a sieve. Add sugar to taste. This is the base and may be canned or frozen and used later.

To make punch, add the following to the rhubarb juice:
1 (6 ounce) can frozen orange juice
4 cups water
1 (6 ounce) can frozen lemonade
ReaLemon to taste
Food coloring, if desired
1 quart ginger ale or other clear, fizzy pop to 1/2 gallon rhubarb juice
Ice

This is a bit different from most rhubarb recipes and a rather elegant dessert:

RHUBARB SOUR CREAM CRUNCH

Crust:
1 cup corn flake crumbs
1 cup flour
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup melted butter

Combine ingredients and mix well. Press half of mixture evenly and firmly in bottom of 9x9 inch pan, reserving remaining half.

Filling:
1 egg
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 cups diced rhubarb

Beat egg slightly. Combine with sour cream.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and cinnamon and stir into egg mixture. Add rhubarb and spread over crust. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs.

Bake at 325 degrees about 1 hour or until knife comes out clean.

Serve with whipped cream, ice cream or frozen yogurt. (Slightly larger pan may be used, if desired.)

STREUSEL RHUBARB DESSERT

Crust:
1 cup flour
1/3 cup butter
1/3 cup powdered sugar
Filling:
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups coarsely chopped rhubarb
1/4 cup flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Topping:
3/4 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup butter

To make crust, combine flour and powdered sugar. Cut in butter until crumbly. Press in bottom of ungreased 9x9 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

To make filling, combine all ingredients, blending well. Pour over crust.

For topping, combine ingredients to form crumbs and sprinkle over filling. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes, until topping is light brown and rhubarb is tender.

This is a very quick dessert that will have everyone in the family lovin' their rhubarb:

RHUBARB CAKE DESSERT

5 cups chopped rhubarb
1 cup sugar
1 (3 ounce) package strawberry gelatin
3 cups miniature marshmallows
1 white cake mix

Place rhubarb on bottom of greased cake pan. Sprinkle with sugar, then with gelatin and marshmallows.

Mix cake according to directions on box and pour over ingredients in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 55-60 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, or just plain.

I wait and wait for my little, sickly rhubarb patch to have enough rhubarb for that first pie. This one sounds easy enough to whip up in no time, as soon as those little rhubarbs grow a little more:

RHUBARB PIE

3 cups rhubarb
3 tablespoons flour
2 beaten eggs
1 cup sugar
2 pie shells

Mix all ingredients together and pour into pie shell. Bake 15 minutes at 425 degrees, then lower oven to 350 degrees and bake for 45 minutes more.

Just in case you have 'way too much rhubarb, how about trying something yummy for your toast? This is a recipe I got from my great-aunt, Emma, who had more than enough rhubarb on the farm and would make this every year. By the way, this recipe will make enough for your family and probably for Christmas gifts to everyone you know:

RHUBARB CONSERVE

5 pounds rhubarb
5 pounds sugar (12 1/2 cups)
Small can crushed pineapple
2 1/2 oranges, zest and juice with as much pulp as possible
1 1/2 lemons, zest and juice with pulp
Raisins as desired (may be ground or chopped)
1 cup walnuts

Mix chopped rhubarb and sugar and let stand overnight.

Next morning, place in large kettle and add other ingredients. Let boil slowly until thick. Place in prepared jars and cap.

Patrols look for impaired drivers during fishing opener

Safe and Sober NightCAP Patrols will be n the look out for impaired drivers during fishing opener weekend in Lake of the Woods county. The Minnesota State Patrol, the Lake of the Woods County Sheriff's department, and the Baudette Police department will work cooperative saturation patrols in the county from 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 9 through 3 a.m. on Sunday, May 10.

Troopers, deputies and police officers in the NightCAP saturations will stop drivers for any type of traffic offense — including equipment violations. State Patrol Lieutenant Marv Field says the increased number of stops in a concentrated area makes it more likely that impaired drivers will be apprehended.

DNR conservation officers will also be on the lookout for impaired drivers this weekend — on the water as well as on the roadways. Nationally, alcohol contributes to about half of the boating mishaps and fatal accidents.

Field says that new legislation effective this year means that a third OWI will result in the immediate confiscation of the vehicle being operated by the impaired driver. The law applies to all vehicles — cars, trucks, boats or any recreational vehicle.

NightCAP operations are part of the Safe and Sober Campaign, sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The campaign's goals are to reduce the number of alcohol-related crashes and increase the use of seat belts and child safety seats.

Food Waste In The Midst Of Abundance

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), more than a fourth of the food produced in this country each year is wasted. The waste takes many forms, from the prepared but unsold items in a fast food restaurant at the end of the day to the corn remaining in a harvested field.

The waste is estimated to be 96 billion pounds valued at $31 billion. Across the nation, municipalities spend about a billion dollars a year to dispose of wasted food. Recovery of just five percent of that lost food would be enough to give four million Americans a day's food... and save $50 million in landfill or disposal costs.

While the waste is going on, requests for emergency food rose an average of 16 percent last year alone, and of those seeking food aid, nearly one in five had to be turned away. Even in our area of Minnesota, where employment on average is as high as it has been in many years, demand on the area food shelf shows no sign of declining.

To combat the dual problems of hunger and food waste, the USDA recently launched a nationwide effort to recover wholesome, edible food that would otherwise be wasted and use it to feed low-income families. The federal agency is recruiting citizens, businesses, farmers and nonprofit organizations to work together to salvage food from retail and wholesale sources, post-harvested fields and the food service industry and donate the food to local food banks and soup kitchens.

Shirley Watkins, USDA's under secretary for food, nutrition and consumer services, said that USDA is throwing its full weight behind this initiative because food recovery is both a humane and economic issue.

"Hunger reduces income for American farmers and food-related businesses," she said. "Workers who are at risk of hunger are less able to help America compete effectively in the global economy; children who haven't eaten breakfast go to school unprepared to learn."

Getting the excess food to people who need it requires vision and effort, Watkins adds. Aside from volunteers, food recovery programs need equipment, transportation, computer help and organizational talent. And, of course, they need to locate unserved food, whether from grocery stores, restaurants or produce markets.

Kristin Cordoza founded the first food recovery program in Indianapolis, Indiana, and called the organization Second Helpings. It took two years to bring the operation from vision to reality, but the program began April 29. After the first year of operation Second Helpings expects to rescue and distribute 50,000 pounds of food per month.

Watkins notes that with the recent passage of the Emerson Good Samaritan Food Donation Act, citizens, businesses and non profit organization that act in good faith to donate, recover and distribute excess food are now provided legal protection. This has given a much-needed boost to participation.

Perhaps more can be done in this area of Minnesota to help recover food that would otherwise be wasted. Persons interested in finding out more about USDA's food recovery initiative and getting ideas on how and where they can help may call USDA's food recovery hotline at 1-800-453-2648. Internet users can check in at www.usda.gov/fcs/glean.htm.

Moms May Be Answer To Outcome-Based Education

Tom DeWeese of the American Policy Center says that there is a way to end the government rules, regulations, restrictions, licenses, inspections, authorizations, indoctrinations, assessments, extortions and taxes over our schools.

The answer lies, he says, in a group of patriots—"a loosely organized, ragtag band, without official leaders, without uniforms and without official orders....but armed with an overpowering idea of truth and an urgency to protect their children."

For more than 20 years, DeWeese says, a silent, almost unnoticed federal invasion of the classroom replaced basic academics with a psychology-driven, behavior-modification assault on the attitudes, values and belief of children. It took time for the programs to grow, and it was hard for Americans—who had been taught that public school was a good, safe place—began to question what was wrong. But as the federal restructuring programs began to take over the curriculum, he said, the moms knew something was different about their children.

"When the moms went to the school to get to the bottom of the problem, they were turned away or casually dismissed," DeWeese said. "More moms began asking the same questions, and they began to get angry. They started to research this new education system called Outcome-Based Education."

What they discovered, he continues, was that their kids were no longer considered to be children or students but were now "human resources." Schools were no longer places of education but "one-stop social centers." Self-esteem had become more important than math. Above all, they learned that the world of "education reform" was a dark and smelly place and no place for their children.

"And so," he says, "the war was on."

DeWeese has no lack of confidence as to who will win the war.

"Every time a mom finds her child to be a victim of education 'reform,' every time she takes those few minutes to just check on the situation, that mom finds herself unknowingly headed down a road of no return—right to our camp of freedom fighters," he said. "The more programs the social planners throw at us, the stronger we grow. Can we win? You bet we can! We've got the moms."

Greenbush FFA chapter wins in state competition

Greenbush-Middle River chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) was named the state winning FFA parliamentary procedure career development event team at the state convention recently at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

According to agricultural education instructor and FFA advisor Roger Dvergsten, the team will now compete for plaques and individual medals at the national FFA parliamentary procedure career development event to be held November 14 in Kansas City, MO, during the 71st national FFA convention.

Members of the team are Jeff Wilson, Travis Pearson, Richard Kilen, Ryan Warne, Derek Fugleberg, Nathan Smeija, Joy Smeija, Katherine Beito and Heather Dvergsten.

The Greenbush-Middle River FFA soils team placed second in the state competition. Members of that team included Chris Gust, Adam Harder and Ryan Warne.

Advisor Dvergsten said that the national FFA parliamentary procedure event is one of 18 national contests held each year at the national FFA convention. Participants apply the skills they have learned in their agricultural classrooms and use them in practical situations during the contest.

FFA members must demonstrate their ability effectively to participate in a business meeting by using parliamentary procedure in an orderly and efficient manner; present logical, realistic and convincing discussion; and keep complete accurate minutes as a record.

FFA is a national organization with 449,814 members in 7,241 local chapters throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

Paula Hovda of Roseau is president of the NCTC student senate with Devin Grugal of Roosevelt as treasurer and Sorenson and Narlock as secretaries. Other members are sophomores Jennifer Gustafson, Warroad; Nic Thompson, Warroad; Dean Amundson, Sauk Rapids; Rayna Benson, Pelican Rapids; Melissa Bernstein, Grygla; Carrie Cameron, Warroad; and Chris Sorenson, Luverne and freshmen Amber Berg, Middle River and Malissa Lawrence, Thief River Falls. Narlock is also a freshman.

"We have some strong leadership to replace with the large number of sophomores on the council this year," advisor Rick Nelson noted. "But we have some exceptional students at Northland and the example set this year can do nothing but help our student senate situation in the future."

Senate members noted that their "most improved" award is extra special this year because it will be the last one ever awarded by the MCCSA. Any such future awards will be made by the merged student association.

MONSTERS FOR YOUR GARDEN.

Monsters

Many of the new varieties of plants introduced for the garden grow so fast and so large it is scary. Bergeson Nursery carries several of the best of these fast-growing behemoths.

Both in terms of size and performance, if any plant deserves the title of 'monster', it is the Purple Wave petunia. It blooms its heart out all summer, withstands the hottest sun, grows like crazy, yet rarely complains. All the Purple Wave and the newer Pink Wave petunias ask for is lots of sun and fertilizer. Last year in our gardens one plant spread to over seven feet in diameter, covered all season with brilliant purple blooms. This year, our goal is eight feet.

The Wave petunias aren't the only monstrous plants available at Bergeson's this year. Goldfinger Tithonia, also called Mexican Sunflower, is an annual that can create a hedge over five foot high by the end of the summer. Its bright orange flowers are irresistible to Monarch butterflies.

Marguerite Daisies are amazing annual daisies that grow to the size of a small shrub and are covered with flowers all summer. They are available in two varieties: 'Sugar Baby' makes a compact mound covered with little white flowers, and 'Butterfly' is a more vigorous plant that features larger creamy-yellow flowers.

One of the favorite plants in our gardens for the past two years has been Silver Cup Lavatera. Gorgeous pink blossoms cover mounding plants that grow over three foot tall by the end of the summer. This year we also feature Mont Blanc Lavatera, with pure white flowers.

Early Splendor Amaranthus is unlike any other annual. Its young leaves are maroon, but after a certain stage of growth the new growth changes to a brilliant, glowing red. They grow to irregular height, so plant them in a cluster rather than a row for a four foot high mass of color that will have the neighbors talking.

Bergeson Nursery Carries...
All of the old favorite flower and vegetable varieties as well. Because we grow our plants in pure peat in cool greenhouses with plenty of space, our plants are stout, stocky, and dark green.

Bemidji runner Michelle Binkley was tagged out at the plate by Thief River Falls catcher Becca Leach during Tuesday's high school softball game at the fairgrounds diamond. Binkley broke for the plate from third base on a ball hit back to pitcher Stephanie Leach in the third inning. The Lumberjacks beat the Prowlers 9-0. Umpire Dan Russell made the call.

Bemidji wins softball shutout

Monday, Thief River Falls was no-hit but still managed to score a run in a 5-1 setback at Moorhead. Tuesday, the Prowlers collected seven hits, but failed to score in a 9-0 high school softball loss to Bemidji at the fairgrounds diamond.

The two decisions, coupled with an earlier 10-1 defeat at the hands of Detroit Lakes, left Thief River Falls 0-3 in North Sub-Section 8AA play. It left them 3-11 overall. The Lumberjacks returned home with a 5-11 record.

A three-run Bemidji second inning would have been enough offense for the win. All three runs were unearned. An inning-opening walk issued to Andrea Miller was followed by a sacrifice bunt and a passed ball that put her at third with two out. A potential inning-ending infield ground ball was mishandled, allowing Pam Julson to base and scored Miller. A combination stolen base/throwing error moved Julson to third. She scored on a single to short right by No. 9 hitter Rena Ellis, who stole second and scored on a base hit up the middle by Kristi Wallner.

Bemidji added an insurance run in the fifth and then blew it open by scoring five times in the top of the seventh.

The Prowlers, scheduled to be in Fergus Falls today (Saturday) for a North Sub-Section 8AA split-doubleheader against against Fergus Falls and Bemidji, will finish the 1998 regular season at home Monday vs. Kittson Central/Kittson County North.

Offensive highlights - (Bemidji) Kristi Wallner 3 hits, 3 RBI, Andrea Miller 3 hits, double.

Prowlers short on track depth

Crookston girls and Staples-Motley boys were the top point-producers Tuesday in the Section 8AA True Team high school track meet at Park Rapids.

Sponsored by the Minnesota State High School Track Coaches Association, the True Team concept awards points for every place showing instead of scoring just the top half-dozen or so finishers in each event – the format used by the Minnesota State High School League. Teams, not individuals, advance from sectional to state meet competition.

Depth is the key to success in True Team scoring, and depth is not a Thief River Falls strength, admitted Prowlers coach Tim Olson.

"We scored where we knew we would," noted Olson. "We got good performances from people we figured would do well. But our lack of depth really shows up in meets like this."

Crookston girls accumulated 546 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 533, Park Rapids Area 417.5, Wadena-Deer Creek 416.5, East Grand Forks 335, Fergus Falls 325, Perham 309, Staples-Motley 281, Thief River Falls 277.5, and Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis 109.

Staples-Motley boys finished with 523.5 points, followed by Bagley/Fosston 407.5, Fergus Falls 400, Park Rapids Area 360, Crookston 359, Wadena-Deer Creek 354, Perham 349, Detroit Lakes 323, Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis 279, East Grand Forks 261, and Thief River Falls 222.

Thief River Falls girls collected five first place finishes, with senior Becky Mooney and junior Nicole Kopari both emerging as double-event winners. Mooney won the 800 meters in 2:25.96 and took the 1600 in a meet-record 5:21.71. Kopari set meet records in winning the shot put with a toss of 42-8 and the discus with a throw of 140 feet. The shot distance also broke her own school record.

Sophomore Rachel Mathson added a win to the Thief River Falls column with a 1:02.83 in the 400 meters.

Eighth grader Chelsea Haviland wound up second in the 1600 behind Mooney with a 5:23.61 that also broke the previous meet record, and tied for second in the pole vault at 8 feet.

NCTC splits softball twinbill

Back-to-back doubleheader splits at Hibbing Tuesday and at Itasca Wednesday sent the Northland Community and Technical College softball team into the Friday-Saturday NJCAA Region 13 tournament with a 17-8 overall record.

Coming off 4-0, 12-9 doubleheader losses at Mesabi the previous Friday, the Pioneers won a first-game 3-2 decision before losing an 8-4 second-game verdict to Hibbing. They lost 4-0 in Game 1 but won 12-6 in Game 2 at Itasca.

Second game against Itasca went extra innings, with the Pioneers finally breaking out of a prolonged batting slump with a seven-hit, six-run eighth inning.

Northland got a strong performance from No. 1 pitcher Angie Vagle in the opener against the Cardinals and No. 2 pitcher Carisa Meyer turned in the "best game of her college career," according to Pioneers coach Rick Nikunen, in the first-game loss to Itasca when all four of the Vikings' runs were unearned.

But until the end of the Wednesday twinbill, the Northland bats were quiet.

"We struggled offensively for about 5 1/2 games," acknowledged Nikunen. "We finally started hitting the ball in the seventh and eighth innings against Itasca. Hopefully that will carry through the region tournament."

The Region 13 event, a two-day, five-team, round-robin event featuring mid-season qualifiers from Minnesota and Montana, was scheduled to open Friday in Willmar. Winner will move on to the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III national tournament May 21-23 in Rochester.

Tennis meet delayed

Wet weather Thursday morning forced postponement of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational boys high school tennis tournament until Friday.

Thief River Falls JV softball squad wins

Kylie Rogalla and Andrea Stinson both had a pair of hits Tuesday as Thief River Falls out-hit Bemidji 9-6 and won a 12-7 junior varsity high school softball game.

Becky Wegner was the winning pitcher.

Northland second baseman Chris Efta forced out Mesabi Range runner Justin Kerlander and made the throw to first in an attempt to complete a fifth inning double play during the first game of Tuesday's Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball doubleheader in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers got the out at second, but didn't get the call at first on the play. The Norsemen won the game 16-5.

Norsemen sweep baseball twinbill...

Big innings lead to lopsided match-up

Mesabi Range slammed the door shut on Northland's hopes of returning to the Minnesota Community College Conference state baseball tournament by clobbering the Pioneers 16-5 and 15-2 Tuesday in a Northern Division doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

Northland needed to win five of their final six regular season games – doubleheaders vs Mesabi Range, Hibbing, Vermilion – to earn an MCCC post-season berth. The Norsemen took the uncertainty out of the Pioneers' future with their offensive assault.

A bulk of the damage was done in two at-bats as the visitors scored eight times in the fifth inning of the opener and came back with a 14-run barrage in the first inning of the nightcap.

There was one out in the fifth inning of Game 1 when eight straight Mesabi Range batters reached base and scored in a frame that featured four hits, an error and seven walks.

In the next at-bat for the Norsemen to open Game 2, the first seven batters reached base and scored. There were eight hits, three errors, a hit batsman and three walks during the parade to the plate that was highlighted by a Bryan Gentile grand slam home run and a three-run homer by Chris Markas.

It was the second straight one-sided doubleheader sweep administered against the Pioneers, who were coming off similar 15-4 and 16-2 losses to Itasca. They will take an 8-14 overall record into their home finale Wednesday against Hibbing and finish the year Saturday (May 16) against Vermilion in Ely.

High blood pressure gets nursing service emphasis

Inter-County Nursing Service in Thief River Falls notes in its Public Health Points publication for May that this month is being observed as National High Blood Pressure Month.

Public Health Nurse Anita Cardinal explains that blood pressure is the force that moving blood puts on the artery walls. As the heart muscle pumps out blood, the elastic aorta (main blood vessel) is stretched until a peak pressure is reached. This peak pressure is called the systolic pressure—the top number in a blood pressure reading.

As the heart rests between beats, the elastic arteries are more relaxed but maintain enough tension to allow smooth blood flow. This tension is called diastolic pressure—the bottom number in a blood pressure reading.

Hypertension, also known as high blood pressure, is defined by an elevation of the diastolic pressure. In the majority of cases the systolic pressure also rises when the diastolic pressure increases. When the nursing service finds blood pressure of its patients remains high after three checks, they are referred to a physician for a full evaluation.

When the blood pressure remains high, the heart must work harder to pump blood to the body and blood vessels become less flexible. If left untreated, high blood pressure can lead to severe life-threatening conditions such as stroke, heart attack and heart or kidney failure.

If hypertension is diagnosed early and treatment is followed, Cardinal said, the outlook is much brighter. Studies have shown that the chances of having a stroke are reduced by 75 percent, of having a heart attack by 50 percent and of having heart or kidney failure by almost 100 percent.

While anyone can have a problem with hypertension, it tends to follow a pattern involving overweight, stress or heredity. Black Americans are more prone to high blood pressure than whites. In many people there is no known cause for hypertension.

Despite the fact that the cause may not be known, medical science has discovered how to treat and control hypertension so that is should present little risk to health.

People can do a lot on their own to help control hypertension, and much of this involves diet. Most suggestions are to avoid foods high in sodium and to use little salt in cooking or at the table. Use herbs for seasoning, buy fresh foods, avoid convenience foods and read the labels on prepared foods. Salt or sodium content may also be identified as sodium chloride, NaCl, brine, monosodium glutamate (MSG) or soy sauce.

Other suggestions are to lose weight (if necessary) gradually, combine diet with regular exercise and use a sensible diet plan prescribed by the person's own doctor. Take blood pressure medication as prescribed, learn to relax, stop smoking and exercise regularly.

"High blood pressure can be a frightening condition," Cardinal said, "but the good news is that it can be controlled in nearly everyone. The keys are early detection, proper medication and positive lifestyle changes."

State's hospitals to celebrate Hospital Week May 10-16

Minnesota's hospitals have come a long way since the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet traveled up the Mississippi from St. Louis to establish the state's first civilian hospital in St. Paul in 1854, notes Stephen Rogness, president of the Minnesota Hospital and Healthcare Partnership (MHHP).

Despite all of the advances in technology, however, the new discoveries in medical science and the changes in America's health care system, Minnesota's 139 hospitals essentially remain the same. They are places where parents go to bring their children into the world, where the ill go to heal and where families gather to say goodbye to a loved one.

To celebrate these centers of hope and healing and to honor the people who help make them work, May 10-16 has been designated National Hospital Week. Recognizing hospitals during this week of May is a tradition that can be traced back to 1921, when the first celebration was held on May 12 to honor the birthday of the pioneering hospital nurse Florence Nightingale.

Minnesota's hospitals, like those across the country, have planned a variety of activities to honor outstanding staff, volunteers and communities they serve, Rogness said.

Hospitals also will celebrate their accomplishments and contributions to the community. One of the special contributions Minnesota hospital are making is an effort called the Campaign for Coverage. Started earlier this year, the program involves hospital working to help remove the barriers standing in the way of health care coverage. The statewide goal of the Campaign for Coverage is to help 25,000 uninsured Minnesotans find basic health care coverage before the end of the millennium.

"We think this a worthwhile goal," Rogness added, "considering 400,000 Minnesotans, including about 80,000 children, do not have health insurance."

Rogness said one of the best illustrations of how hospitals can help people find health care coverage is about to get underway. With the help of a state grant, hospitals and schools across the state will soon join forces to provide information and assistance about insurance options available to students and their families.

For example, if a family is eligible for MinnesotaCare, state-subsidized health care coverage for working Minnesotans, a volunteer will help them complete the necessary forms to enroll.

"By teaming up with schools," he said, "we hope to reach a part of the community that needs our help—children."

"Health care has changed a lot in the 144 years since the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet opened the doors of their facility on Ninth Street in St. Paul, but the mission of hospitals remains the same today as it did back then: to work to better the lives of the people and the communities we serve."

Medical Ass'n. asks gun owners to lock up guns

Minnesota Medical Association, representing about 9,800 physicians in Minnesota, has issued a reminder about the Minnesota law against negligently storing or leaving a loaded firearm where a person knows, or reasonably should know, that anyone younger than age 18 is likely to gain access to it.

The association worked to pass the law in 1996 in an effort to protect children and adolescents against firearm injuries.

The association said that recent newspaper headlines—"Boy, 14, charged with shooting that kills 1" and "Four-year-old boy with gun from purse shoots 6-year-old boy to death"—highlight the need for gun owners to make sure that their guns do not fall into the hands of children or teenagers.

MMA recommends that firearms owners unload and lock their firearms before storing them and that they store ammunition separately—especially in homes where children are present.

The MMA recommends removing ammunition from firearms; using a trigger lock, barrel lock or cylinder lock or locking firearms in a case or in a gun safe; storing ammunition separately in a locked container away from heat or moisture; and carrying the keys on the owner's person or keeping them locked in a location known only to the owner.

The MMA has prepared a gun safety brochure entitled Unload It and Lock It which includes tips on how to store a gun safely and use it properly. For information, call Beth Hoheisel at 1-800-342-5662.

Public health nurses provide many services

"Public health nurses are there when you need them" is more than a slogan for Inter-County Nursing Service in Pennington county, it's a promise.

In providing home health care, the Registered Nurse will:

• Work with you and your doctor in making the best possible plan for your care at home;

• Help you keep in touch with your doctor about your problems and concerns;

• Assess your progress and report this to your doctor;

• Do special things such as change dressings or administer certain treatments;

• Teach you and your family about your special needs and be there to give you guidance in doing new and difficult things;

• Supervise the home health aide if you have one in your home, and

• Help you get in touch with other community resources if you need them.

Understand your medications; ask your physician, pharmacist

Persons receiving prescriptions for medications should be aware of not only what the drugs can do but how they can be used and what other consequences can result, according to Inter-County Nursing Service for Pennington county.

When medication is prescribed, the following questions may be asked of the doctor writing the prescription and/or the pharmacist filling it.

ASK THE DOCTOR:

• What is this medicine for? How will it help me?

• What are the side effects of this medicine? If they occur, what should I do? Which should I report to you?

• Can I increase or decrease the dosage on my own or should I call you first for advice?

• Will this medicine make me sleepy?

• Are there any other medications that I should not be taking while taking this?

• Are there foods I should avoid while taking this medicine?

• Can I drink alcoholic beverages or smoke tobacco while taking this medicine?

• Can I stop taking this medicine early if the symptoms disappear?

• How soon should I start to feel better?

• Are you prescribing tablets, caplets or liquid? (Let the doctor know if you have pronlems swallowing.)

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST:

• What time of day should I take this medicine?

• Should I take it before meals, with meals or after meals?

• When you say that I have to take this medicine every four hours, does that mean I have to wake up at night to take it?

• Can I take this pill with water, milk, orange juice or other liquids?

• What should I do if I forget to take one dose?

(Ask for your prescription in either a child-resistant container or one with an easy-off top, memory aids for taking medications and other assistance you may need.)

Greenbush Nursing home celebrates Homes for Aging

Residents, volunteers, staff and visitors are invited to celebrate "Homes for the Aging Week" on May 10-16 with the Greenbush Community Nursing Home in Greenbush.

A number of activities have been planned, including a Carnival Day on May 14 from 3 to 5 p.m. Other events include Kid's Day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on May 11, an Old Time Dance from 2 to 4 p.m. at Finetyme's on May 12, Cap and T-Shirt Day at 6:30 p.m. on May 13, and a Banana Split Party at 2 p.m. on May 15. For more information contact the Greenbush Community Nursing Home.

"Homes for the Aging Week" in Minnesota honors the state's residents of long-term care and senior housing facilities. The theme for this year's celebration is "Sharing Hearts, Caring Communities: A Celebration of Age." The theme highlights the wealth of wisdom, joy and love the elderly have to share with other generations, and the special role of those professionals who provide care and other services to the elderly.

National Community Action month declared

As part of a nationwide celebration honoring the accomplishments of Community Action Agencies, May has been declared National Community Action Month.

Bob Melby, executive director, who has been with Inter-County Community Council for 21 years, said it is indeed time to highlight the local achievements of community action. "For over 30 years, we have truly helped people to break the cycle of poverty and move to self-sufficiency."

According to Bob Melby, in the last year, Inter-County Community Council served over 7,000 low-income and disadvantaged individuals through its services involving 18 different programs. Some of these programs include basic needs programs, such as energy assistance, emergency food and shelter, mortgage and rental help, loans and grants for housing repair and home weatherization activities.

Through its Head Start program, Inter-County staff work closely with families throughout the year providing a variety of health, education and training opportunities.

Youth and senior employment training programs serve hundreds annually in a seven county northwest Minnesota area. Other programs include senior crafts, energy crisis and repairs, tax assistance and information and referral services.

Foreclosure prevention aid available from Tri-Valley

For families at risk of foreclosure on their mortgage or contract-for-deed, help is available through the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency and Tri-Valley Opportunity Council.

Foreclosure prevention assistance can offer families zero percent financing to make payments on their home of up to six months. The program is administered through Tri-Valley in Polk, Norman and Marshall counties and through Northwest Community Action Agency in Kittson, Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties.

Betty Koltes, emergency services coordinator and a financial counselor for Tri-Valley, said last year's flooding and hard times in the rural area have made it difficult for families to catch up on delinquent payments.

"Some people were out of work and they're just now getting back on their feet," she said. "Others were hit by expenses no one could have anticipated. Whatever the case, they could not make mortgage payments and now they're faced with losing their home. We want families throughout the area to know this help is available and all they have to do is give us a call."

Koltes said assistance is available for both manufactured and traditional homes in urban or rural areas. "We can apply these funds to delinquent, or potentially delinquent, payments on mortgages of property purchased through a contract-for-deed. There are also provisions for payments due on property taxes, utilities, insurance, home repair and lot rent."

The assistance cap is $4,500 or six monthly payments. Koltes says processing can take six to eight weeks and urges families who need assistance to contact her at the Tri-Valley office in Crookston, phone 218-281-5832 or toll-free at 1-800-584-7020 as soon as possible.

Another Lake of the Woods fishing opener, bringing with it the same fickle unpredictability as the annual visit from my in-laws: sometimes better than anticipated, occasionally a disaster, but most often a tolerable event that bears just enough good fruit to allow for a rescheduling the following spring.

Yeah, I know—the tradition, the camaraderie, the bonding, the deep breath of outdoors after five months of reheated fish house air. You can sell that Hallmark moment to some land-locked Illinois wannabe. This is Lake of the Woods, there are fish to catch here, and we know how to do it, right? Only the time needed to boil coffee water stands between us and a 10 a.m. limit.

So why the early season trepidation? We should be brimming with more confidence than this week's Twins opponent. Why the jitters? Because we've been here and done this. Because for Lake of the Woods, the most consistent walleye producer in Minnesota, the opener is certainly the most inconsistent time of the year.

Consider the magnitude of the variables. Read any "opener" article and count how many times water temperature is referenced. More than any other influence, your opener experience will be a reflection of the water temperature as walleyes take their spawning cues from the environment. And on a body of water this size, the factors dictating that condition are many.

The daily temperatures in April have had a more significant impact than any warm day or two in the week prior to Saturday's opening day. It takes a lot of energy to raise a million acres of cold water even a single degree. The amount of current in streams entering the lake is important; runoff is warmer than water in the recently frozen body of the lake. The amount of coloration in that flow, also, can speed the heating process by absorbing sunlight.

Has the month prior been sunny, windy or rainy? Remember, Lake of the Woods is big enough to be discussed in these seasonal generalities for it is in general terms that we'll overcome the latitudinal drawbacks inherent to existence at the 49th parallel. In short, walleyes tend to be in a spawn-related funk up here when we're facing the opener, and shaking them up a little takes a sizable amount of cooperation on the part of Mother Nature.

The caveat emptor having been offered, here's the plan. Recall the Professional Walleye Trail (PWT) tournament of 1994. It's early May on the morning of Day 2 and 42 overpowered fishing boats roar in majestic unison away from the Public Landing on the Rainy River, sweeping around Wheeler's Point toward secret fishing success.

The next image we get, however, is that of 42 high-powered fishing rigs slowing to a stop a mere 200 yards past the point where they slip sheepishly among all the other boats on the lake and throw out two anchors, ready to accept the fish and fishing that the lake is presently offering.

You see, marginal success a day earlier had prompted these pros to acquiesce to local wisdom, and that wisdom dictated a slow, double anchored approach in the mouth of the Rainy River. It's patience fishing—a style I view with the same distaste as a proctological exam. It's not the kind of fishing that will ever bring the PWT back for May dates, but it will put some fish in the boat. A really good year, perhaps this year, will allow you to hoist anchor in the late afternoon and drag a spinner or a Shad-Rap across a sandbar or two, but if it's consistency you're after, keep motion to a minimum.

And while this style is a generally accepted, productive South End practice, it has yet to make serious inroads in the island community where a diversity of structure seems to demand constant motion. However, as anyone who chronicled my antics via remote broadcast on Warroad radio last spring knows, following my own advice for the opener could have saved a little of my guiding ego. The few walleyes we did catch came after seven unsuccessful hours of impatient experimentation. Anchoring and casting the flats, retrieving quarter ounce jigs in painfully slow fashion, accounted for every boated fish. Needless to say, there are no radio broadcasts looming in my immediate future.

In retrospect, this comes across with a rather gloom-and-doom tone, which was not my original intent. However, with the rest of the sport-fishing world so intent on setting you up for a fall with their "can't miss" and "warmest Spring ever" predictions, maybe you should put a little realism in your opening weekend tackle box.

Lake of the Woods is a tricky lake to fish any time. It's big and imposing and well documented. There is always a success story coming from here. Once again, look at the size and the ability to generalize that such a body of water offers. Factor in the variables associated with the opener and consistency is thrown out the window.

Let's leave it at you'll probably catch some fish on May 9, and you might do really well, but expecting too much now is unfair to the lake. Take what you're given this weekend and we'll discuss the glory days a little later this month.
